Course Change Information

What change is being proposed? (If more than one, what changes are being proposed?)

An online version of this existing course has been created.

What is the rationale for the proposed change(s)?

To allow a faculty member to teach the course when s/he is absent from Columbus

What are the programmatic implications of the proposed change(s)?

(e.g. program requirements to be added or removed, changes to be made in available resources, effect on other programs that use the course)?

None

Is approval of the request contingent upon the approval of other course or curricular program request? No

Is this a request to withdraw the course? No

Course description:

This course presents an introductory overview of Western Europe. It chronicles and compares modern Western European societies in terms of history, politics, economics, and culture (art and music). The course proceeds in four blocks, each followed by an exam. These blocks are ordered historically (from ancient Greece to today). Each block starts with the discussion of an important political, social, or economic institution that varies across Western European countries (and the US), and each block studies one particular country in detail (the United Kingdom, France, Germany, and the European Union). Finally, key developments in art and music are discussed throughout the course, closely following the historical developments.

The historical overview starts with the classical antiquity (8th/7th century B.C.E. - 5th century C.E.) and briefly covers the Middle Ages (500-1500). More time and emphasis is given to Western Europe's historical development since the Early Modern period (which starts around 1500). The developments in France, England/Great Britain and Prussia/Germany are particularly closely followed. This theme of the course helps 'students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition' – the goal of the Historical Study General Education (GE) category.

France, Great Britain, and Germany – together with the European Union – are also studied in detail in terms of their political institutions, society, and culture, often in comparison to the US. These country studies not only familiarize students with select Western European countries in detail; they also allow students to apply abstract concepts to concrete cases. This theme of the course helps 'students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world' – the goal of the Diversity (Global Studies) GE category.

The last block of the course traces the developments in Western Europe in the last 100 years or so. Causes – historical, institutional, political, and ideological – and consequences of cross-national policy differences are discussed. This theme of the course helps students to understand 'the processes by which individuals, groups, and societies interact, communicate, and use human, natural, and economic resources' – the goal of the Social Science (Human, Natural and Economic Resources) GE category.

General Education categories:

This course can be applied to the three following General Education (GE) categories (1) Historical Study; (2) Diversity: Global Studies; and (3) Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources. Their goals and expected learning outcomes are listed below.

Course Requirements:

Each session consists of assigned readings and a video/audio lecture (available on Carmen/Canvas – <https://carmen.osu.edu/>). Most sessions are paired to a reading quiz and/or response activity. Final grades will be calculated using the OSU Standard Grade Scheme based on the following:

1. Weekly Quizzes (14%): Each week, you are expected to read the assigned material and listen to / watch the lectures, which will become available on Mondays. There will be a weekly quiz. The quizzes contain about 10 multiple choice questions. You can reference your notes while taking quizzes, but they are timed, and you only have 1 minute per question. That means you should complete the readings and listen to the lecture before taking the quiz as you will not have time to hunt for the answers while taking the quiz. Weekly quizzes are available only during the week in which they are assigned. They are available until 11:59 PM Sunday evening.
2. Response Activities (6%): The response activities take a variety of forms, such as filling in a survey, or writing a brief response to a news article(s) and/or video. Response activities are available only during the week in which they are assigned. They are available until 11:59 PM Sunday evening.
3. Participation (10%): You are expected to acquire familiarity with government and politics in at least one non-English speaking democratic system in Western Europe, and to follow the political developments in that country (for example, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Sweden, etc.). There are county-specific online discussion board on which you can post, and respond to, relevant news stories from respectable sources. You will receive credit for participating in this collective exercise to follow relevant political developments abroad.
4. Mini-papers (20%): You have to write four mini-papers, one for each of the six blocks. They are worth 5% each, and they are explained in great detail below. Mini-papers are due at the end of each block. Consult the schedule for exact dates.
5. Four exams (50% total): The exams will be made up of a mixture of short answer questions (multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, and/or identification) and an essay covering material from the readings, lectures, and activities. There will be four exams (10%, 10%, 10%, 20%), one after each block. Consult the schedule for exact dates.

