
Arts and Sciences Committee on Curriculum and Instruction
Subcommittee A
Monday, May 23th. 2005
2:00 – 3:30 pm
105A Brown Hall
Minutes

Present: Adelson, Baker, Fraatz, Greenfield, Hume, Schoen, Sylvan, Van Pelt

International Studies/Public Policy Management 670, Rebuilding Failed and Weak States, course request from 4/4/05 meeting

Guest: Trevor Brown, Public Policy Management

Approved

Arts and Sciences 375, Molecules, Humankind and History, a new course request

Approved with the following contingencies:

- The proposal should be sent to Materials Science Engineering, History, Anthropology and Economics to ensure that there were no significant concerns from any of these departments before moving the course forward.
- The syllabus should include the academic misconduct and disability statements.
- The committee would like some clarification on the participation points on the syllabus.
- The proposal should could include a brief rationale with the proposal specifying how this course fits under the category of interdisciplinary.

Discussion with Michelle Hermann about a potential interdisciplinary course, “The Making of Art.”

- Dr. Hermann joined the committee to discuss the idea of Turing a current seminar into an interdisciplinary course.