1. Provide the rationale for proposing this course:

The Mongol Empire emerged in the early thirteenth century, and quickly grew to become the largest contiguous empire in the history of the world. By connecting the civilizations of Europe, the Middle East and China for the first time in any significant way, the ruling Mongols fostered a lengthy period of sustained cross-cultural interactions that had an extraordinary impact on the subsequent trajectory of world history. The Mongol Empire therefore represents a crucial element of world history that is lacking from the department's current slate of course offerings.