Course Materials:

The course readings will heavily draw from the following book, which has been ordered to the bookstore:

- R. R. Palmer, Joel Colton and Lloyd Kramer (11th edition 2013). A History of Europe in the Modern World. McGraw-Hill Higher Education. ISBN: 9780073385549. {Palmer}

You can use older versions of the textbook (it used to be called “A History of the Modern World”, but the relevant content is identical) – they are much more affordable.

9th edition

ISBN 978-0072502800

10th edition

ISBN 978-0073255002

11th edition

ISBN 978-0073385549

Additional course readings will be available for download from Carmen/Canvas (www.carmen.osu.edu). There may be changes in the readings as we go along. I will communicate these on time. The readings are not optional but required, and you cannot succeed in the course without having done them. The assigned readings as well as material from the lectures are the base for the exams.

Course Technology:

- Baseline technical skills necessary for online courses: Basic computer and web-browsing skills; navigating Carmen.
- Necessary equipment and software: Computer: current Mac (OS X) or PC (Windows 7+) with high-speed internet connection; current supported web browser; device capable of playing audio/video files (i.e. aforementioned computer)

Grading:

I use the full range of grades, which includes E and D. Letter grades have the following meaning:

- “A” (93-100), “A-” (90-92): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an excellent manner.
- “B+” (87-89), “B” (84-86), “B-” (80-83): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an above-average manner.
- “C+” (77-79), “C” (74-76), “C-” (70-73): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an average manner.

- “D+” (67-69,) “D” (60-67): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in a low but acceptable manner.
- “E” (<60): The instructor judged the student not to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course.

Collaboration and Academic Integrity Policy:

Discussion and the exchange of ideas are essential to academic work. For assignments in this course, you are encouraged to discuss the material presented in the course with your classmates. However, you should ensure that any written work you submit for evaluation –weekly quizzes, response activities, mini-papers, exams – is the result of your own research and writing and reflects your own approach to the topic. The quizzes and exams are to be taken during the allotted time period without the aid of other students. Do not attempt to copy the test to take it or distribute it to anyone. We will compare IP addresses, grades, and timing for each assignment. Questions will also be drawn from a larger sample of questions, and their order as well as answer responses will be randomized. Thus, each student will see a different quiz or exam. You must also adhere to standard citation practices in the social sciences and properly cite any books, articles, websites, lectures, etc. that have helped you with your work. Students are required to upload their papers and written exams to Carmen, which utilizes Turnitin.com for plagiarism detection. This online service analyzes student submissions for plagiarism from published or online sources and from other students (including students who have taken the course in earlier years). To avoid plagiarism charges, students must cite all sources from which they get their information and use quotation marks when quoting directly from these sources. Students are responsible for knowing how to correctly cite their sources; ignorance about proper citation standards will not be accepted as an excuse for plagiarism. Again, please be aware that we will automatically screen all written assignments for potential plagiarism. All suspected plagiarism cases are forwarded to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. You should visit their website (<https://oaa.osu.edu/coamfaqs.html>). Please also review Ohio State University’s Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity (<https://oaa.osu.edu/coamtingsuggestions.html>).

Academic Misconduct:

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct: (http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/resource_csc.asp)

Disability Services (<http://www.ods.ohio-state.edu>):

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. You are also welcome to register with Student Life Disability Services to establish reasonable accommodations. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

No Recording or Transmission of Course Material:

No form of distribution of class material is permitted. Your personal class notes, to the extent to which they are transcriptions of the class, are for your own individual use, though they may be shared with other students in the class. Transcriptions of the class lectures, as they are intellectual property, however, may not be sold, posted on the web, and/or transmitted to individuals who are not registered for the course, in any fashion.

