Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals

- Students develop critical thinking about philosophy.
- Students read, think, and write about the history of philosophy.
- Students read, think, and write about contemporary philosophical topics.

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? No

Program Specializations/Sub-Plans

If you do not specify a program specialization/sub-plan it will be assumed you are submitting this program for all program specializations/sub-plans.

Pre-Major

Does this Program have a Pre-Major? No

Professor Larry Krissek
Chair, Arts and Sciences CCI
Re: Major and Minor in Philosophy

Dear Professor Krissek:

The CCI's Arts and Humanities 2 subcommittee met on February 3, 2010, to review the semester conversion plans for the BA and minor in Philosophy submitted by the Department of Philosophy. Both programs are converted from their quarter equivalents with minimal change, except for the addition of a 3-semester-hour "Gateway Seminar" in the major. The number of hours in both programs remains equivalent to the requirement under quarters.

The committee noted the need for a few minor clarifications and corrections, the most important of which were

- For both programs remove extraneous courses from the curriculum map.
- For the minor, make sure the program requirements on page 4 match the requirement shown on the semester advising sheet
- For the major, specify that additional courses to meet the 30-hour minimum may be at the 2000-level and above (not just the 3000-level and above)
- For the major, give some rationale in the cover letter for dropping the requirement for Ancient Philosophy (Philosophy 3210) as one of the courses in the history of philosophy.

The remaining changes were typos and suggested re-wording.

The committee considered the two programs to be well-conceived and rigorous and (after checking that the word "comprise" had not been misused anywhere) voted unanimously to forward both major and minor to the full CCI for the next step in the approval process.

Sincerely,

Faculty Chair, Committee on Curriculum and Instruction
College of the Arts and Sciences

Dear Larry,

We are submitting the semester versions of the Department of Philosophy's undergraduate programs: BA in Philosophy and Minor in Philosophy. The semester degree proposals were reviewed by me at various stages, and reviewed and approved by a subdivision of the Arts and Humanities Disciplinary Advisory Panel on Curriculum during December 2010.

Bachelor of Philosophy: The BA in Philosophy was last revised by the department in 2006 after its program review. The quarter-system degree required 50 hours in the major with 45 credits in the major course work and 5 credits of pre-requisites, and the semester-system degree will require 33 credit hours of major course work and 3 credits of the same pre-requisite, Philosophy 2500. The most significant change in the major comes in the form of opening up its Historical Philosophy requirement to allow students greater choice on the major. This comes after several years of conversation in the department. They have also added a Gateway Seminar for their majors. The Transition Plan identified the individualist nature of advising that Philosophy has historically provided for its majors, and addresses how it will continue this practice in the future. Please note that the BA in Philosophy has an assessment plan with the identical learning outcomes that accompany this proposal on file with OAA, confirmed October 15, 2010.

Minor in Philosophy: The Minor in Philosophy has no major revisions to its programmatic structure. It is a direct course-to-course translation: 4 courses were required on quarters and 4 courses will be required on semesters. The department still maintains its requirement of expertise at various levels, including courses from the 2000-level to the 5000-level.

We are sending these programs forward for review and approval in the next stage of curricular review at the Arts and Sciences Committee on Curriculum and Instruction. The courses that are specific to all of the programs are listed under Philosophy in PACER, and I will advance them along with the program forms. All programs from Philosophy have the approval of Arts and Humanities. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to call or email me at 292-5727 or williams.1415@osu.edu.

Thank you for your consideration of these proposals,

CAMPUS

Dear Office of Academic Affairs,

The Department of Philosophy has completed its proposal for the semester versions of its programs: Bachelor of Arts Major, Minor, and Ph.D. In what follows, I describe the process that produced the attached program designs, the products of that process, and the plans the Department has developed for implementing the conversion.

Process

The Department charged its Undergraduate Committee with developing proposals for semester versions of its philosophy minor and major and its Graduate Committee with developing a proposal for a semester version of its Ph.D. program. The committees gathered information concerning the corresponding programs in a wide variety of peer and “aspirational peer” institutions. After reviewing the programs of other respected philosophy departments around the country, each committee brought forth to the entire Department concrete recommendations for semester versions of each of the three programs.

