Credit Hour Explanation

Program credit hour requirements		A) Number of credit hours in current program (Quarter credit hours)	B) Calculated result for 2/3rds of current (Semester credit hours)	C) Number of credit hours required for proposed program (Semester credit hours)	D) Change in credit hours
Total minimum credit hours required for completion of program		55	36.7	42	5.3
Required credit hours offered by the unit	Minimum	0	0.0	0	0.0
	Maximum	0	0.0	0	0.0
Required credit hours offered outside of the unit	Minimum	0	0.0	0	0.0
	Maximum	0	0.0	0	0.0
Required prerequisite credit hours not included above	Minimum	5	3.3	10	6.7
	Maximum	5	3.3	10	6.7

Explain any change in credit hours if the difference is more than 4 semester credit hours between the values listed in columns B and C for any row in the above table

There are fewer total credit hours under semesters because, as explained in the accompanying letter, the extra 10 hours language requirement under quarters has been subtracted from the major and been transformed into a separate required minor in a foreign language. Thus, in terms of quarter hours, the required hours for the major falls to 45 (27 credit hours) and an extra course is added to allow the major to conform to the 30 credit hours minimum required of all majors under semesters. This change in the language requirement has a knock-on effect in some of the other rows in the table.

Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals

- Students are competent in a foreign language.
- Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- Students understand the diversity of influences historical economic, political, social and cultural that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes
- Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communication skills.
- Students understand a globalization process that brings peoples and communities across the globe into closer and more sustained interaction at the same time as intertwining their destinies.
- Students appreciate that globalization is a multi-faceted process of change, embracing cultural, economic, and political forces that are redefining the state-centered international system.

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? Yes

Does the degree program or major have an assessment plan on file with the university Office of Academic Affairs? Yes

Summarize how the program's current quarter-based assessment practices will be modified, if necessary, to fit the semester calendar.

IS and the many departments contributing courses to the Globalization major use a variety of assessment procedures, none of which depends on whether the program is run under quarters or semesters. Thus, we do not anticipate any change to the program's assessment practices.

Program Specializations/Sub-Plans

If you do not specify a program specialization/sub-plan it will be assumed you are submitting this program for all program specializations/sub-plans.

Pre-Major

Does this Program have a Pre-Major? Yes

The introduction of a Pre-Major was formally approved on February 17, 2010.

It is designed to ensure that students complete the minimum foreign language requirements (complete of the GEC 104 language class, 1103 under the semester system) before being able to enroll as an International Studies major.

Previously, many majors close to graduation have not completed the foreign language requirement and were forced either to change their major or delay their graduation to satisfy this requirement.

A fuller explanation of the Pre-Major requirements can be found in the attachments to this submission.

Re: Semester Conversion Proposal for Globalization Studies BA

Date: May 3, 2011

Larry:

The Sciences subcommittee of the CCI met on Monday May 2 to review the Globalization Studies BA within the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP). As was the case with the International Studies BA degree, the Globalization Studies degree will undergo a few significant changes in the conversion from quarters to semesters. As a result of an external review conducted in Autumn quarter of 2007 and a further internal review by the Social Studies Disciplinary Advisory Panel, the Globalization Studies BA will now require all majors to also receive a minor in a foreign language and to complete 1103 or equivalent in a foreign language as a prerequisite to the major program. Also, one additional course (Political Science 4330) course was added to the requirements for the major both to enhance the upper division offerings of the major and to increase the major to 30 hours.

The subcommittee approved the proposal unanimously contingent upon UISP addressing a few corrections and queries:

- On the PACER form Credit Hour Explanation chart, the pre-requisite hours should be ten (10) rather than three (3). Also, the course list and semester advising sheet should list the foreign language requirement as 4 credit hours rather than 3.
- The cover letter from Director Tony Mughan states that "as of Autumn 2012, all those electing to major in Globalization will have to complete a minor in a foreign language." They might want to change this to read Summer of 2012.
- There are two specialization learning goals that are listed on the curricular map (Goals E and F) that are not on the PACER form but should be.

Thank you.

