Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

- Program Learning Goals
- Goal 1: To acquire a broad understanding of the basic areas of linguistics
 - Goal 2: To strengthen critical analysis and problem solving skills
 - Goal 3: To further develop skills of oral and written expression
 - Goal 4: To understand more about the relationship between language and society
 - Goal 5: To understand how new knowledge is created through research experience
 - Goal 6: To learn potential career paths for linguistics majors

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? Yes

Does the degree program or major have an assessment plan on file with the university Office of Academic Affairs? Yes

Summarize how the program's current quarter-based assessment practices will be modified, if necessary, to fit the semester calendar.

Majors are assessed by the Linguistics Undergraduate Curriculum Committee annually through (1) graduating student exit surveys, (2) course entry and exit surveys, (3) internship reports and evaluations, (4) quarterly review of classes and (5) tracking student participation in research forums, internships, and other academic-related activities. The Undergraduate Program Coordinator collects relevant data at the end of each school year to evaluate achievement of our program's learning goals. This information is provided to the Department Chair that summer, and together with the UPC, this data is shared in the fall with department faculty in a designated faculty meeting. This method of assessment will remain unchanged during semesters as the program and course requirements for the undergraduate major remain unchanged.

Program Specializations/Sub-Plans

If you do not specify a program specialization/sub-plan it will be assumed you are submitting this program for all program specializations/sub-plans.

Pre-Major

Does this Program have a Pre-Major? Yes

There are two prerequisites to the Linguistics Major including (1) an introductory course in linguistics (Ling201/2000 or Ling 601/4000) and (2) an advanced foreign language course beyond the GEC requirement or a Linguistics field methods course (Ling550/4550 or Ling650/5551).

Dear Office of Academic Affairs:

The information in this letter lists all current programs in The Department of Linguistics, summarizes unit-level review processes for programs and course conversion, and describes processes used for continued review and evaluation of Linguistics courses and programs.

Programs. The Department of Linguistics offers five programs that will undergo semester conversion. There are no changes to the program requirements. There are new courses, however. These include only graduate level seminars that have been taught in a modified form as a general linguistics seminar. All are elective and listed in the rationale and transition policy for each graduate program.

The five linguistics programs are:

1. PhD Program
2. MA Program
3. Combined BA/MA Program
4. Undergraduate Major
5. Undergraduate Minor

Unit Level Review Processes for Semester Conversion. I have overseen the entire conversion process and developed a course of action to ensure a smooth transition. This plan included assigning department members to working groups, establishing course and program conversion goals, and developing a timeline for work to be completed. Faculty member Dr. David Odden, serves as the department liaison with the College of Arts and Humanities and reports information directly to me and to Dr. Julia McGory, the undergraduate program coordinator. Dr. McGory has collected course and program data from me, Dr. Odden, and department faculty and staff and has input these data into the electronic course approval system.

In winter quarter, 2010, faculty, two graduate students, a BA/MA student and teaching staff were assigned to eight working groups that focused on conversion of doctoral courses in six specific linguistics content areas (Historical Linguistics, Psycholinguistics, Phonetics/Phonology, Computational/Corpus Linguistics, Syntax/Semantics/Pragmatics, Field Methods/Corpus Building), the MA programs (including the BA and MA degrees), and the Undergraduate Programs (including the minor and BA degrees). The goals of each committee were to determine: (1) Linguistics courses that must be taught to complete the program degree in the semester system; (2) the semester in which courses would be offered to allow for timely completion of the program degree; and (3) changes, if any, that should be made to the program and courses that allow for both (1) and (2) above.

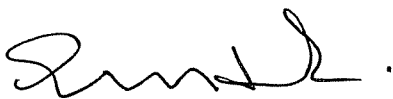

Guiding principles were established in order to ensure that course content, teaching load, and sequencing of courses were taken into consideration while developing semester plans for each Linguistics program. Guiding principles included: (1) calculations for credit conversion; (2) recommendations for maintaining same course content; and (3) recommendations for teaching load.

Conversion planning operated within a specified timetable beginning with initial discussions at faculty meetings during the 2010 winter quarter followed by working group meetings during the end of 2010 winter and spring quarters. Committees provided final drafts of proposals prior to the end of winter quarter. At this time, materials were compiled and prepared for submission. During the summer quarter, program and course materials were submitted into the PACER system by Dr. Julia McGory.

To oversee the continued development of all programs before, during, and after semester conversion, departmental committees exist that will continue to monitor the success of Linguistics programs. The MA and PhD programs are reviewed by the Graduate Studies Committee. The undergraduate programs and courses are overseen by the Linguistics Undergraduate Curriculum Committee. Members include two faculty members, the Undergraduate Coordinator and the TA Coordinator. The combined BA/MA program is overseen by the Undergraduate Coordinator (representing the BA side) and the Graduate Studies Committee (representing the MA side). Each committee reports to the department chair who shares information with department faculty and staff at linguistics department meetings.