These proposals were discussed by the entire Department at departmental meetings on January 11, 2010, February 15, 2010, and April 5, 2010. (The Department meetings include two graduate students as voting members.) During the discussions at these meetings, multiple amendments were proposed and voted on and the resulting proposals were passed, in accordance with our Pattern of Administration, by an e-mail vote held from April 9 through April 16. The vote of the Department for each of the three programs was overwhelming: 16 in favor, one abstention, and no negative votes.

Programs

The Department has made minor revisions to each of its three degree programs continuously over the years. After our last program review in 2006, we considered and put into place a number of changes in our undergraduate major program and our Ph.D. program. As a result of the fact that we have continuously re-evaluated and adjusted our programs, the changes we concluded were necessary at this point were relatively minor. These are outlined below.

The Minor Program:

Quarters: We believe that, given the inherent interdisciplinary nature of philosophy, a philosophy minor can be an attractive complement to a very wide variety of major programs. As a result, we have designed the minor to be extremely flexible. This approach is maintained in the proposed semester minor program. Under the quarter system, students were required to take four philosophy courses (20 quarter hours) in philosophy at or above the 200 level. Of these courses, at least two (10 quarter hours) had to be at or above the 300 level and, of these, at least one (5 quarter hours) had to be at or above the 400 level.

Semesters: Under the semester plan, where our undergraduate courses will be 3 semester hours each, students wishing to minor in Philosophy will still need four courses (12 semester hours) at or above the (equivalent) 2000 level. Of these four courses, at least two (6 semester hours) must be at or above the 3000 level. And of these, at least one (3 semester hours) must be at the 5000 level. This constitutes a slight increase in the level of the required courses, but no increase in the adjusted credit hours for completion of a philosophy minor.

The Major Program (B.A. in Philosophy):

Quarters: The requirements for a B.A. degree in philosophy are considerably more specific with respect to content. We require, as a prerequisite to the major, completion of a course in symbolic logic (Philosophy 250). The major itself consists of 9 courses (45 quarter hours) at or above the 200 level. Three of those courses (15 quarter hours) are in the history of philosophy (Philosophy 301-305) with Ancient Philosophy (301) being required. Three of the courses (15 quarter hours) must be in a category called ‘philosophical topics’, with Moral Philosophy (431) being required. In addition, at least two courses (10 quarter hours) must be at the 600 level.

Semesters: The basic structure of the philosophy Bachelor of Arts degree under semesters remains the same, with one minor adjustment and one important addition. Symbolic Logic (Philosophy 2500) will be a prerequisite to the major. Students will still be required to take three courses (9 semester hours) in the history of philosophy, but Ancient Philosophy (Philosophy 3210) will not be required. Instead, students may take any three of the specified courses in the history of philosophy. This change has been under discussion in the Department for nearly two decades; at this point, the Department has decided that there is no longer an adequate rationale for privileging Ancient Philosophy over the other historical periods covered in our series of courses in the history of philosophy. The philosophical topics requirement will remain the same: students are required to take Moral Philosophy (3300) and any two courses from a large list of alternatives for a total of 9 semester hours in this category. We will retain a “level requirement,” mandating that students have at least two courses (six semester hours) at the 5000 level. Students will also be required to take one further course in Philosophy at the 2xxx, 3xxx, 4xxx, or 5xxx level. The major requirements, themselves, comprise 30 semester hours.

The important addition is a “Gateway Seminar” (3000) This course (3 semester hours) is designed to provide philosophy majors with an intensive writing course early in their major career. Because it is a skills course, it will be taught in a small class format and the content will vary.

The Ph.D. Program:

Quarters: Under the quarter system, our Ph.D. program requires students to complete 120 quarter hours. We have two individual course requirements: Advanced Symbolic Logic (650) and a First-Year Seminar (700). In addition, we have both a distribution requirement and a requirement concerning the total number of courses/seminars a student must complete. Details of these requirements are in the attached documents.

Semesters: The Ph.D. program in Philosophy under semesters will reflect a minimal change in substance from our current Ph.D. program. The most significant change in the doctoral program requirements is a reduction in the total number of courses/seminars required from 16 to 14. This was done to reflect the fact that seminars are being redesigned to include more content under the 14-week semester term.

