CAMPUS

Dear Professor O'Hanlon:

The Department of Statistics fully supports the proposal for the course "ASC 314.01: Online Research and the Science Literature". Given the ongoing transition of research and reference material to the Internet, we think that this course is a valuable addition to any student's education at Ohio State. In a similar vein, we also encourage the development of a graduate short course (maybe on the order of one half day's worth of material) that could be used to help inform graduate students who are just beginning their research careers.

Regards,