On behalf of the Department of Linguistics, I recommend for approval each of the five Linguistics Programs: the Linguistics Minor program, the Bachelor's of Arts program, the Combined Bachelor and Master's program, The Master's program, and The Doctorate of Philosophy program.

Sincerely,

Dr. Elizabeth Hume
Department Chair

CURRICULAR MAP for the UNDERGRADUATE MAJOR IN LINGUISTICS, BA PROGRAM

THE LINGUISTICS MAJOR PROGRAM

Bachelors of Arts Degree

This document includes the following:

1. Rationale
2. List of Semester Courses
3. Semester and Quarter Advising Sheets
4. Transition Policy

1. Program Rationale Statement

Development of the Linguistics undergraduate program and courses is a continual process that is overseen by the Linguistics Undergraduate Curriculum Committee. Members include two faculty members, the Undergraduate Coordinator and the TA Coordinator. Currently, there are no revisions to the major or to undergraduate course offerings, other than conversion-related renumbering. We do not expect there to be any significant changes in the frequency of offering or our ability to accommodate undergraduate students.

2. List of Semester Courses

Prerequisite Courses: One (3 credits) of the following

- 2000 Introduction to Language in the Humanities
- 2000H Introduction to Language in the Humanities
- 4000 Introduction to Linguistics
- 4550 Introduction to Linguistic Field Methods

Required Core Courses: Three (9 credits) of the following

- 4200 Syntax
- 4300 Phonology
- 4100 Phonetics

Elective Core Courses: Two (6 credits) of the following

- 4550 Introduction to Linguistic Field Methods
- 2602 Language and Social Identity in the U.S.
- 2602H Language and Social Identity in the U.S.
- 2603 Language across Cultures
- 2701 Language and the Mind

3A. Semester Advising Sheet

UNDERGRADUATE MAJOR IN LINGUISTICS Semester Advising Sheet

Linguistics Advisor and Undergraduate Program Coordinator:

Dr. Julie McGory advisor@ling.osu.edu

Department of Linguistics website: <http://www.ling.osu.edu/>

Nothing characterizes the nature of humans more than the ability to use language. In linguistics, one studies languages; not to learn how to read, write, or speak them, but to understand how they work, how they change, how children learn them, and how they are used. Concern for the role of language in human life makes linguistics a humanistic discipline. However, since linguistics is concerned with the systematic explanation of facts about language, it is also a science.

The undergraduate program in linguistics permits a student to combine a broad spectrum of humanistic and scientific interests and to strengthen his/her analytic skills. The student is encouraged to explore with faculty the many relationships that linguistics has with other fields in order to discover the optimal program to meet his/her individual goals.

THE LINGUISTICS MAJOR

There are two tracks in this major: Track A and Track B. Track A is designed to give students familiarity with a broad range of subject areas in linguistics. Track B is particularly appropriate for students planning to go on to graduate school. As a means of promoting a deeper understanding of linguistics, Track B requires a sequence of two (typically) upper level courses in one subject area. In addition to these two tracks, undergraduates have the option of working with the undergraduate advisor to design a tailored program matching their particular interests.

TRACK A (at least 27 credit hours, excluding prerequisites)

- a. Prerequisite Course Work (6 credits) -- does not count toward hours required in the major
- i. Introductory course in linguistics: 3 credits
Ling 2000(H) or 2000 or 4000
 - ii. Language requirement (one of the following): 3 credits
Advanced foreign language beyond GEC requirement or Field Methods (Linguistics 4550 or 5551)

- b. Major Core Courses 15 credits
- i. Three required courses (may be taken in any order):
Phonetics: Linguistics 4100
Syntax: Linguistics 4200
Phonology: Linguistics 4300
 - ii. Two courses from the following list:
Historical Linguistics: Linguistics 2901 or 5901
Sociolinguistics: Linguistics (H)2602 or 2603 or 5601
Psycholinguistics: Linguistics (H)2701 or 5701

Field Methods: Linguistics 4550 or 5551 (may not be used concurrently to satisfy the language prerequisite)

c. Major Elective Courses

12 credits

Students following Track A in linguistics must take at least 12 credits of electives within linguistics, chosen in consultation with their major advisor. These courses will often complement an area of secondary interest for the student (such as a minor or second major).

Nothing characterizes the nature of humans more than the ability to use language. In linguistics, one studies languages; not to learn how to read, write, or speak them, but to understand how they work, how they change, how children learn them, and how they are used. Concern for the role of language in human life makes linguistics a humanistic discipline. However, since linguistics is concerned with the systematic explanation of facts about language, it is also a science.

The undergraduate program in linguistics permits a student to combine a broad spectrum of humanistic and scientific interests and to strengthen his/her analytic skills. The student is encouraged to explore with faculty the many relationships that linguistics has with other fields in order to discover the optimal program to meet his/her individual goals.

