Attendance Policy

Discussion of readings and experiences is at the core of this course. You are permitted one (1) unexcused absence. If you miss more than three additional classes, you will fail the course.

Excused absences fall into three categories: 1) absences as a result of illness (a doctor’s note must be provided within one week of return to class); 2) absences as a result of a death in the family; 3) absences as a result of major religious holidays. Any test or project due date missed due to an excused absence must be made up at the next regular class that student attends unless special arrangements have been made with instructor.

Participation

Prompt reading of assignments and screening of films and documentaries is crucial to the in-class discussions that will take place on a weekly basis. Due to the range of materials and resources studied, it is imperative that you check the syllabus carefully and regularly in order to be prepared. You are expected to regularly contribute to class discussions.

Assignments – submit all to a pre-departure visual & text journal

A visual and text journal is the place where you bring together comprehension, analysis, and synthesis of the course content. Since the heart of this course is the study of Cuba performance and culture as it responds to a rich and complex history, the journal format (electronic) will combine visual and aural imagery you discover and create, as well as text-based analysis and interpretation. The journal will “reside” on Buckeye Box, available for view by the course instructors. The format may be PDF files, Powerpoint, a dedicated website, or other approved format so long as it functions as a “live” document you construct and organize, and readily allows for ongoing entries and instructor comment. Date and title all entries, to align with each assignment.

Journal Entry: three (3) Cuban Art Museum websites (5 pts)

For each: include URL. Why did you choose the particular site? Select one artist and selection of artwork you intend to see on during your visit and discuss.

Journal Entry: Havana is Waiting, production approach (5 pts)

Consider this play from a point of view that reflects your position as a performer, designer, writer, artist and/or scholar. Devise a production conceptual approach statement (~75 words) plus a minimum of two inspiration images or drawings that convey your first response to a theoretical production for the play.

Journal Entry: PBS on Fidel Castro (5 pts)

Reflect on the American Experience Special as screened in class. Capture and time stamp one image from the video you found to be compelling. Discuss the image and moment in the context of the documentary. How did your understanding of the visual landscape of Cuba and its leadership become clearer after viewing this documentary? What other observations can you make?

Journal Entry / Shared on Buckeye Box: one (1) Theatre Company in Cuba (10 pts)

Research and provide a comprehensive overview on one Cuban theatre company, from the past or presently in operation. Who were the founders and how long were/are they in operation? Did they have a particular mission? Did it function with a resident company of playwrights, actors, technicians or was there another configuration? What sort of style and expression was at the center of the company?

Journal Entry: Links to Explore / your choice (5 pts)

Select one of the Links to Explore, as noted in the syllabus, and “report” on a topic of particular interest to you, as it relates to your research concentration. Include URL and a visual image if possible. Provide a concise summary, illustrating the main thrust of the article. How does the author construct and present the material? What new information did you glean from the reading and images?

Pizzuti Collection Response Paper (approx. 2–3 pages)

The class will visit the Ron and Ann Pizzuti Collection at 632 North Park Street in Columbus, which houses an impressive amount of Cuban art, some of which will be accessible for view. Begin the response essay with a description of the museum or gallery’s architectural features, interior and exterior. Identify a Cuban artist and specific artwork (drawing, painting, sculpture, etc.) you are drawn to and explain why. Select one piece of art for discussion. If permissible, obtain a photograph of the artwork, and include it with your essay. Describe the artwork in detail, when it was created, and information about the artist and use of use of media, approach, style, and application of materials.

Film Response – Class Discussion (approx. 20 minutes)

In addition to visual and performing arts, this course examines artistic expression in Cuban filmmaking since the 1950s. The films selected cover a wide range of filmmakers, topics and genres (see this site for a comprehensive list and description of genres and sub-genres: <https://www.nyfa.edu/student-resources/ultimate-list-of-film-sub-genres/>). You will craft a film response that also engages a class discussion. Include the following points in your approach and conversation: an overview of the storyline or plot and what you understand the filmmaker wanted to reveal, allude to, contradict, etc. in making the film. Who are the characters and what are their relationships? What is setting and timeline and how does it support the narrative? Which characters are fictional? Which ones represent real people that are or were central to Cuba’s artistic, economic, social, and/or political landscape? What is the emotional impact of the film? Following your presentation and the class conversation, add a summation paragraph, reflecting on the discussion and any significant points that were discussed, debated, and/or unresolved. Depending on the size of the class, this assignment may be a team assignment.

