The Department of Greek and Latin will offer an INTENSIVE LATIN WORKSHOP during SUMMER QUARTER 2005. This Workshop will meet daily from 9:30-12:00 and from 1:00-3:30. We will cover all the Latin Grammar you will need to read major authors in the first five weeks; the second five weeks will be spent reading major classical authors (Vergil, Cicero and Ovid). Other authors will be selected according to student interest.

This course will require a full-time commitment from both the teachers and the students. Typically there will be two to four hours of homework every day, a quiz every morning and a three hour exam every Monday. During the first term, June 20 to July 22, the emphasis will fall on the memorization of forms and on learning and applying the basic rules of Latin syntax and grammar. Morning classes will begin with a quiz and then go over the exercises for the previous evening; afternoon classes will introduce forms and basic concepts in a lecture. Staff will be available for office hours before, during and after the workshop and students will be able to call instructors at home if there are difficulties with any of the evening assignment. The Computer Center will be open for students who wish to explore and use the Latin Home Page, which includes resources developed specifically for the Latin Workshop as well as interactive pages for help in memorization of forms and rules. We are committed to helping students learn to read and use Latin in a very short time and will do what we can to make this possible. It is NOT recommended that students hold down jobs or have other significant commitments during the Workshop.

During the second term, July 27 to August 26, the class will read sections from major writers of the Classical and Medieval periods. We will definitely offer Vergil and Ovid and will try to meet the interests and needs of students in our other selections (e.g. Augustine, Medieval or Renaissance Latin).

Course Objectives: To introduce students to the fundamentals of Classical Latin grammar and syntax.

- * Cover Latin 101-103 in five weeks
- * Read real Latin for five weeks (equivalent of 200 level)
- * Register for reading courses by Autumn 2005
- * The best choice for talented undergraduates who need to satisfy the Arts and Sciences foreign language requirement; or for graduate students who need to fulfill the Latin 571-572 series for graduation.
- * This workshop will satisfy the prerequisites for the 200-level reading course and most students will be able to enroll in 600 level author and genre courses by the end of 2005-2006
- * On-line quizzes and review materials
- * Invited lecturers every Friday will get beyond the nuts and bolts

Class Meeting Times in UH 448: 9:30 - 11:30 A.M. (Monday Exam begins @ 9:00)
1:00 - 3:00 P.M.

Class Schedule: The Workshop will meet in 448 UH every morning. There will be a 3 hour exam every Monday morning from 9 A.M. – 12 noon. Every TWRF morning class will begin at 9:30 with a 10 minute quiz followed by drills and homework review. After coffee at about 10:30, there will be continued review of the homework and discussion of concepts. The afternoon session will meet in 448 UH for introduction to new material (MTWR) at 1:00. On Friday afternoon, a review session of the week's material will be given in preparation for Monday's exam. After this review, all members of the Workshop, including instructors, students, and significant others, are invited to meet at Bernie's for refreshments, relaxation.

Syllabus: For a weekly outline of readings and units, see
<http://omega.cohums.ohio-state.edu/latin/workshop.html>

Attendance: Attendance is mandatory!! Due to the intensive nature of this course, daily attendance is essential.

Required Texts: Latin: An Intensive Course. Floyd L. Moreland and Rita M. Fleischer (1977). Available at SBX.

Grading: The grade for Latin 170 will, at first, be a P; the final grade will be the same as the grade received in Latin 270, the second part of the Workshop. That grade will be based on daily quizzes (30%); weekly exams (50%); homework (consisting mostly of translation: 5%); attendance (5%); and in-class performance, including preparedness and a willingness to ask and answer questions (10%).

Academic Misconduct Cheating and plagiarism will not be tolerated and the University's policies will be followed in all cases. To download the Code of Student Conduct, go to <http://www.usas.ohio-state.edu/handbook/> under 'Policies and Procedures,' or go to <http://oaa.osu.edu/coam/faq.html#whatisacademicmisconduct>

Disability services: If you need special accommodation based on the impact of a disability, you should contact the instructor as soon as possible. We can discuss the course format, anticipate your needs, and explore potential accommodations. We rely on the Office For Disability Services for assistance in verifying the need for accommodations and developing accommodation strategies. If you have not previously contacted the Office for Disability Services, we encourage you to do so now.
