Comments

- A course that references digital and technology and terms like algorithms should seek concurrence from Computer Science, Engineering, and Math. Maybe other units. (by Heysel, Garrett Robert on 08/24/2016 08:43 PM)
- I anticipate that this course will not be given final approval before the September 1 deadline; as such, a petition to have the course effective for Spring 2017 is attached.

The History Department faculty recently decided to remove the 2000-level prerequisite from all 3000-level courses. As such, this new 3000-level course does not have the traditional prereq language included in our other 3000-level courses. We soon will be submitting course change requests removing the 2000-level prereq from all 3000-level courses effective for the earliest possible semester. (by Bowerman, Ashley E. on 08/12/2016 03:50 PM)

Course Description

This course is a survey of the ways digital technology is impacting history: from the collection and preservation of primary sources, to the analysis of those documents with the aid of algorithms, to the representation of the past through digital means. What does it look like when we take our study of the past into the digital realm? How has the availability of millions of digitized primary and secondary sources impacted our practices? How has the digital medium altered how we represent the past? How have data analytics tools helped historians to uncover new patterns in the past?

This course will be organized as both a seminar—where we will read and reflect upon important works in digital history—as well as a studio course—in which we will engage in the process of creating digital history. As a final deliverable, students will employ an application to create a digital project.

This course assumes no prior technical or programming knowledge. The course is meant to provide a basic grounding in the technological skills needed to present history in digital form.

Objectives/Learning Outcomes

By completing the requirements for this History course, students will:

- Understand techniques of digital preservation
- Learn to build digital maps and visualizations
- Understand techniques of topic modelling and data analytics
- Reflect on the ways in which digital tools are reconfiguring historical practice
- Reflect on how digital tools are providing new forms of representation to both scholars and the general public

This course is a GE Historical Study course, the goals of which are that:

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected GE Learning Outcomes

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Rationale for fulfilling the GE Learning Outcomes for Historical Study:

1. Through the workshops, students will learn techniques for preserving, representing and analyzing the past.
2. Through reading methodological essays and via in-depth class discussion, students will access and critique the new forms of historical interpretation that are enabled by digital tools.

Assignments and Grading

Requirements for this course include:

- 1) Attendance: worth 10% of the final grade. This is a simple percentage of classes attended. So, if you attend 85% of the classes, you receive an 85%
- 2) Class participation: worth 25% of the final grade. This class is organized as a workshop/seminar, and so student participation is essential. This score reflects your leadership of class discussion, evidence of having read assigned materials, and the quality of your contributions to the discussion.
- 3) Blog posts: worth 20% of the final grade: Before each class period, you will compose short reflective essays about the day's readings.
- 4) Workshop participation: 20% of the final grade. Twelve times this semester, we will conduct workshops exploring some technological applications. You will be expected to have read the introductory materials in advance of each workshop, and be ready in class to learn the application. For these assignments, you will be evaluated on evidence of having a basic understanding of the application in question.
- 5) Final project: 25% of the final grade. Taking one of the applications we have learned over the course of the semester, you will apply in in the creation of a digital project. So, for example, you might use Storymaps to create a spatial narrative of some historical period, or use Data For Research to analyze the secondary literature of an historical journal, or create a network diagram.

Grades will be computed on the following standard scale:

A: 92.6% and above	B+: 87.6% to 89.5%	C+: 77.6% to 79.5%	D+: 67.6% to 69.5%
A-: 89.6% to 92.5%	B: 82.6% to 87.5%	C: 72.6% to 77.5%	D: 62% to 67.5%
	B-: 79.6% to 82.5%	C-: 69.6% to 72.5%	E: below 62%

Academic Misconduct

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>

Disability Services

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. You are also welcome to register with Student Life Disability Services to establish reasonable accommodations. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. ## MEMORANDUM

TO: Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee (ASCC)

FROM: Paula Baker, Chair, Undergraduate Teaching Committee, Department of History

RE: Assessment Plan for proposed GE courses: Historical Study Category, Social Diversity in the U.S., and Diversity: Global Studies

Assessment Goals and Objectives

1. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for all History courses might be summarized as follows:

Historical Study GE Requirements:

Goals:

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Goals of the courses that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes:

History courses develop students' recognition of how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition through the following ways:

1. Critically examine theories of history, and historical methodologies
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on specific regions, time periods and themes of the human past.
3. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students will access and critically examine social, political, economic, military, gender, religious, ecological, and ethnic/racial/national movements in a wider socio- cultural context.
4. Students will carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct historical moments, social movements and their effects

2. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Social Diversity in the U.S. might be summarized as follows:

Social Diversity GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in social diversity will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students describe and evaluate the roles of such categories as race, gender and sexuality, disability, class, ethnicity, and religion in the pluralistic institutions and cultures of the United States.
2. Students recognize the role of social diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values regarding appreciation, tolerance, and equality of others.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand how the categories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation have shaped peoples' identities and the distribution of power and resources in the U.S. and elsewhere
  2. Describe theories of racial, ethnic, class, national, gender, and religious formation on exams and written assignments.
  3. Critically examine theories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation
  4. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation.
  5. Access and critically examine movements framed by race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and/or nation in a wider socio-cultural context.
  6. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments of ethnic, racial, nationalist, gender, class, and/or religious mobilization or social movements and their effects.
3. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Diversity: Global Studies might be summarized as follows:

Global Studies GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in Diversity – Global Studies will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students critically examine the political, economic, social, cultural and philosophical development in the World.
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on the differences and similarities between cultures and peoples.
3. Access and critically examine ethnically, nationally or religiously framed movements in a wider socio-cultural and global context.
4. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments in human history and how they shaped the world in the past and today.
5. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand the complexity of debates over international issues. They will describe theories of international issues on exams and written assignments.
6. Students will understand the roots and structures of today's globalized world.

II. Methods

An assessment of whether these objectives are met is effectively carried out by an examination of the work students are actually required to do for the course. Contributions in class discussions will be considered, but weighted more lightly, given the tendency for more confident students to contribute more to such discussions. Paper and exams will provide an understanding of students' abilities to think historically and to engage in analysis. This can be gauged by their responses to specific exam questions—asking students to provide a perspective on history and relate that perspective to an understanding of the factors that shape human activity. Thus, exams for Historical Study courses will have at least one question that requires students to provide a perspective on the factors that shaped an event or theory. Similarly, for courses that include Diversity in the U.S. GE requirements, we will have at least one question that requires students to provide a description of the roles of categories such as race, gender, class, ethnicity and religion and how those roles have helped shape either their perspective or the country's perspective on diversity. For courses that include Diversity: Global Studies, we will ask one question that requires students to provide an understanding of some combination of political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical differences in or among the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S. In this way, we hope to measure the courses (and the students') progress toward the multiple objectives of the GE. In this way we should be able to ascertain whether they are acquiring the desired skills and not simply learning (and regurgitating) specific information.

Summary of Data:

A committee, appointed by the UTC Chair, will be asked to evaluate a sample of questions and papers, and to gauge how well the goals of the course seem reflected in them. Assessment of Historical Study, Social Diversity, and Diversity: Global Issues from the GE goals will be carried out primarily through the evaluation of formal graded assignments and ungraded in-class assignments. The committee will rank the assignments across a four-category scale that captures students' mastery of the GE goals. Students will complete an informal feedback survey halfway through the semester to assess their own performance, the pace of the class, and the instructor's effectiveness. A brief summary report will be written by the UTC Chair, and that, as well as the sampled questions themselves, will be made available to the instructor and to the Chair of the department. We intend to insure that the proposed courses adequately articulate these goals, teach toward them, test for them, and help students realize their individual potential to meet them. Assessments will be summarized and used to alter the course for the next teaching.

The History Department is petitioning to have the new course request for History 3702 effective for Spring 2017. The proposing instructor would like to teach this course in Spring 2017 but was not able to complete the syllabus before approval committees broke off for the summer.

Sincerely,

Christopher Otter, Undergraduate Teaching Committee Chair

I checked with the CSE curriculum committee and we have no objections, so CSE gives its concurrence.

Chris,

I'm associate chair for CSE so I handle curriculum/teaching issues for the CSE department.

It looks like a very interesting course. The CSE Curriculum Committee will take a look at it and get back to you on concurrence.

Paul Sivilotti, CC'd on this e-mail, is the CSE Curriculum Committee chair.

Rafe, do we have any opinions about this class. I think it is good in the history curriculum to recognize computing as important driving force for advancement in the human history. Xiaodong

Dear Professor Zhang,

The Department of History is seeking concurrence from your department for a new course in Digital History, History 3702. I've attached a copy of the syllabus here for you or the relevance committee to review. Would it be possible for you to get back to me within 2 weeks about this? If I don't hear from you by the 9th of September, I'll assume you've approved it!

Please do let me know if you have any questions about the class!

My best,

Chris
