The Holocaust in Israeli Society and Culture

Day/Time

Location

Instructor: Professor Naomi Brenner

Office Hours:

Office: 315 Hagerty Hall, 1775 College Rd.

Email: brenner.108@osu.edu

Mailbox: NELC office, 300 Hagerty Hall

The state of Israel was established in 1948, only a few years after the Holocaust, the Nazi genocide of European Jewry (1939-1945). As a result, the effects of the Holocaust were registered in virtually all aspects of the new Israeli society and its culture: fierce political debates about taking reparations money from Germany; Hebrew short stories, poems, plays and novel about Holocaust survivors and their children; controversial public trials of Nazis; films about the psychological and ethical implications of the war.

This class will examine the effects of the Holocaust in Israeli society and culture, analyzing changing perspectives on the war and its survivors and the texts, films and art that wrestled with its legacies. While our focus will be on Israeli society and culture, we will also reflect on larger questions about global genocide, trauma, memory and commemoration.

COURSE GOALS

- ❖ Students will interpret the historical, social and cultural effects of the Nazi annihilation of European Jewry, the Holocaust, in Israel. – primarily both individually and collaboratively through small-group and whole-class group discussion, as well as in the form of the midterm examination (for 10% and 20% of the final course grade, respectively).
- ❖ Students will analyze a wide variety of Hebrew and Israeli primary texts, historical materials, and verbal and visual art that grapple with the Holocaust – primarily through 2 paper assignments engaged with course materials and a 3rd in which students critique a film of choice (for 10% of the final grade each).
- ❖ Students will evaluate the immediate effects and longer-term legacies of genocide on societies and their cultures – by way of midterm and final examinations (for 20% and 30% of the final grade, respectively).
- ❖ Students will articulate how the specificities of the Holocaust and the State of Israel can serve as points of access to understanding Jewish and universal historical and cultural memory, global diversity, and other cultural dynamics – primarily in the form of a) one paper assignment in which students perform individual research and b) a cumulative final examination (for 10% and 30% of the final grade, respectively).

This course fulfills the General Education category of Culture and Ideas.

Goals: Students evaluate significant cultural phenomena and ideas in order to develop capacities for aesthetic and historical response and judgment; and interpretation and evaluation.

Expected Learning Outcomes

1. Students analyze and interpret major forms of human thought, culture, and expression.
2. Students evaluate how ideas influence the character of human beliefs, the perception of reality, and the norms which guide human behavior.

In this course, students will analyze and interpret historical texts, literature, films, and articles that relate to the Holocaust. Through encounters with a variety of ideas and cultural materials, they will evaluate and re-evaluate difficult but important issues relating to survivor trauma, heroism, evil and the banality of evil, and the possibilities and limits of cultural representation.

It also fulfills the General Education category of Diversity (Global)

Goals: Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes - Global Studies

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

This course focuses on the legacies of the Holocaust in Israel, which are distinct from those in other societies because of its immense impact on the newly-independent Jewish State. Students will gain insight into Israeli history and society through relevant political and legal debates, social dynamics of immigrant survivors, and efforts to remember and commemorate the Holocaust. At the same time, they will reflect on broader issues of genocide, witnessing, trauma and healing that have global ramifications.

COURSE MATERIALS:

The following books are required and are available at local bookstores (OSU Barnes and Noble, SBX) and on internet sites like Amazon:

- ❖ Tom Segev, The Seventh Million: The Israelis and the Holocaust. Picador, 2000.
- ❖ David Grossman, See Under: LOVE. Picador, 2002.

If you are able to purchase the books, please make sure that you buy paper, not electronic, edition. They are also on reserve at the Thompson Library.

Other readings, links, and resources will be available on Carmen, on reserve at the Thompson Library and through the Secured Media Library. Please make sure that you have access to this class on Carmen and the Secured Media Library let me know immediately if you have trouble accessing either.