Research Paper and Presentation (15-20 minutes)

Prepare a visual and text-based presentation on a theme related to visual and/or performing art in Cuba. It will engage deeper research and study on aspects of literature, theatre, film, art, dance, or music that are introduced in the course. For your assistance, a list of resources may be found at the beginning of the syllabus. Develop a research question that may be examined in detail through further study, and create an abstract and research plan for instructor review and comment. Given the course emphasis, the presentation content should contain a balance of visual and text elements. A Q&A session will follow each presentation.

Dear Mary:

Thanks for your message requesting concurrence for your Theatre 5751 course. I appreciate your giving the Film Studies Program a chance to vet the proposal. The course looks to be a really interesting one, and I was pleased to find that several films are included on the syllabus. I don't see any concerns about curricular overlap with any Film Studies course offerings. At the same time, since it isn't a course that emphasizes film-specific critical approaches, I don't think that it's a good fit for our major, minor, or graduate interdisciplinary specialization. I thought I would mention this, even though you hadn't raised this possibility, just to let you know that it was something that I had taken into consideration. Let me know if you need anything further from me at this point.

All best,
Ryan

Dear Ryan Friedman,

Greetings to you from the Theatre Department. I'm Mary Tarantino, and I write today to request concurrence for a course Theatre aims to offer starting in autumn 2016.

In the early 2000s, Theatre offered a pre-departure course and in-country travel to Cuba, examining performance and culture. Recently with the ongoing thaw (melt?) of relations between Cuba and the U.S., Theatre has been successful in getting our study tour and in-country experience reauthorized. In the process of redesigning the syllabus and following a planning trip to Havana last July (many changes since 2002!) I have added content which the ASC committee feels should be vetted by film studies. Many of the films on the list are there for students to get a visual sense of Cuba over the last half of the 20th Century and beginning of the 21st.

I've attached the syllabus and course concurrence form. I'm hopeful that you will be able to provide a response by the end of this month. Should you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me. If this matter is best taken up by another faculty member in film studies and / or curriculum committee, I would greatly appreciate it if you would forward to that individual. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Mary

Hi Rebecca,

Nice to hear from you and get your response about the course concurrence.

Theatre does not want to imply that we are teaching a course in the visual arts when we are involved in the in-country experience.

I can change the title of Theatre 5798.02 to read: Study Tour - International: Performance and Culture in Cuba, so that it relates more closely to the title and content of the pre-departure course.

If that works for you, please advise and I'll move forward from there.

Thanks!

Hi Mary -

You know that in general I am in support of the trip to Cuba - I am a bit confused by the title of the travel part. I can get behind "performance and culture" but I am less sure of "performance and the visual arts". I think that if the theatre department approaches the visual arts as culture and looks at the way that the visual arts connect to theatre and the performing arts that makes sense. The way it is written it almost seems like the course is professing to teach the visual arts - and while of course theater is visual I don't think the Art department would claim to teach a Theater course. Does that make sense?

I thought I'd email you first so I can give a clean concurrence - If the title were changed and it became more clear in the course description that the exploration of the visual art sources ties directly back to the discipline of theatre that would satisfy my concerns.

Hi Glenn,

I'm circling back around regarding concurrence on Theatre's Cuba study courses. See attached, with two small changes: 1) course number and 2) added films resulting from our very successful trip to Havana last month. Dan and I are really hoping to be on the agenda for the first ASC curriculum meeting in autumn.

Thanks and enjoy August!

Dear Jay,

When I asked Theatre for a reason to request an exception to the deadline for course changes to 3832 the Undergraduate Director, copying the Chair, responded in the following way:

“The Department of Theatre has recently completed its Curriculum Map. Due to changes in personnel and budget cuts that prevented personnel from being able to work over the summer, the completion of that Map (which was the reason the course proposal for 3832 was bumped back) was delayed. We seek exemption to the deadline as the course has been waiting in the pipeline for this one document.”

I fully support this appeal for an exception and hope that it can be accepted.
All my best,

Garett