Mini-papers:

You have to write 4 mini-papers, one from each numeral (1,2,3,4). They are worth 5% each. They are due at 11:59 PM on the due date, though I encourage you to submit them well before that. Here are the prompts:

MP	Due	Essay prompt
1a
1b
2a
2b
3a
3b
4a
4b

Mini-papers have three purposes. They provide a way for me to give credit for careful class preparation; they give you the opportunity to clarify your thinking by practicing analytic writing; and they prepare you for the exams. Mini-papers are typed and are not longer than half a page, single-spaced, using standard margins and a font size of 12 (300-400 words max). They are due – submitted via carmen.osu.edu– at 11:59pm on the day they are due. If a mini-paper is not handed in on time, or if you hand in the wrong mini-paper, you will receive no credit for it. Please note that all submissions will be screened for potential plagiarism.

The mini-papers ask you a question about the assigned reading(s) and you will write a short composition that supports your answer to the question. To do this successfully, you must be able to support your answer with textual evidence, and guard against the tendency to ignore textual evidence that might undermine your thesis. The main objectives of this assignment are to develop your skills at a) thinking through complex texts that do not always provide simple answers, and b) writing a focused argument. There will be more than one persuasive answer to the question I ask. Thus the criteria for a mini-paper are: (1) Clarity: do you make your supporting points clear? (2) Precision and accuracy: do you draw your supporting points from specific places in the text, using quotation marks and page numbers appropriately, and do you make correct assertions about the text? (3) Comprehensiveness and balance: have you identified the textual passages important to this question? (4) Organization: do you present your arguments in a coherent order with smooth transitions and grammatical sentences?

Points	Scoring criteria for mini-papers
Check plus (5 points)	Meets criteria of clarity, precision and accuracy, comprehensiveness and balance, and organization. You have considered the texts carefully and creatively and made a persuasive argument in support of your thesis.
Check (4 points)	Must have strength on at least two of the criteria and it should still be good enough to put forward a clear line of argument. It gets a check (and not a check plus) because it does not use specific examples from the text, or does not anticipate the objections of a rival view, and has problems with sentence structure.
Check minus (3 points)	An argument mini-paper rates a check minus because it is weak in all criteria and would not serve to persuade an audience familiar with the text. It may also be inaccurate or disorganized.
No Credit	Fails to meet any of the criteria for effective support of an interpretive thesis. Not submitted on time. Wrong mini-paper.

General Education categories (details):

This course can be applied to the following General Education (GE) categories (1) Historical Study; (2) Diversity: Global Studies; and (3) Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources. Their goals and expected learning outcomes are as follows.

Historical Study

- Goals:
Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
 - 2) Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
 - 3) Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Diversity: Global Studies

- Goals:
Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
 - 2) Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources

- Goals:
Students understand the systematic study of human behavior and cognition; the structure of human societies, cultures, and institutions; and the processes by which individuals, groups, and societies interact, communicate, and use human, natural, and economic resources.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:

- 1) Students understand the theories and methods of social scientific inquiry as they apply to the study of the use and distribution of human, natural, and economic resources and decisions and policies concerning such resources.
- 2) Students understand the political, economic, and social trade-offs reflected in individual decisions and societal policymaking and enforcement and their similarities and differences across contexts.
- 3) Students comprehend and assess the physical, social, economic, and political sustainability of individual and societal decisions with respect to resource use.

The course description on the first page of this syllabus indicates how the materials covered in this course relate to the General Education goals and Expected Learning Outcomes formulated above.

The last block of the course traces the developments in Western Europe in the last 100 years or so. Causes – historical, institutional, political, and ideological – and consequences of cross-national policy differences are discussed. This theme of the course helps students to understand 'the processes by which individuals, groups, and societies interact, communicate, and use human, natural, and economic resources' – the goal of the Social Science (Human, Natural and Economic Resources) GE category.

General Education categories:

This course can be applied to the three following General Education (GE) categories (1) Historical Study; (2) Diversity: Global Studies; and (3) Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources. Their goals and expected learning outcomes are listed below.

