Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Sabra Webber, Associate Professor, NELC Conversion

DATE: May 23, 2011

Near Eastern Languages and Cultures faculty is recommending for approval its plan for conversion to semesters from quarters. The programs in the unit are our three undergraduate majors: Islamic Studies, Arabic and Hebrew; five undergraduate minors: Arabic, Hebrew, Turkish, Persian and South Asian Studies; an MA in NELC and a PhD in NELC. There are no undergraduate tracks. These are the same programs that we offered under the quarter system but re-envisioned as we took advantage of the conversion to review all courses and programs together in order to think again about an overall vision for NELC. In the process, the changes we ultimately agreed to are not extensive, but significant as we identified and remediated course lacunae, improved language progression for undergraduates, and identified new core courses for our MA and PhD students.

The Department has the following majors and minors (numbers represent Spring, 2011)

ARABIC:	MAJ: 84	MIN: 43	PERSIAN:	MIN: 12
HEBREW:	MAJ: 11	MIN: 16	SO ASIA STUDIES:	MIN: 8
ISLAMIC STUDIES:	MAJ: 11	N/A	TURKISH:	MIN: 4

Our PhD graduate program in NELC is relatively new, but we have 12 active MA students and 14 active PhD students. We expect more than half of these graduate students, mostly MA students, to finish by or before summer of 2012. Entering MA and PhD students (6) will be individually counseled from the beginning to ensure a smooth transition to semesters.

The following are issues we addressed in general for our undergraduate and graduate programs as we prepared our transition documents:

For the undergraduate programs, we:

1. Made the major programs more comparable in terms of expectations and did the same for the minor programs
2. Kept in mind that our mission includes not only language and literature, but also culture and made adjustments to be sure students could focus on the cultural dimensions of the languages they study

3. Tried to balance courses to give students the opportunity to focus on either ancient/medieval or modern periods (for example by adding a new course on contemporary Israeli and Palestinian literature) for both Hebrew and Arabic
4. Addressed the lack of interaction among the various languages by offering culture courses that bring together speakers of diverse languages
5. Made the Islamic Studies major program more broadly Islamic, thus including the large number of Muslims that live outside of the Middle East as conventionally defined
6. Assured that minor programs in Arabic, Hebrew, Persian and Turkish all require ¾ of their courses to be in the chosen language
7. For the first time, have advising sheets for all major and minor programs
8. Have appended a sample four year program to our Arabic and Hebrew major advising sheets
9. For the language courses that are part of intermediate sequences, we have continued with the 4 credit hour semesters, due to the challenges for English speakers of learning Middle Eastern languages, and in order to ensure that our students finish in four years and are competitive with students at other universities, whether in job searches or graduate education
10. Will offer Arabic 1103 intensively in the May Session as an experiment to allow some students to finish their entire GE language requirement in one academic year.

Changes specific to individual programs are addressed in the materials provided under #12 in each programs "rationale for proposed program changes" for individual program proposals both major and minor.

For the graduate programs, we:

1. Remediated our lack of core courses and at the same time remediated our lack of focus at the graduate level on academic concentrations other than language. Consequently, we addressed our students' perceived weakness in foundational theory by ensuring that students take one core course that addresses general theories of orality and literacy, and at least one course that is foundational to their theoretical specialization (literature, culture, religion).

Thus:

All graduate students are required to take NELC 5568: Studies in Orality and Literacy (cross listed with CS: 5668)

Graduate Students focusing on religious study also take CS 7370: Theorizing Religion

Graduate Students focusing on literature also take CS/NELC 7301: Theorizing Literature

Graduate Students focusing on culture also take CS 7360: Theorizing Culture

2. Adjusted the credit requirements of our graduate programs to accord with the credit hours suggested by the Graduate School.

Our MA will require 30 credit hours in courses at the 5000 level and above (typically 9 credit hours at the 5000 level, 6 at the 6000 level and 5 at the 7000 level and above taken over two years. The final semester should be left free for the writing of the MA thesis or preparation for MA examinations.

Since the MA now requires 55 credit hours, the newly implemented benchmark of 30 in semester credit hours reduces the MA by almost seven graduate credit hours, or more than two courses. Because of the higher competency among entering graduate students, we have been able to reduce required language courses at the 5000 level by half. And, core theory courses have been reduced from three to two.

The PhD will require 80 credit hours or 50 following the MA. This requires a reduction of a further 3- 9 converted semester credit hours, or one- three more courses for a reduction of 9-15 semester credit hours in total for the MA/PhD, depending on the number of credit hours MA students are allowed to carry over, from what we previously have required. We have further remedied this at the PhD level by streamlining requirements for the second Near Eastern language for students who need only reading for research. With this system, the secondary language could require as few as four courses or 12 credit hours--a product of our ability during this conversion process to clarify and better define the level of competency graduate students will need to acquire in their languages as well as in related theory and culture courses.

