Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals

- 1. Student will be able to think critically about gender and women's issues.
- 2. Student will be able to pursue interdisciplinary inquiries about gender and to pose questions that cut across disciplinary fields.
- 3. Student will be able to perform women's studies research: develop an argument, organize data and evidence for that argument, and express ideas in writing.
- 4. Students will build skills as teachers and scholars in the field of women's studies and be able to develop and implement their own teaching plans and scholarship.

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? Yes

Does the degree program or major have an assessment plan on file with the university Office of Academic Affairs? Yes

Summarize how the program's current quarter-based assessment practices will be modified, if necessary, to fit the semester calendar.

In order to complete the PhD in Women's Studies, students will continue to complete a comprehensive examination, language proficiency, file a dissertation prospectus, and successfully complete and defend a dissertation. The changes made to the requirements will be reflected in the comprehensive exam which will now cover 20 pages from the major area, 12-15 pages from the minor area and 12-15 pages from the second minor area that is chosen in consultation with their advisor or covers their dissertation topic. These changes reflect the updated curriculum and address the program's learning goals.