Professor Larry Krissek Chair, Arts and Sciences CCI

Dear Professor Krissek:

The Undergraduate International Studies Program (UGISP) is home to the International Studies (IS) major (BA) with ten specializations, which are:

- 1. Africa;
- 2. East Asia:
- 3. Eastern Europe;
- 4. Latin America;
- 5. Middle East;
- 6. Western Europe;
- 7. Development;
- 8. International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9. Security & Intelligence;
- 10. World Economy & Business.

UGISP is also the home of the Globalization major (BA).

An external review team (ERT) assessed the IS program and its ten specializations and minors at the end of 2007. While recognizing the quality of the IS major, the ERT thought that the foreign language requirement could be strengthened and that some additional in-depth, upper division rigor would improve the major's quality. In response to these suggestions, UGISP's semester conversion plan has added the requirement that majors take a minor in a foreign language and added an additional upper division required course.

The Social Sciences Disciplinary Advisory Panel (SS DAP) reviewed the specializations of the IS major and made suggestions to improve an already well thought out conversion plan. With the inclusion of these suggestions the SS DAP and I enthusiastically endorse the IS major and its ten specializations and submit them to you for CCI's review.

The Globalization major is independent of the IS major and relatively new. Nevertheless it was determined that the Globalization major should adopt the recommendations of the ERT for UGISP to strengthen the foreign language requirement by requiring a minor and add an in-depth upper division requirement. The SS DAP reviewed the Globalization Studies major and recommended some improvements to the very good conversion plan, which were accepted. The SS DAP and I then strongly endorsed the semester conversion plan for the Globalization Studies major and now submit it to CCI for its consideration.

Finally, UGISP also sponsors ten minors, nine of them related to International Studies specializations and one tied to the Globalization Major. They are:

- 1. African Studies
- 2. Development Studies
- 3. East Asian Studies
- 4. International Relations & Diplomacy
- 5. Latin American Studies
- 6. Middle East Studies
- 7. Security & Intelligence
- 8. Slavic & East European Studies
- 9. West European Studies
- 10. Globalization

These minors were reviewed by the SS DAP, which made suggestions for minor improvements to semester conversion plans. These suggestions were incorporated into the plans and SS DAP and I strongly endorse the conversion plans and submit them to CCI for its consideration.

Sincerely,

Gene E. Mumy

GLOBALIZATION STUDIES MAJOR

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposal to Convert the Globalization Studies Major and Minor in the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out the plans for the Q to S conversion of the Globalization Studies major and minor in UISP. It is submitted separately from the more extensive proposal, already submitted, to convert the 10 major and 9 minor specializations in UISP. This is because it exists independently of these more established specializations. It was originally an initiative conceived and constructed by a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in UISP solely for administrative and advising purposes. Like the other IS specializations, it is an interdisciplinary program that has a mandatory foreign language component. Unlike them, it is more broadly interdisciplinary because it was designed to oblige students to take arts/humanities and social sciences courses in equal measure. Beyond the foreign language requirement, the established International Studies specializations are largely social scientific in content.

Two other pieces of background information are essential to understanding the specifics of this conversion proposal. The first concerns the nature of the IS program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

In light of this committee's recommendations, two changes are to be made to the Globalization Studies major. The first follows from the committee's concern that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level under quarters, be strengthened. This leads to the second change, which concerns the number of hours required to complete the major.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendations. Therefore, it is proposed that, as of Summer 2012, all those electing to major in Globalization will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. This proposal has received the unanimous endorsement of the foreign language department chairs. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a survey of all existing IS majors, 83 per cent of majors said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

Under quarters, ten of the 55 hours required to complete the Globalization Studies major had to be in a foreign language beyond 104. The new minor requirement therefore brought the number of required hours down to 45 (or 27 semester credit hours). To satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors have to be at least 30 semester hours in length, a course of three semester hours has been added to the Globalization Studies major. To increase the rigor of the degree, it has been added to the "Required Courses" section of the curriculum, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the Globalization Studies conversion submission.

A final observation pertinent to this proposal is that for the purpose of counting credit hours, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the major specializations in UISP

Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all International Studies and Globalization Studies majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

5. Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Subject: Pre-Major

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs. If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me. Randy

W. Randy Smith
