Dear Paula,

The Sexuality Studies program is happy to provide concurrence for History 3620: Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender History in the United States, 1940-2003. This course will provide our minors and majors with an important option for increasing their knowledge of LGBTQ history. It will also add depth to the 12-hour History focus area that our majors can select, and it will provide another option for the 3-hour GLBTQ requirement they have to meet as part of the major. We expect a number of both our majors and minors will sign up for the course since it deals with an historical period and national history that will interest many of them. Our one question is why the course end date is 2003 rather than "the present," since it would appear that a more expansive range of dates would allow for more design flexibility on the part of instructors. But we ask this question only for clarification, not to impede the progress of the course through the curricular process.

Please let me know if you need additional information.

My best,

Debra

Daniel Rivers has proposed a new course, History 3620 Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender History in the United States, 1940-2003. We have moved it through the approval process in History, but we ask for the concurrence of Sexuality Studies. Please let me know so that we can advance the course. I've attached a syllabus.

Thanks,

Paula
