- Provide the rationale for proposing this course:
Several faculty members have expressed the need for a course that allows them to collaborate with a student on a research project; CS undergraduate students have also expressed that they would like to work more closely with a faculty member. The proposed course addresses both needs. As opposed to the existing Humanities 489 course, the proposed CS 489 opens the course up to student-initiated research and therefore provides an additional dimension. CS 489 would allow students to learn about the wide range of research methods employed by members of the department.