Reading and viewing assignments will vary in length, depending on the topic and the difficulty of the text. They must be completed by the beginning of class on the day that they are assigned. Please be sure to bring the assigned readings to class, because we will be referring to the text in our discussions.

Whenever possible, films that will be screened in class are on reserve at the Thompson Library.

REQUIREMENTS

Attendance, Participation & Preparation (10%)

- Complete the assigned readings and viewings before class. Make sure to pace yourself – don't leave everything to the night before or the day of class because you'll have too much to process effectively.
  - Be sure to take notes for future reference in discussions and writing assignments. This will help you improve your ability to analyze, appreciate and interpret the material that we focus on.
- Participate in class discussions and in-class groups. This course revolves around class discussions of the material. Come to class prepared to be an active participant: ready to talk about the readings, to consider different viewpoints and to ask questions. You will be graded on how you engage the material and other students, not how much you know about the subject. Not everyone feels comfortable participating in class, but if it's difficult for you to speak up in discussions, try to show your interest and preparation by asking questions, taking an active role in group work, and speaking to me outside of class.

- Quizzes may be given, particularly if students are not keeping up with assignments. Quiz questions will primarily ask you factual questions about assigned texts and films.

Papers (40%)

- There will be four short writing assignments (700-800 words) over the course of the semester, see the schedule for due dates.
- Writing assignments will be distributed via Carmen at least 10 days before the papers are due, and will specify topics, format and length.
- Two of the papers will focus primarily on material assigned for class sessions; one paper will ask you to choose a film to view and analyze; one paper will require further individual research.
- Papers will be submitted electronically, via the Carmen Drop Box. Please note that I have enable Turn-It-In, a program that checks the originality of papers. All written assignments will automatically be checked against the program's database.

Midterm (20%)

- A take-home midterm will be distributed on the date listed in the schedule. It will be due, via the Carmen dropbox, by 6pm on [Date].
- The midterm must represent your own work. You may discuss the questions with other people, but you must write your own responses.
- If midterms submitted are substantially similar, suggesting that students wrote it together, those students will take an additional midterm in my office, at a mutually agreed upon time.
- Any midterm with a grade lower than a B may be rewritten and resubmitted. Students wishing to rewrite a midterm must first schedule a meeting with the instructor. If the grade on the rewritten midterm is higher than the original midterm, the final grade will be an average of the grades on the original and revised papers. If the grade on the rewritten midterm is lower than the original midterm, the original midterm grade will stand.

Final Exam (30%)

- A cumulative final exam will be given in-person at the end of the semester during the university scheduled time, [Date]. No make-up exams will be given.

Final grades will be calculated as follows:

Attendance & Participation 10%

Papers	40%
Midterm	20%
Final Exam	30%

Grading scale: A (93-100) A- (90-92) B+ (87-89) B (83-86) B- (80-82) C+ (77-79) C (73-76) C- (70-72) D+ (67-69) D (60-66) E (below 60)

CLASS POLICIES

Absences: To do well in this class, you need to be present and awake. Since things come up (illness, family issues, other commitments), you may be absent one time without penalty. After that absence, each additional unexcused absence will lower your overall grade, up to 5% per unexcused absence. This could potentially have a major effect on your grade – in fact, you could fail the class for missing too many classes.

- After one absence, please let me know by email if you need to miss class, preferably ahead of time. If you are ill for a significant period of time, or have other reasons that prevent you from attending class, please let me know as soon as possible. I will decide the grade penalty (up to 5% per absence) that will apply.
- 2-3 late arrivals or early departures (without explanation) will count as an absence.
- Sleeping through class lectures, discussion or film screenings will be treated like late arrival/early departure, which means the 2-3 occurrences will count as an absence.
- You are responsible for all material that you miss in class, including films, film clips, lectures, discussions and assignments. Make sure you have the contact information (email, phone number) for one or two other students in class so that you can get the information that you need.