Course Requirements:

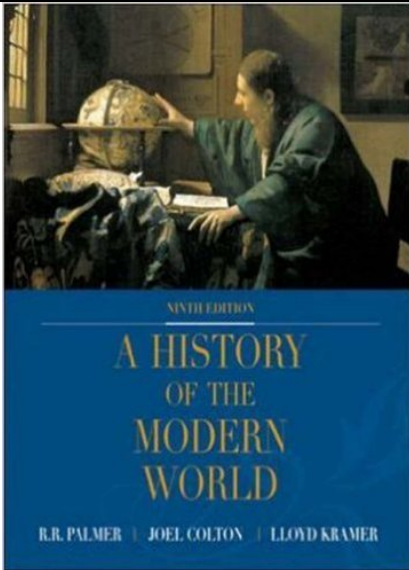

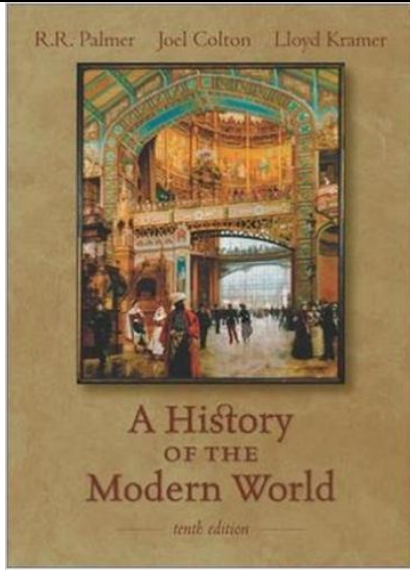

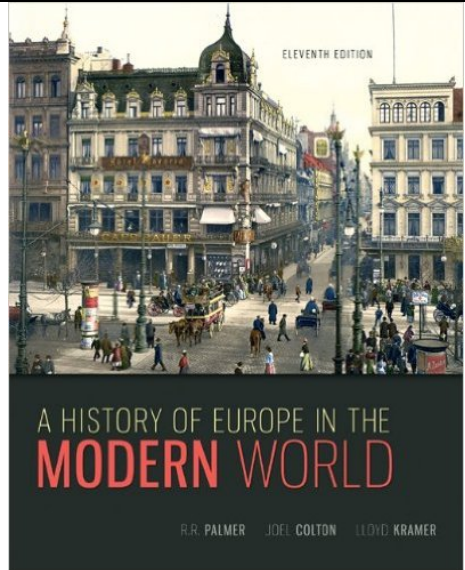

1. Readings. The assigned readings are not optional but required, and you cannot succeed in the course without having done them. The assigned readings as well as material from the lectures are the base for the exams.
2. Attendance (10%). You are expected to attend the lectures. I will take attendance in each session.
3. Mini-papers (20%): You have to write four mini-papers, one for each of the six blocks. They are worth 5% each, and they are explained in great detail below. Mini-papers are due at the end of each block. Consult the schedule for exact dates.
4. Four exams (70% total): The exams will be made up of a mixture of short answer questions (multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, and/or identification) and an essay covering material from the readings and lectures. There will be four exams (15%, 15%, 15%, 25%), one after each block. Consult the schedule for exact dates.

Course Materials:

The course readings will heavily draw from the following book, which has been ordered to the bookstore:

- R. R. Palmer, Joel Colton and Lloyd Kramer (11th edition 2013). A History of Europe in the Modern World. McGraw-Hill Higher Education. ISBN: 9780073385549. {Palmer}

Additional course readings will be available for download from Carmen/Canvas (www.carmen.osu.edu). There may be changes in the readings as we go along. I will communicate these on time. As noted, the readings are not optional but required, and you cannot succeed in the course without having done them. The assigned readings as well as material from the lectures are the base for the exams.

Course Policies:

Extensions, make-up exams, extra credit:

Extensions will not be granted. You will be informed of all assignments well in advance, so good planning and time management skills will benefit you. Make-up examinations are not permitted – unless you have a certified good reason and inform the TA or me about your absence beforehand. If you miss an assignment, you will receive zero points for it. There will be no opportunities for extra credit. Due to the attendance points, I will not round your final points.

