Conflict in the Horn of Africa:
Civil Wars, Violence, and Identity Politics in the Horn of Africa, 1800 to the Present

The Horn of Africa refers to the geographical region of northeast Africa, which includes the present-day countries of Somalia, Djibouti, Ethiopia, Eritrea, Sudan, and South Sudan. Although the Horn of Africa is the home of some well-known civilizations such as Nubia and Axum, the region has been embroiled in interlocking civil wars, ethnic and religious conflicts, territorial disputes, and the disintegration of the nation states. In the Sudan, for instance, a civil war has raged for almost half a century, resulting in the breakup of the country and the emergence of the Republic of South Sudan. At the same time, a genocidal war in Darfur is continuing. Similarly, after several decades of fighting against Ethiopia, Eritrea became an independent country in 1991. Yet the relationship between the two countries has remained tense over unresolved border disputes and other disagreements. Moreover, the Ethiopian regime is currently facing growing internal opposition. Somalia is still caught in a cycle of violence that has fragmented the country. Compounding the problem was the rise of Islamism in the region. Since 1989, the Sudan has been ruled by an Islamist regime that has been accused of harboring terrorist groups and committing gross human right violations, while Somalia has become the base for such militant Islamist group as al-Shabab that has been engaged in terrorist activities both inside and outside Somalia. It is not surprising that the Horn of Africa has figured prominently in the U.S. “war on terror” in the aftermath of September 11th. In short, the region is caught in what appears to be a perpetual cycle of violence that has far regional and international implications.

The current conflicts in the Horn of Africa have deep roots in the region’s past. Since the early nineteenth century, the Horn of Africa has experienced cyclical patterns of hegemony and subjugation that were closely associated with violent state formation and imperial expansion. This was indeed the case of Ethiopia and the Turco-Egyptian empire in the Sudan. These violent imperial expansions have created militarized political cultures and systems of ethnic and regional hierarchies that were further accentuated by European colonial rule.

The main goal of this course, therefore, is to examine the root causes, the nature, and the impact of these conflicts on local communities as well as their regional and international implications. The key topics that will be discussed are: the process of state formation and imperial expansion in the nineteenth century, the roots of regional inequalities and marginalization, the advent of European colonial rule and its impact, the post-colonial conflicts and the demands for self-determination in South Sudan and Eritrea, the civil War and the disintegration of Somalia, the rise of Islamism in Sudan and Somalia, the war in Darfur, terrorism and piracy, the emergence of South Sudan as an independent state and its current crises, and the regional and international implications of the Horn of Africa conflicts. In addition to lectures and discussion, these topics will be illustrated by films and audiovisual materials.

Credit Hours: 3.0

Group Africa, post-1750

Fields of Study: African History

Constellations: Human Conflict, Peace and Diplomacy, Power, Culture, and the State

GE Fulfillment: Historical Studies

Historical Study Goals

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition

Expected Learning Outcomes

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.

The students will be able to discuss the relationship between violence, culture and identity as well as the role of warfare and militarism in shaping the modern world. The course will also enhance their understanding of the role of such factors as ethnicity, religion, nationalism, class, and gender in contemporary conflicts. At the end of the course, the students will be able to make informed analysis about the causes and the effects of modern conflicts in the Horn of Africa and beyond.

2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.

By examining the root causes of conflicts in the Horn of Africa and the history of the region since the nineteenth century, the students will be able to understand how modern conflicts are products of historical developments. Moreover, discussing such issues as Islamism, piracy, and terrorism in the Horn, the students will recognize the global dimensions of the conflicts in the Horn of Africa and their implications for regional and international security

3 Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

The course will use a wide range of primary and secondary sources as well as films and documentaries. The students will be able to see the ways in which the conflicts in the Horn of Africa have been interpreted and conceptualized by scholars and contemporary observers.

Course Requirements

1 Enrollment

All students must be officially enrolled in the course by the end of the second full week of the semester. No requests to add the course will be approved by the department chair after that time. Enrolling officially and on time is solely the responsibility of the student.