In Class: Please do not read newspapers, email, websites, text messages, etc. during class. No phone or computers are allowed during class without special arrangement. Using a phone in any way during class, and especially during film screenings, will result in an automatic 0 for that session's Attendance and Participation grade. If you need to communicate with someone, step outside of the room for a minute and return when you're done.

Class Cancellations: If an emergency arises and I need to cancel class, I will send an email to the class, and ask that a sign be posted on the door. Please try to check your email before class in case anything comes up.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism – the representation of someone else’s words or ideas as one’s own – is a very serious offense, and will result in serious consequences. By plagiarism, I mean failing to acknowledge someone else’s work or ideas (word for word or paraphrasing), as well as cheating on quizzes and tests. All suspected cases of plagiarism will be reported to the Committee on Academic Misconduct.

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct at <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

This is not to say that you cannot use other people’s ideas, just that you must acknowledge your sources (orally or with footnotes) and try to build on those ideas (agree, disagree, modify, give your own examples). Please come and talk to me if you have any questions about this.

Writing Center: The Writing Center (www.cstw.osu.edu) is a great (free!) resource on campus for helping improve your writing skills and work on specific assignments. You can set up an appointment or drop in at certain times for one-on-one help with your writing.

Contact Me: Please come talk to me over the course of the quarter if you have any problems or concerns, but also if you have questions or anything else that you’d like to talk about. It’s great to have the opportunity to get to know you outside of class. Office hours are a good time to catch me, but you can also email me to set up an appointment to talk.

For quick questions or concerns, email (brenner.108@osu.edu) is the best way to reach me. I will do my best to respond within 24 hours.

DISABILITIES

Students with disabilities that have been certified by the Office for Disability Services will be appropriately accommodated, and should inform the instructor as soon as possible of their needs. The Office for Disability Services is located in 150 Pomerene Hall,

1760 Neil Avenue; telephone 292-3307, TDD 292-0901;

Hebrew 3705 The Holocaust in Israeli Society & Culture
GE Cultures & Ideas GE rationale

Goals: Students evaluate significant cultural phenomena and ideas in order to develop capacities for aesthetic and historical response and judgment; and interpretation and evaluation.

Expected Learning Outcomes

1. Students analyze and interpret major forms of human thought, culture, and expression.
  1. Students will understand and analyze the political, psychological, social and cultural ramifications of the Holocaust in Israel from the 1940s until the present day.
  2. Through reading and viewing assignments, class discussion and written assignments, students will encounter different forms of expression and will analyze those forms in the light of broader questions related to the course goals: how societies remember; how definitions of genocide and heroism change; how Israeli culture compares with other global cultures; how the Holocaust continues to be interpreted and reinterpreted.
  3. Reading assignments for each class meeting will ask students to interpret and analyze a variety of different genres: historical documents; historical film footage; scholarly writing; fiction; poetry; visual art; websites; and film. Students will be expected to express evaluations in small-group and class discussions of how different forms of expression communicate their messages, consider intended and unintended audiences, and assess how interpretation changes over time.
  4. Writing assignments, exams and in-class assignments will ask students to grapple with the texts and films, to interpret and evaluate the legacy of the Holocaust, and to reflect on the difficulties of aesthetic and historical responses to genocide and trauma in Israel and in other societies.
2. Students evaluate how ideas influence the character of human beliefs, the perception of reality, and the norms which guide human behavior.
  1. As part of several key written assignments, students will assess the immediate effects and longer term legacies of genocide and trauma on Israeli society and on societies in general, focusing in particular on questions of communal memory, commemoration, the ethics of representations and intergenerational dynamics.
  2. As they analyze assigned readings and viewings, students will evaluate and re-evaluate difficult but important issues relating to survivor trauma, heroism, evil and the banality of evil, and the possibilities and limits of cultural representation. Students will discuss – in class and in written assignments – questions about how ideas influence beliefs and behavior, such as: What does it mean to remember? How is memory negotiated, enshrined and institutionalized? Who controls cultural representation in different places and at different times?
  3. Papers and exams will give students the opportunity to continue to reflect on how the ideas communicated in texts influence their readers, moving from larger, abstract topics such as genocide and trauma to specific representations and perceptions of reality, past and present.