Grading:

I use the full range of grades, which includes E and D. Letter grades have the following meaning:

- “A” (93-100), “A-” (90-92): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an excellent manner.
- “B+” (87-89), “B” (84-86), “B-” (80-83): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an above-average manner.
- “C+” (77-79), “C” (74-76), “C-” (70-73): The instructor judged the student to have satisfied the stated objectives of the course in an average manner.

Collaboration and Academic Integrity Policy:

Discussion and the exchange of ideas are essential to academic work. For assignments in this course, you are encouraged to discuss the material presented in the course with your classmates. However, you should ensure that any written work you submit for evaluation is the result of your own research and writing and reflects your own approach to the topic. You must adhere to standard citation practices in the social sciences and properly cite any books, articles, websites, lectures, etc. that have helped you with your work. Students are required to upload their papers and written exams to Carmen, which utilizes Turnitin.com for plagiarism detection. This online service analyzes student submissions for plagiarism from published or online sources and from other students (including students who have taken the course in earlier years). To avoid plagiarism charges, students must cite all sources from which they get their information and use quotation marks when quoting directly from these sources. Students are responsible for knowing how to correctly cite their sources; ignorance about proper citation standards will not be accepted as an excuse for plagiarism. Again, please be aware that we will automatically screen all written assignments for potential plagiarism. All suspected plagiarism cases are forwarded to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. You should visit their website (<https://oaa.osu.edu/coamfaqs.html>). Please also review Ohio State University’s Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity (<https://oaa.osu.edu/coamtensuggestions.html>).

Academic Misconduct:

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct: (http://studentaffairs.osu.edu/resource_csc.asp)

Disability Services (<http://www.ods.ohio-state.edu>):

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. You are also welcome to register with Student Life Disability Services to establish reasonable accommodations. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

No Recording or Transmission of Course Material:

No form of distribution of class material is permitted. Your personal class notes, to the extent to which they are transcriptions of the class, are for your own individual use, though they may be shared with other students in the class. Transcriptions of the class lectures, as they are intellectual property, however, may not be sold, posted on the web, and/or transmitted to individuals who are not registered for the course, in any fashion.

Mini-papers:

You have to write 4 mini-papers, one from each numeral (1,2,3,4). They are worth 5% each. They are due at the beginning of class on the due date, though I encourage you to submit them well before that. Here are the prompts:

MP	Due	Essay prompt
1b
2a
2b
3a
3b
4a
4b

Mini-papers have three purposes. They provide a way for me to give credit for careful class preparation; they give you the opportunity to clarify your thinking by practicing analytic writing; and they prepare you for the exams. Mini-papers are typed and are not longer than half a page, single-spaced, using standard margins and a font size of 12 (300-400 words max). They are due – submitted via carmen.osu.edu– at the beginning of class on the day they are due. If a mini-paper is not handed in on time, or if you hand in the wrong mini-paper, you will receive no credit for it. Again, please note that all submissions will be screened for potential plagiarism.

The mini-papers ask you a question about the assigned reading(s) and you will write a short composition that supports your answer to the question. To do this successfully, you must be able to support your answer with textual evidence, and guard against the tendency to ignore textual evidence that might undermine your thesis. The main objectives of this assignment are to develop your skills at a) thinking through complex texts that do not always provide simple answers, and b) writing a focused argument. There will be more than one persuasive answer to the question I ask. Thus the criteria for a mini-paper are: (1) Clarity: do you make your supporting points clear? (2) Precision and accuracy: do you draw your supporting points from specific places in the text, using quotation marks and page numbers appropriately, and do you make correct assertions about the text? (3) Comprehensiveness and balance: have you identified the textual passages important to this question? (4) Organization: do you present your arguments in a coherent order with smooth transitions and grammatical sentences?

