

Dear Committee,

This course, English 372, draws upon the growing interest of our students in the genres of both science fiction and fantasy literature. As you will see, our faculty is also interested in teaching the subject matter. We have designed the course to serve the varied understandings of speculative writing, from the classics to the most contemporary iterations. These courses are unique in their own way, but joined by the exploration of the unknown, the futuristic, the mystical. We have an enthusiastic group of instructors and plan to offer the course at least once a year.

Enclosed you will find an assessment plan, a GEC form, and syllabi. We believe this course will be of great interest to English students and also students across the curriculum.

I hope the committee will see its merits.

Best,

Manuel Martinez

Director of Undergraduate Studies