GE Cultures &amp; Ideas Expected Learning Outcomes	Source of Data for Direct Assessment	Direct Assessment Method	Change	Measure of Success	Data Collected by Indirect Assessment	Indirect Assess't Method	Change or Success
1. Students analyze and interpret major forms of human thought, culture, and expression	First and fourth short essays (Appendix A)	Rate student papers from 1-5 on analysis and interpretation.	Expect that in first essay majority of students' analysis, appreciation and interpretation will be superficial.  By fourth essay expect more students to demonstrate greater skill in analysis and interpretation.	Success is 75% of students rating in middle-high range for analysis and interpretation of works related to the legacy of the Holocaust in Israel.	Whether students see course as successful at providing opportunities to analyze and interpret human thought and cultural expression. (Appendix B)	Opinion Survey	Success is if 75% of students report opportunities to analyze and interpret texts, visual art and other human expression related to the legacy of the Holocaust in Israel.
2. Students evaluate how ideas influence the character of human beliefs, the perception of reality, and the norms which guide human behavior.	Second and fourth short essays (Appendix A)	Rate student papers from 1-5 on evaluation of the influence of ideas about the Holocaust on human belief, perception of reality and norms that guide human behavior.	Expect that in second essay majority of students' evaluations will be primarily personal and reactive.  By last essay expect more students to demonstrate greater skill in evaluating ideas and their impact in different societies and at different times.	Success is 75% of students rating in middle-high range for evaluation of ideas.	Whether students see course as successful at providing new opportunities to evaluate ideas and how they impact human beliefs, perceptions of reality and human behavior. (Appendix B)	Opinion Survey	Success is if 75% of students report opportunities to evaluate ideas in ways they had not previously considered.

Goals: Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes - Global Studies

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
  - a. Students will examine the legacies of the Holocaust in Israel, and will articulate with at least elementary facility how those legacies are experienced in the State of Israel in ways that are distinct from those in other societies because of the war's immense impact on the state's founding and identity. Understanding the history and dynamics of Holocaust remembrance will give students insight into Israeli politics, society, and culture.
  - b. Students will demonstrate familiarity, in the course of written assignments and class discussion, with Israeli history and society from 1948 to the present day by examining topics such as relevant political and legal debates (Kastzner trial, reparations debate, Eichmann trial); social dynamics of immigrant survivors, and efforts to remember and commemorate the Holocaust.
  - c. Readings and viewing assignments task students with exploring approaches to the topics in different disciplines, encompassing fields such as political science, history, sociology, literature, film, art history, and museum studies.
  - d. Written assignments and exams will measure how students can use their knowledge about Israeli society to analyze broader philosophical and aesthetic questions.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.
  - a. Students will examine issues of genocide, witnessing, trauma and healing that have global ramifications, both in the legacies of the Holocaust in other societies and the impact of other instances of genocide. Class discussions and written assignments will ask students to reflect on questions such as: What responsibilities do individuals have in remembering and commemorating genocide? What responsibilities do societies have? How does the Israeli case compare with other instances in genocide and their legacies?
  - b. Students will read texts and study visual materials relating to Israel and the Holocaust and, through guiding questions provided by the instructor, produce both oral and written analyses with reference to both Israeli society and global societies, focusing on issues such as how societies remember; the construction of memorial statues and museums; and the ethics of aesthetic representation.
  - c. Written assignments will ask students to compare the Israeli case with their own experience of Holocaust education and representation, and with other comparable cases of the effects of genocide, trauma and memory. Students will also be asked to put themselves in the place of various historical figures and artists, making difficult choices about representation and commemoration.
