Subject: RE: Women's Studies major revision request

Hi Kate,

Unfortunately, the web site is incorrect. Attached are is the proposed WS Major curriculum with the current approved-related courses listed. The UGS committee revised this list during Winter 2009 and cut several courses and only added the following (per the request of these departments):

SOC 340 Sex and Love in Modern Society U 5

How behavior and meanings relating to sex and love have changed in recent decades, what explains these changes, and consequences of these changes.

COMP STUD 515 Gender, Sexuality, and Religion U 5

Explores intersections of gender, sexuality and religion in comparative and cross-cultural contexts.

Thanks,
Lynaya

Lynaya,

Can you answer this question? I assume that there are no new courses on the list, correct?

Jill

Dear Professor Bystydzienski,

I am writing to get a small clarification on your recent request to Associate Dean Valarie Williams for a modest revision to your major. We are trying to fast-track this request and need just a little more information. I have copied and attached the requirements for your major that are on your web site.

In that description, there is no listing of the “Approved-Related Courses” that are electives for students. They are, however, listed in your proposal. Are there any new courses on that list or are they all currently Approved-Related courses? I ask because if there were any new ones on that list, we would solicit concurrences from the departments involved.

Thank you for your assistance and we hope to get this change approved as quickly as possible.

Best regards,

Kate