2 Attendance

Regular attendance and active participation is mandatory. To enforce this requirement, attendance will be taken at the beginning of lectures. Three unexcused absences will result in the deduction of 2 points from the student's total grade. Excused absence is limited only to medical emergency, illness, death in the immediate family and will only be accepted with proper documentation.

3 Readings and Lectures

This course draws on a wide variety of sources, and reading is one of the key ways students are expected to learn. In addition to assigned text books, the students are required to do all the assigned readings including those on reserve, and the readings posted on Carmen. Lectures will be in the form of Power Point presentations and will be posted on Carmen regularly.

4 Taking Exams and Submitting Assignments

All written assignments should be typed, double-spaced, with 1-inch margins and in a 12-point font. Your name should be on the first page and all pages should be numbered. All assignments must be submitted through Carmen

5 Late Submission

A late submission of assignments is unacceptable. Each day of lateness will result in a reduction of 2 points from the assignment's total points. Requests for extension of scheduled assignments will not be granted except under extraordinary and verifiable circumstances.

Assignments and Grades (total points 100%)

Below are assignments and the breakdown of the grades

	Total points (100)
5 Quizzes (each 5 points)	25
Two in-class exams (20 points each)	40
Group Projects (10 points)	10
Paper	25

Exams

Each exam will include two sections; the first is in the form of identifications and the second section will consist of essay questions.

Quizzes

There will be 5 quizzes during the semester. Each quiz will comprise multiple-choice questions and fill in the blank.

Group Projects

Each student is required to participate in a group project. These projects will deal with various key topics in the course. The class will be divided into several groups and each group will be assigned a specific topic and is required to take the lead in the discussion. A set of discussion questions for each topic will be given in advance. Each student is expected to write a 2-3-page paper, which will form the basis of the presentation and should be submitted after the presentation.

Final Paper: Each student is required to write a paper of about 2000-2500 words on a topic to be selected after consultation with the instructor. A list of topics will be provided by the instructor. The paper should follow the guidelines of Mary Lynn Rampolla's A Pocket Guide to Writing in History, 2012. Students are encouraged to obtain a copy of this manual. Further instructions will be posted to Carmen.

Grading Scale

93-100 = A; 90-92 = A-; 87-89 = B+; 83-86 = B; 80-82 = B-; 77-79 = C+;
73-76 = C; 70-72 = C-; 67-69 = D+; 63-66 = D; 60-62 = D-; 0-59 = F

Academic Misconduct

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Students/csc.asp. <http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/infor>

Disability Services

Students with disabilities (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions) that have been certified by the Office of Student Life Disability Services will be appropriately accommodated and should inform the instructor as soon as possible of their needs. The Office of Student Life Disability Services is located in 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue; telephone 614- 292-3307, slds@osu.edu; slds.osu.edu.

OSU Writing Center

Since your grade for this course will be largely determined by the quality of your writing, I strongly recommend that you make good use of the Writing Center. Seeking assistance from the Writing Center DOES NOT constitute academic misconduct. Consult the Center's website for further information. <http://cstw.osu.edu>

MEMORANDUM

TO: Arts and Sciences Curriculum Committee (ASCC)

FROM: Paula Baker, Chair, Undergraduate Teaching Committee, Department of History

RE: Assessment Plan for proposed GE courses: Historical Study Category, Social Diversity in the U.S., and Diversity: Global Studies

Assessment Goals and Objectives

1. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for all History courses might be summarized as follows:

Historical Study GE Requirements:

Goals:

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Goals of the courses that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes:

History courses develop students' recognition of how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition through the following ways:

1. Critically examine theories of history, and historical methodologies
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on specific regions, time periods and themes of the human past.
3. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students will access and critically examine social, political, economic, military, gender, religious, ecological, and ethnic/racial/national movements in a wider socio- cultural context.
4. Students will carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct historical moments, social movements and their effects

2. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Social Diversity in the U.S. might be summarized as follows:

