History 2040

History of Agriculture and Rural America

This course is a broad survey of the economic, social and political history of agriculture and the countryside from the pre-Columbian period to the present. Especially in the years before the 1920s, the history of rural America is the history of America. The rural majority produced the cash crops that floated the American economy. The conflict over slavery – the Southern agricultural workforce and the plantation economy it supported – led to civil war. The 19th-century revolutions in transportation and industrial expansion fueled westward agricultural expansion, increased productivity, and political turmoil over railroad rates, credit, and currency. Well into the 20th century, the representatives from the agricultural South and West shaped national policy, especially its public welfare provisions. More recently agriculture has again been at the center of national debates about labor, food safety, and the environment. If agricultural history has been largely forgotten

Since this is a survey, we will cover a lot of ground but focus our attention on a number of key issues -- labor, abundance, political activism, public policy, and technology – and trace their interactions and change over time. We will analyze changes in both agriculture as an industry and in farm households and communities.

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

This course fulfills the following GE requirements: Historical Study. It also counts toward the history major and minor.

Historical Study

Goals: Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Rationale for fulfilling the GE Learning Outcomes for Historical Study:

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes in Historical Study: History courses develop students' knowledge of how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition in the following ways:

1. Critically examine theories of history, and historical methodologies

Students will engage with both primary and secondary sources and examine differing interpretations of such issues as the capitalist orientation of farmers in early America and the goals of the late-19th century Populist movement.

2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on specific regions, time periods and themes of the human past.

Students in this course will compare regional patterns in American agriculture and explore debates about such issues as technology and the adoption of new technology, including biotech, over time. They will explore how actors – farmers, agricultural businesses, and the wider public – have shaped these debates.

3. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students will assess and critically examine social, political, economic, military, gender, religious, ecological, and ethnic/racial/national movements in a wider socio- cultural context.

Students will analyze a range of primary and secondary sources that address, for example, agrarian movements in the context of American political development, and the issue of farm labor in the contexts of gender, race, and rights as ideas about each changed over time.

4. Students will carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper comparing distinct historical moments, social movements and their effects.

In midterm and final exams and one short paper, students will have the opportunity to explain the impact of important events, such as New Deal policies and the late 20th-century environmental movement for example, on agriculture.

Academic Misconduct

The Committee on Academic Misconduct investigates or establishes procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. "Academic misconduct" includes cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct (http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/info_for_students/csc.asp).

What is plagiarism?

See http://cstw.osu.edu/writing_center/handouts/research_plagiarism.htm

Policies:

All students must be officially enrolled in the course by the end of the second full week of the quarter. No requests to add the course will be approved by the Chair of the Department after that time. Enrolling officially and on time is solely the responsibility of the student.

This syllabus is subject to revision as the semester proceeds. Announcements will be made in class or via OSU email accounts and Carmen. Students are responsible for being aware of any changes. Old people like me and most everyone in a professional capacity uses email. Check yours!

If you have any questions about the content or conduct of the course, please do not hesitate to contact me.

We will start on time and end on time. Turn off mobile devices unless you have an emergency you need to track. Texting and surfing is distracting to you, to me, and those sitting near you. If you know that you have to leave class early, let me know and sit near a door so as not to disturb others.

Late Work: All students are responsible for knowing and adhering to the deadlines for course assignments. Late work will be penalized five points per day. The only exception to this will be when you have explicit, advanced permission. If you anticipate a problem in completing or submitting your work on time, contact me in a timely manner.