Implementation

The Department is committed to ensuring that the transition of our programs from the quarter system to the semester system takes place without impeding students' progress in the program. We believe that this goal is best achieved by working with students in the transitional years on an individual basis. The size of our program, and the fact that our programs do not rely on sequentially structured course requirements makes this approach not only feasible but the most appropriate.

The design of our degree programs under the semester system has been reviewed by the entire faculty with significant input from our graduate students. The attached proposals have the nearly-unanimous support of the Department and I join in supporting them.

Please contact me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Semester Conversion Minor in Philosophy

Department of Philosophy
Faculty of Arts and Sciences

Note: conversion with minimal changes

Program Requirements

Learning Goals:

- (1) Students develop critical thinking about philosophy.
- (2) Students read, think, and write about the history of philosophy.
- (3) Students read, think, and write about contemporary philosophical topics.

Course Requirements:

- (3 cr.) at least 1 course at the 5xxx level in philosophy
- (3 cr.) at least 1 additional course at the 3xxx level or above in philosophy
- (6 cr.) at least 2 additional courses (3 cr. each) at the 2xxx level or above in philosophy for a total of 12 credit hours of required courses.

No more than 3 credit hours of PHIL 5193 coursework may be applied to the minor.

The Department requires that a minimum of 6 credit hours of a student's minor program be completed at Ohio State University.

Philosophy 2367 does not count towards a minor program, although it may be used for GE purposes.

Minor in Philosophy Advising Sheet (under SEMESTERS)

All minor programs must be approved by the Director of Undergraduate Studies. Consultation concerning the minor should be sought at least one year prior to the student's projected date of graduation. The minimal requirements for a minor in Philosophy are:

1. At least 12 credit hours in Philosophy courses numbered 2000 or above.
2. At least 6 of those credit hours must be in Philosophy courses numbered 3000 or above.
3. At least 3 of those credit hours must be in Philosophy courses numbered 5000 or above.
4. No more than 3 credit hours of PHIL 5193 coursework may be applied to the minor.
5. The Department requires that a minimum of 6 credit hours of a student's minor program be completed at Ohio State University.
6. Philosophy 2367 does not count towards your minor program, although it may be used for GE purposes.

Minor in Philosophy Advising Sheet (under QUARTERS)

All minor programs must be approved by Professor Tamar Rudavsky (Rudavsky.1@osu.edu) Director of Undergraduate Studies (Room 376, University Hall, 292-7914). Consultation concerning the minor should be sought at least one year prior to the student's projected date of graduation. The minimal requirements for a minor in Philosophy are:

1. At least 20 credit hours in Philosophy courses numbered 200 or above (see Course Descriptions).
2. At least ten of those credit hours must be in Philosophy courses numbered 300 or above (see Course Descriptions).
3. At least five of those credit hours must be in Philosophy courses numbered 400 or above (see Course Descriptions).
4. No more than five credit hours of Philosophy 693 coursework may be applied to the minor.
5. A minimum of 10 credit hours of a student's minor program must be completed at Ohio State.
6. Philosophy 367 & 597 do not count towards your minor program, although they may be used for GEC purposes.

Department of Philosophy Transition Policy

The Department of Philosophy is committed to protecting the academic progress of its students. Students should find that the shift from quarters to semesters does not disrupt their progress towards a minor in Philosophy if they actively develop and follow academic plans in consultation with their academic advisors and the Undergraduate Studies Committee chair. Students completing minors in Philosophy within this transition will receive approximately the same amount of instruction as students enrolled under either the quarter or the semester model, and the changes to our programs will not affect the quality of the education provided by Philosophy. To ensure the conversion will not harm our students' progress, we will continue to provide intentional and purposeful advising by understanding how the changes in our courses and program requirements will affect our students' degree programs. We will maintain flexibility with our students' progress through their degrees and assist them in planning their programs to graduation.

The Department of Philosophy has approximately 66 students minoring in the Department each year in various stages of their degree programs. With a dedicated full time professional staff member who administrates undergraduate issues, the Department is well equipped to personally handle the needs of its students during the semester conversion process. We are committed to individually serving our students to ensure their success and achievement throughout the semester conversion process.

The Department of Philosophy also commits to updating all documents, forms, and materials that are available in person or electronically to reflect these changes and the semester requirements, including our website, handbooks, advising sheets, and program forms available in print and online.
