Explain any change in credit hours if the difference is more than 4 semester credit hours between the values listed in columns B and C for any row in the above table

With the inclusion of a second required course, Comparative Studies 357, students will not be able to complete a Globalization Studies minor taking only International Studies courses. Also, at least one class must be taken from the Arts & Humanities course group. There are no International Studies classes in this group. In tandem, these factors reduce the total maximum hours of International Studies courses that can be taken in the minor.

Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals •

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? No

Program Specializations/Sub-Plans

If you do not specify a program specialization/sub-plan it will be assumed you are submitting this program for all program specializations/sub-plans.

Professor Larry Krissek
Chair, Arts and Sciences CCI

Dear Professor Krissek:

The Undergraduate International Studies Program (UGISP) is home to the International Studies (IS) major (BA) with ten specializations, which are:

1. Africa;
2. East Asia;
3. Eastern Europe;
4. Latin America;
5. Middle East;
6. Western Europe;
7. Development;
8. International Relations & Diplomacy;
9. Security & Intelligence;
10. World Economy & Business.

UGISP is also the home of the Globalization major (BA).

An external review team (ERT) assessed the IS program and its ten specializations and minors at the end of 2007. While recognizing the quality of the IS major, the ERT thought that the foreign language requirement could be strengthened and that some additional in-depth, upper division rigor would improve the major's quality. In response to these suggestions, UGISP's semester conversion plan has added the requirement that majors take a minor in a foreign language and added an additional upper division required course.

The Social Sciences Disciplinary Advisory Panel (SS DAP) reviewed the specializations of the IS major and made suggestions to improve an already well thought out conversion plan. With the inclusion of these suggestions the SS DAP and I enthusiastically endorse the IS major and its ten specializations and submit them to you for CCI's review.

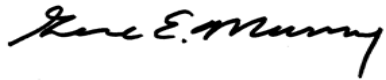

The Globalization major is independent of the IS major and relatively new. Nevertheless it was determined that the Globalization major should adopt the recommendations of the ERT for UGISP to strengthen the foreign language requirement by requiring a minor and add an in-depth upper division requirement. The SS DAP reviewed the Globalization Studies major and recommended some improvements to the very good conversion plan, which were accepted. The SS DAP and I then strongly endorsed the semester conversion plan for the Globalization Studies major and now submit it to CCI for its consideration.

Finally, UGISP also sponsors ten minors, nine of them related to International Studies specializations and one tied to the Globalization Major. They are:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies
10. Globalization

These minors were reviewed by the SS DAP, which made suggestions for minor improvements to semester conversion plans. These suggestions were incorporated into the plans and SS DAP and I strongly endorse the conversion plans and submit them to CCI for its consideration.

Sincerely,

GLOBALIZATION STUDIES MINOR

Cover letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out the proposed changes to the Globalization Studies (GS) minor offered under the auspices of UISP under the Q to S conversion in 2012. This minor was initially created within UISP and was later to become a major designed by a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members. The goal with the major was to design a program that would force students to be broadly interdisciplinary by obliging them to take arts/humanities and social science courses in equal number. For the semester conversion, the minor has been redesigned to reflect this goal to the extent possible. Specifically, students must now take two introductory courses, one offering a social science perspective on the meaning and content of globalization and the other a cultural perspective. Students then take one elective from each perspective and a third from either to complete the minor.

The addition of a second, culturally focused compulsory course is the one big change from the quarter-based globalization curriculum. A smaller change is that, after an extensive review of current course offerings across the university, new courses have been added where appropriate and some others have been dropped because they are no longer offered.

The GS minor is located in UISP for administrative and advising purposes.

Globalization Studies

This minor is 15-semester hours in length and draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. The two introductory courses are compulsory and the remaining elective courses in each specialization are chosen in consultation with an IS advisor.

A minor in GS is available to any university student who is not majoring in GS.

Up to nine semester hours of relevant study abroad credit can count toward the GS minor.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality

The introduction of a compulsory course on cultural globalization will give students a better-rounded view of the nature, causes and consequences of globalization. It also enhances the interdisciplinary nature of the minor. A more up-to-date listing of the courses has also been made available to students.

Transition Policy

Because changes to the GS minor curriculum are so small, students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards completion or expected date of graduation. The sequencing of classes in the minor is very flexible and the large majority of the classes used in them are offered regularly. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.
