Dear Charles,

On Wednesday, November 4, the Honors Panel of the ASC Curriculum Committee reviewed Political Science 4139E and 4305E. I am happy to report that both courses were unanimously approved with recommendations.

Political Science 4139E recommendations from the Panel:

Based on enrollments as an honors embedded course, consider offering the course as a completely separate honors course.

The Panel commends the instructor for having group discussion times and suggests, for scheduling purposes, to consider having honors students enroll in a "recitation" section.

Political Science 4305E recommendations from the Panel:

Depending on enrollment, the Panel thinks that it would be beneficial to the instructor and the students to have an Honors group discussion each week as a separate "recitation" section of the course.

Based on enrollments as an honors embedded course, consider offering the course as a completely separate honors course.

The courses will now move to University Honors and Scholars for review.

Should you have any questions about the feedback above, please feel free to contact Alexander Burry (Chair of the ASCC Honors Panel; cc'd on this message).

Best Wishes,
Danielle