Transition Plan:

Many of our plans for transition are language specific and are reviewed in the program document for each major, minor or graduate program. Most advising will be conducted on an individual basis by our five language instructors for Arabic, Hebrew, Persian, Turkish and Hindi, along with our staff advisor, Stafford Noble, and the faculty semester conversion contact, Sabra Webber. We have also requested one time funding of two quarters (winter and spring 2012) and two semesters (fall and spring 2012-2013) for two graduate student advisors, principally for Arabic majors and minors. Individual meetings will be schedule for all approximately 200 majors and minors and in-class meetings will be held for all students taking their GEC/GE in a NELC language.

Individual graduate faculty will work closely with their advisees as the semester program unfurls.

12. Rationale for proposed program changes:

Under the quarter system, the Hebrew major requires 45 credits (nine courses), with foundational courses being those pre-major language courses (Hebrew 101-104) that students are required to take in order to commence the major, and which fulfill the language GEC.

In the quarter system students are required to take a grammar course, six Hebrew courses at the 400-level or above, and two 600 level courses, a history of the Hebrew language and an introduction to Hebrew literary and cultural texts for a total of nine courses.

We have added a course under semesters for the major, and have added additional structure to the Hebrew major as we have to all NELC majors and minors. For the Hebrew major we have:

1. Made the numbering of the courses more consistent and indicative of a progression,
2. Made the numbers more reflective of the degrees of difficulty of courses,
3. Made the numbers more reflective of the course topics,
4. Verified that the students take at least six courses (2000 level and up) or approximately 2/3 of their major requirements in courses for which the language of instruction is Hebrew, or the assigned texts are in Hebrew.
5. Added an additional course requirement in the major so that the total number of required semester hours is now 32, which brings it in line with the other two NELC majors' credit hour requirements and to the number of courses required for the Arabic major (36/11) and Islamic studies major (32/10)
6. Have required for the prerequisite either Hebrew 2241 Culture of Contemporary Israel, OR 2245, Israeli Film and Society, OR 2216 The Medieval Jewish Experience in addition to Hebrew 1101-1103.
7. In order to complete the Hebrew sequence in four years, we have determined that not only the prerequisite Hebrew language courses, but also the first two language courses of the major language series need to require 4 credit hours. This plan assures that students who want to proceed to graduate school are competitive with students in other U.S. universities.

13-17 See PACER

18. Rationale for change in credit hours:

The addition of the cultural prerequisite adds additional hours to the prerequisites; this will give prospective students an exposure to the cultural aspect of the major that was not present in the quarter major.

TRANSITION POLICY

19. Policy statement from the chair of the department

In the quarter version of the Hebrew major students take nine courses. In the semester version ten will be required. The transition will require no additional coursework, however, for any students, regardless of their statuses at the time of transition if they began their work under the quarter system. Students who started with the original requirement of 9 courses under quarters may not be required to take 10 courses. Because a language major depends on a progression of courses in the language, we will first establish that all of those courses taught in Hebrew will be completed side by side with as many of the required courses taught in English as is possible without, again, requiring more than 30 credit hours.

SAMPLE SCENARIOS:

In academic year 2011-2012, Hebrew will be started only in the fall quarter as we have just completed a departmental outside review in spring 2010 strongly recommending starting NELC languages only once a year and we have accomplished this with all but Arabic, which at the moment has over 125 majors/minors. Students in Hebrew thus can move seamlessly into the new semester 1103 in fall 2012 to complete their language GE (see "Transition Plan for Foreign Language Courses" submitted separately). This course will give them a slight review, about 1/3 of what they studied in 103, which tends to be useful anyway after a summer off.

This year we are offering a final spring Hebrew 101 that will be able to be finished up by next spring, 2012, with Hebrew 104, thus allowing students to complete their language GEC next spring, 2012, before the beginning of semesters. Any of those students wishing to continue on with a major or minor, estimated at between one and 4 students in any particular year, can transition into the Hebrew major with Hebrew 2105 in spring 2013, the second semester of their second year of language. These students will need individual counseling and careful planning to be sure that they can either take 1103 in the fall of 2012, if they need/want review (1103 includes 1/3 of Hebrew 103 and all of Hebrew 104), can join in 4101 or 4102 with extra help if they are particularly strong in Hebrew, take an individualized study course if they wish, or be assured of a strong choice of Hebrew in translation courses in fall 2012 so that they can complete their major on time.

If they have taken through 205 by the beginning of semesters in fall 2012, they will go into any of the 4000-level Hebrew language courses. At that point, students will have completed their basic sequence and will be able to proceed with the semester system without other adjustments. *In the case of the Hebrew minor, these 4000 level courses will complete the language requirements. We do not anticipate any problems with credit hours for either the major or minor, but will be prepared to solve those on an individual basis should unusual circumstances arise.

Transition Plan for Foreign Language Courses (Submitted Separately)

We have requested two temporary hires at either the advanced undergraduate or GA levels to help our majors and minors students who will be transitioning through the process and will also prepare a special transition sheet to help them keep track of their step-by-step progress.