Social Diversity GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in social diversity will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students describe and evaluate the roles of such categories as race, gender and sexuality, disability, class, ethnicity, and religion in the pluralistic institutions and cultures of the United States.
2. Students recognize the role of social diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values regarding appreciation, tolerance, and equality of others.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand how the categories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation have shaped peoples' identities and the distribution of power and resources in the U.S. and elsewhere
 2. Describe theories of racial, ethnic, class, national, gender, and religious formation on exams and written assignments.
 3. Critically examine theories of race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation
 4. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and nation.
 5. Access and critically examine movements framed by race, gender, class, ethnicity, religion, and/or nation in a wider socio-cultural context.
 6. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments of ethnic, racial, nationalist, gender, class, and/or religious mobilization or social movements and their effects.
3. Both the GE and course-specific learning objectives for History courses requesting Diversity: Global Studies might be summarized as follows:

Global Studies GE Requirements:

Goals:

Courses in Diversity – Global Studies will foster students' understanding of the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Goals of the course that fulfill the GE Learning Outcomes: Students will achieve the social diversity goals and learning outcomes by

1. Through reading in primary and secondary sources and in-depth class discussion, students critically examine the political, economic, social, cultural and philosophical development in the World.
2. Engage with contemporary and historical debates on the differences and similarities between cultures and peoples.
3. Access and critically examine ethnically, nationally or religiously framed movements in a wider socio-cultural and global context.
4. Carry out in-depth analysis in a final paper, exam, or project comparing distinct moments in human history and how they shaped the world in the past and today.
5. Completing readings, attending lectures, and participating in class discussions and in-class assignments that will help students understand the complexity of debates over international issues. They will describe theories of international issues on exams and written assignments.
6. Students will understand the roots and structures of today's globalized world.

II. Methods

An assessment of whether these objectives are met is effectively carried out by an examination of the work students are actually required to do for the course. Contributions in class discussions will be considered, but weighted more lightly, given the tendency for more confident students to contribute more to such discussions. Paper and exams will provide an understanding of students' abilities to think historically and to engage in analysis. This can be gauged by their responses to specific exam questions—asking students to provide a perspective on history and relate that perspective to an understanding of the factors that shape human activity. Thus, exams for Historical Study courses will have at least one question that requires students to provide a perspective on the factors that shaped an event or theory. Similarly, for courses that include Diversity in the U.S. GE requirements, we will have at least one question that requires students to provide a description of the roles of categories such as race, gender, class, ethnicity and religion and how those roles have helped shape either their perspective or the country's perspective on diversity. For courses that include Diversity: Global Studies, we will ask one question that requires students to provide an understanding of some combination of political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical differences in or among the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S. In this way, we hope to measure the courses (and the students') progress toward the multiple objectives of the GE. In this way we should be able to ascertain whether they are acquiring the desired skills and not simply learning (and regurgitating) specific information.

Summary of Data:

A committee, appointed by the UTC Chair, will be asked to evaluate a sample of questions and papers, and to gauge how well the goals of the course seem reflected in them. Assessment of Historical Study, Social Diversity, and Diversity: Global Issues from the GE goals will be carried out primarily through the evaluation of formal graded assignments and ungraded in-class assignments. The committee will rank the assignments across a four-category scale that captures students' mastery of the GE goals. Students will complete an informal feedback survey halfway through the semester to assess their own performance, the pace of the class, and the instructor's effectiveness. A brief summary report will be written by the UTC Chair, and that, as well as the sampled questions themselves, will be made available to the instructor and to the Chair of the department. We intend to insure that the proposed courses adequately articulate these goals, teach toward them, test for them, and help students realize their individual potential to meet them. Assessments will be summarized and used to alter the course for the next teaching.

No worries Chris.

Given our situation, I'm hoping things will get better from here---though I suspect we may have to endure some growing pains in the process.

Hi Curtis,

Hope you're doing ok under what are horrible political circumstances. I think you're the right person to contact here. Ahmad Sikainga recently developed a couple of new history courses, and I'm writing to request concurrence from you for them. Would it be possible for you to get back to me about this by, say, 1 December? Do let me know.

Again, hope you're doing well(ish),