The Linguistics Major

There are two tracks in this major: Track A and Track B. Track A is designed to give students familiarity with a broad range of subject areas in linguistics. Track B is particularly appropriate for students planning to go on to graduate school. As a means of promoting a deeper understanding of linguistics, Track B requires a sequence of two (typically) upper level courses in one subject area. In addition to these two tracks, undergraduates have the option of working with the undergraduate advisor to design a variant tailored to their particular interests.

TRACK A (at least 45 hours, excluding prerequisites)

- a. Prerequisite Course Work (10 hours) -- does not count toward hours required in the major
- i. Introductory course in linguistics: (5 hours)
Ling(H)201 or 601
 - ii. Language requirement (one of the following):
(5 hours)
Advanced foreign language course beyond 104 (preferably at the 200 level) or Linguistics 550 or 650.10 (Field Methods)
- b. Major Core Courses 25 hours
- i. Required (may be taken in any order):
Phonetics: Linguistics 500
Syntax: Linguistics 502
Phonology: Linguistics 503
 - ii. Two courses from the following list:
Historical Linguistics: Linguistics 301 or 611
Sociolinguistics: Linguistics (H)372 or 375 or 661.01
Psycholinguistics: Linguistics (H)371 or 615
Field Methods: Linguistics 550 or 650.01

d. Major Elective Courses20 hours

Students following Track A in linguistics must take at least 20 hours of electives within linguistics, chosen in consultation with their major adviser. These courses will often complement an area of secondary interest for the student (often a minor or second major).

4. Transition Policy

Students who started the linguistics major in the quarter system and will complete the major requirements in the semester system will not experience a delay. Should any unexpected changes occur that affect student progress, substitutions of required courses will be possible. We expect there to be roughly 150 majors who will be affected by conversion. In order to assist these undergraduate students through the transition process, additional office hours will be devoted to individual advising sessions by the Linguistics Undergraduate Director and the Undergraduate Advisor. The Undergraduate Director will contact the honors majors and the Undergraduate Advisor will contact the non-honors majors at least annually to inquire and assist with potential transition-related concerns.

Course Requirements will not change. The Bachelor of Arts degree in Linguistics has both prerequisite coursework and major program requirements. Together, the BA degree requires completion of 11 courses. In a quarter system, this is 55 credit hours (or eleven 5-credit hour classes); in a semester system, 33 credit hours (or eleven 3-credit classes). While there are differences in the number of weeks in the quarter and semester system, the contact hours and content of courses will not vary significantly.

A sample program for a student beginning the academic program in the quarter system and completing additional years in the semester system is provided at the end of this document.

Program Transition Plan:

Students completing a Bachelor of Arts degree in Linguistics must complete the following 11 courses. Completion of these courses (regardless of their quarter or semester status) with a grade of C+ or higher will be used to determine completion of the Linguistics Major Requirement.

Prerequisites:

1. Introductory Linguistics prerequisite: All students are required to complete an introductory linguistic course. Students may choose to take either Ling201 or 601; these are Ling2000 or 4000 in the semester system. Multiple sections of Ling2000 will be offered during the Autumn and Spring semesters and Ling4000 will be offered once in the Autumn or Spring Semesters.
2. Language prerequisite: Students complete one foreign language course beyond the Arts and Humanities requirement or complete Linguistics Field Methods. This course is Ling 550 in the quarter system; Ling 4550 in the semester system.

Major Requirements:

1. Core Linguistics requirement: All students must complete three core courses: Ling 500 (Phonetics), 502 (Syntax) and 503 (Phonology); in the semester system, these are Ling4100, 4200 and 4300, respectively. Each of these core courses will be taught twice each year, once in the Autumn semester and once in the Spring semester.
2. Elective Core Courses: The major requires that all students complete two additional core courses at the 200-level or above (2000-level or above in the semester system) from two separate areas. These include Historical Linguistics, Sociolinguistics, Psycholinguistics and Field Methods. There are multiple courses within each area providing students with many options. Each of these classes will be offered at least once in the Autumn or Spring semesters. If by chance a particular course is not offered during a preferred quarter, the student should consult with the Undergraduate Advisor for additional options.

3. Elective Linguistics Courses: The major requires that all students complete four elective courses that align with the student's interests. Students may choose among all undergraduate linguistics courses (not used for the core curriculum) that are 200-level or above; 2000-level or above in the semester system. The majority of these elective courses will be offered once each year, and many will be offered in both Autumn and Spring semesters. If by chance a particular course is not offered during a preferred quarter, the student should consult with the Undergraduate Advisor for additional options.

Transition Equivalents:

	Quarter System	Semester System
1 Intro Course	Ling 201 or 601	Ling 2000 or 4000
1 Foreign Lang	Spanish 250 (example)	TBA
3 Core Courses	Ling 500, 502, 503	Ling 4100, 4200, 4300
2 Core Electives	Ling 200 and above	Ling 2000 and above
4 Electives	Ling 200 and above	Ling 2000 and above

The Linguistics Undergraduate Advisor will be available to meet with students during regularly scheduled office hours and by appointment. Students should not hesitate to contact the advisor for any questions and/or concerns.