Reading:

The following books are required and are available at the campus bookstore:

MEMORANDUM

TO: Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee (ASCC)

FROM: Paula Baker, Chair, Undergraduate Teaching Committee, Department of History

RE: Assessment Plan for proposed GE courses: Historical Study Category, Social Diversity in the U.S., and Diversity: Global Studies

Assessment Goals and Objectives

1. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for all History courses might be summarized as follows:

Historical Study GE Requirements:

Goals:

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Goals of the courses that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes:

History courses develop students' recognition of how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition through the following ways:

1. Critically examine theories of history, and historical methodologies
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on specific regions, time periods and themes of the human past.
3. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students will access and critically examine social, political, economic, military, gender, religious, ecological, and ethnic/racial/national movements in a wider socio- cultural context.
4. Students will carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct historical moments, social movements and their effects

2. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Social Diversity in the U.S. might be summarized as follows:

Social Diversity GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in social diversity will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students describe and evaluate the roles of such categories as race, gender and sexuality, disability, class, ethnicity, and religion in the pluralistic institutions and cultures of the United States.
2. Students recognize the role of social diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values regarding appreciation, tolerance, and equality of others.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand how the categories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation have shaped peoples' identities and the distribution of power and resources in the U.S. and elsewhere
 2. Describe theories of racial, ethnic, class, national, gender, and religious formation on exams and written assignments.
 3. Critically examine theories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation
 4. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation.
 5. Access and critically examine movements framed by race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and/or nation in a wider socio-cultural context.
 6. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments of ethnic, racial, nationalist, gender, class, and/or religious mobilization or social movements and their effects.
3. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Diversity: Global Studies might be summarized as follows:

Global Studies GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in Diversity – Global Studies will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students critically examine the political, economic, social, cultural and philosophical development in the World.
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on the differences and similarities between cultures and peoples.
3. Access and critically examine ethnically, nationally or religiously framed movements in a wider socio-cultural and global context.
4. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments in human history and how they shaped the world in the past and today.
5. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand the complexity of debates over international issues. They will describe theories of international issues on exams and written assignments.
6. Students will understand the roots and structures of today's globalized world.

II. Methods

An assessment of whether these objectives are met is effectively carried out by an examination of the work students are actually required to do for the course. Contributions in class discussions will be considered, but weighted more lightly, given the tendency for more confident students to contribute more to such discussions. Paper and exams will provide an understanding of students' abilities to think historically and to engage in analysis. This can be gauged by their responses to specific exam questions—asking students to provide a perspective on history and relate that perspective to an understanding of the factors that shape human activity. Thus, exams for Historical Study courses will have at least one question that requires students to provide a perspective on the factors that shaped an event or theory. Similarly, for courses that include Diversity in the U.S. GE requirements, we will have at least one question that requires students to provide a description of the roles of categories such as race, gender, class, ethnicity and religion and how those roles have helped shape either their perspective or the country's perspective on diversity. For courses that include Diversity: Global Studies, we will ask one question that requires students to provide an understanding of some combination of political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical differences in or among the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S. In this way, we hope to measure the courses (and the students') progress toward the multiple objectives of the GE. In this way we should be able to ascertain whether they are acquiring the desired skills and not simply learning (and regurgitating) specific information.

Summary of Data:

A committee, appointed by the UTC Chair, will be asked to evaluate a sample of questions and papers, and to gauge how well the goals of the course seem reflected in them. Assessment of Historical Study, Social Diversity, and Diversity: Global Issues from the GE goals will be carried out primarily through the evaluation of formal graded assignments and ungraded in-class assignments. The committee will rank the assignments across a four-category scale that captures students' mastery of the GE goals. Students will complete an informal feedback survey halfway through the semester to assess their own performance, the pace of the class, and the instructor's effectiveness. A brief summary report will be written by the UTC Chair, and that, as well as the sampled questions themselves, will be made available to the instructor and to the Chair of the department. We intend to insure that the proposed courses adequately articulate these goals, teach toward them, test for them, and help students realize their individual potential to meet them. Assessments will be summarized and used to alter the course for the next teaching.

Dear Diane,

A professor in the History Department has developed a new class on the history of rural America (History 2040). We are writing to request concurrence for this class. A syllabus is attached. Could you possibly send this to the relevant committee for me? We usually request around 2 weeks for turnaround, since the assumption is that this is handled via email. Is it ok for me to give you until 9 September to do this?
