Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals                      •

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? No

Program Specializations/Sub-Plans

If you do not specify a program specialization/sub-plan it will be assumed you are submitting this program for all program specializations/sub-plans.

Pre-Major

Does this Program have a Pre-Major? No

Lawrence Krissek, Professor of Earth Sciences
Faculty Chair, Committee on Curriculum and Instruction
College of Arts and Sciences

Dear Larry,

The Faculty Steering Committee has completed and submitted its proposal for a semester version of its interdisciplinary minor: Minor in Popular Culture Studies. The program was approved by a subset of the Arts and Humanities Disciplinary Advisory Panel for Curriculum within the College of Arts and Sciences on April 29, 2011. Please note that since this program crosses multiple units, the first line only on the PACER chart has been completed.

Most specifically, I have highlighted the small changes for the program below:

Minor in Popular Culture Studies: The Minor in Popular Culture Studies was established and approved by CAA on October 4, 2006. There were no major revisions to the program. The program converted from 24 quarter credit hours to 15 semester credit hours and maintained the choice of one required course cross-listed in either Comparative Studies and English, or the course listed in Women's Studies. The ASC 264 Introduction to Popular Culture Studies is no longer an option for the introductory core course. The program is retaining its previous requirement of one course selected from the Historical Popular Culture Category and one course selected from the Popular Culture from Outside Majority-U.S. Culture Category. The list of additional electives is still long and encompasses many units across the university. The minor required five courses on the quarter system, and will translate to five courses on the semester system.

We are sending this undergraduate minor forward for review and approval in the next stage of curricular review at the Arts and Sciences Committee on Curriculum and Instruction.

The courses that are specific to all of the programs are listed under multiple Book 3 Listings. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to call or email me at 292-5727 or williams.1415@osu.edu.

Thank you for your consideration of these proposals,

Dear Curriculum Review Committee:

I am writing in support of the semester conversion plan for the interdisciplinary minor in Popular Culture Studies. Consulting with the steering committee for the minor and with the many faculty from across the university who have been contributing to the development of the minor, I have been able to make the transition to semesters a relatively straightforward conversion, and one that I believe strengthen the minor in a number of areas (clearer guidelines, more options for historical popular culture studies courses, and a wider range of global popular culture perspectives). The basic requirements (5 courses, including an introductory course and one course each in historical and non-majority popular culture) remain as they have been since the founding of the minor four years ago.

Attached please find documents outlining in detail how the 70+ courses that can be used to satisfy the requirements of the minor will be converted to semesters, and a minors advising sheet from quarters and semesters that show clearly how minimal are the changes constituted by our conversion plan.

Sincerely,

Jared Gardner
Associate Professor
Coordinator, Popular Culture Studies

Popular Culture Studies
Semester conversion
April 2011

Program Rationale Statement

The Popular Culture Studies minor will transition to semesters relatively seamlessly. Only a small handful of courses did not survive the transition process in their home department, but in each case the offering unit has developed or identified for us a replacement course equally or more ideally suited for our students.

We continue to be an extremely interdisciplinary minor, with courses contributed from 25 departments and programs. With semester conversion we are making official what has been de facto the case for two years: dropping the original required course, Arts & Science 264, from the options for the required introduction (students will still be able to choose between English/Comparative Studies 264 & Women's Studies 230). On the whole, the minor is now richer, more diverse, and easier for the students to complete in a timely manner.

The total number of courses required for the minor remains 5: 1 required introductory course, 1 historical course, 1 course in popular culture outside U.S.-majority culture, and 2 additional electives from any category. English/Comparative Studies 264 and Women's Studies 230 will be offered every term.

The support and investment from faculty and units across the Colleges of Arts & Sciences remains as strong as when we launched the minor in Autumn 2006. We are confident the minor will continue to thrive and grow in the years to come.