Points	Scoring criteria for mini-papers
Check plus (5 points)	Meets criteria of clarity, precision and accuracy, comprehensiveness and balance, and organization. You have considered the texts carefully and creatively and made a persuasive argument in support of your thesis.
Check (4 points)	Must have strength on at least two of the criteria and it should still be good enough to put forward a clear line of argument. It gets a check (and not a check plus) because it does not use specific examples from the text, or does not anticipate the objections of a rival view, and has problems with sentence structure.
Check minus (3 points)	An argument mini-paper rates a check minus because it is weak in all criteria and would not serve to persuade an audience familiar with the text. It may also be inaccurate or disorganized.
No Credit	Fails to meet any of the criteria for effective support of an interpretive thesis. Not submitted on time. Wrong mini-paper.

General Education categories (details):

This course can be applied to the following General Education (GE) categories (1) Historical Study; (2) Diversity: Global Studies; and (3) Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources. Their goals and expected learning outcomes are as follows.

Historical Study

- Goals:
Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
 - 2) Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
 - 3) Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Diversity: Global Studies

- Goals:

Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
 - 2) Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources

- Goals:

Students understand the systematic study of human behavior and cognition; the structure of human societies, cultures, and institutions; and the processes by which individuals, groups, and societies interact, communicate, and use human, natural, and economic resources.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students understand the theories and methods of social scientific inquiry as they apply to the study of the use and distribution of human, natural, and economic resources and decisions and policies concerning such resources.
 - 2) Students understand the political, economic, and social trade-offs reflected in individual decisions and societal policymaking and enforcement and their similarities and differences across contexts.
 - 3) Students comprehend and assess the physical, social, economic, and political sustainability of individual and societal decisions with respect to resource use.

The course description on the first page of this syllabus indicates how the materials covered in this course relate to the General Education goals and Expected Learning Outcomes formulated above.

General Education categories:

The course fulfills the General Education (GE) categories for (1) Historical Study; (2) Diversity: Global Studies; and (3) Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources. Their goals and expected learning outcomes are as follows.

Historical Study

- Goals:
Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today’s society and the human condition.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
 - 2) Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
 - 3) Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Diversity: Global Studies

- Goals:
Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.
- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world’s nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.
 - 2) Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Social Science: Human, Natural and Economic Resources

- Goals:

Students understand the systematic study of human behavior and cognition; the structure of human societies, cultures, and institutions; and the processes by which individuals, groups, and societies interact, communicate, and use human, natural, and economic resources.

- Expected Learning Outcomes:
 - 1) Students understand the theories and methods of social scientific inquiry as they apply to the study of the use and distribution of human, natural, and economic resources and decisions and policies concerning such resources.
 - 2) Students understand the political, economic, and social trade-offs reflected in individual decisions and societal policymaking and enforcement and their similarities and differences across contexts.
 - 3) Students comprehend and assess the physical, social, economic, and political sustainability of individual and societal decisions with respect to resource use.

The course description on the first page of the syllabus indicates how the materials covered in the course relate to the General Education goals and Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO) listed above.

Assessment plan:

The course assessment will rely on three instruments:

- 1) Pre- and post-instruction embedded testing
At the very beginning of the course, students take a standardized test online (not for credit). The test will contain some questions that are directly tailored toward the ELOs. These questions are also embedded in subsequent exams that students take for credit. This direct assessment instrument will allow me to calculate the percentage of students who satisfactorily answer a question before and after instruction. Mastery will be defined as improving by at least 75 percentage points on an assignment.
- 2) Rubric scores for writing assignments
The course contains several required writing assignments ('mini-papers' and 'activities'). A subset of these are tailored toward ELOs. Mastery will be defined as receiving at least 75% on an assignment.
- 3) Anonymous course evaluations
At the end of the course, students will be asked to fill in an anonymous questionnaire that asks them to self-assess their progress relative to the ELOs. This indirect assessment instrument will provide additional evidence on aspects of the course that require improvement.

Only the first two assessment instrument are used to determine the percentage of students who master a particular ELO.
