Comments

- See page 17 of curricular operations manual. The following required elements are not in the syllabus or are not clear:

9. Information about the length and format of all papers, homework, laboratory assignments, and examinations *percentage for attendance, etc. is not clear

10. Grading information, indicating the percentages assigned to various requirements (see above)

14. A weekly topical outline of course meetings, including topics to be covered, readings, film screenings, and homework (The committee wants a sense of how much work is required of students.)

Sorry but the faculty committee will want to see this information. I realize that it is a seminar at the very end of their PhD program but more detail is required (even if a general outline) (by Heysel,Garett Robert on 01/25/2018 08:12 PM)

Course description:

This course helps to prepare graduate students in the penultimate or final year of their studies to seek employment, especially academic employment in philosophy departments. Participants are informed about employment options and resources. They prepare, workshop, and revise the central elements of the dossiers they will need in order to seek academic employment. Participants are given guidance on the timing and character of the academic job market in philosophy, soliciting letters of recommendation, how to empower recommenders to write strong letters, and how to develop and manage their professional profile. They give research presentations to the Philosophy department's colloquium series, and engage in practice interviews designed to prepare them for typical interviews on the academic job market.

Course resources:

All resources will be made available on the course Carmen site.

Course evaluation:

This course is evaluated Satisfactory/Unsatisfactory. Satisfactory performance requires:

- attending at least 12 of 14 seminar meetings,
- participating actively,
- completing and revising each of the documents listed below, and
- completing the two activities listed below

Required documents and activities:

CV (3-6pgs)
Statement of Research Interests (2 pgs)
Statement of Teaching Philosophy (2 pgs)
Diversity Statement (1-2 pgs)
Teaching Dossier (including sample syllabi, evidence of teaching excellence, etc.) (30-60 pgs.)
Professional Website
Colloquium Presentation (45 minutes plus 30 minutes of q&a)
Practice Interview (30-40 minutes)

Notes to participants:

- In general the writing assignments (the elements of your dossier) are short, but making them maximally effective is typically extremely time-consuming. Do NOT assume that effective versions of the course requirements can be completed quickly.
- Participants who have professional goals not well-served by these materials and activities may negotiate with the professor at the outset of the course to identify a similar workload of assignments tailored to the student's professional goals.

Missed or late assignments; conflicting commitments

Most of the writing assignments in this class will either be discussed immediately in class, or will build on each other, or both. In light of this, a pattern of late or incomplete assignments is not acceptable, in the absence of a legitimate and documented excuse. If you foresee a conflict between a due date and another commitment, please email me well in advance and I will seek to provide a fair alternative.

Commitment to inclusion:

We, the Department of Philosophy at Ohio State, are committed to ensuring a safe, respectful, and supportive environment for both work and study for all members of our community, regardless of their sex, gender identity, sexual orientation, race, ethnicity, national origin, religion, health or disability status, political affiliation, age, or socio-economic background. You, as a student in this course, are a member of our community, and I intend this seminar to manifest our commitment to inclusion.

I welcome your suggestions about how this seminar can realize this commitment.

I expect you to help to realize this commitment, by treating your fellow participants in a respectful and supportive way. Developing and improving dossier materials can be by turns exciting, stressful, and demoralizing. It is important for every participant to receive constructive ideas for improving his or her draft dossier materials during workshop sessions, without being made to feel embarrassed, humiliated, or discouraged.

Academic Misconduct

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>

Mental Health Statement

While participating in this seminar, you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to successful participation, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available through the 24/7 National Suicide Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273-TALK or at www.suicidepreventionlifeline.org

Sexual Misconduct Statement

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator, Kellie Brennan, at titleix@osu.edu

Disability Services

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion.
