

Proposal to Change “Sexuality Studies” Minor to “LGBTQ+ Studies” Minor

When proposing revisions, please include a current ASC minor sheet and a proposed ASC minor sheet which highlights the proposed changes.

1. Required Information

- Name of proposed minor: LGBTQ+ Studies
- Proposed implementation date: Autumn 2020
- Academic units (e.g., department, college) responsible for administrating the minor program: Department of Women’s, Gender and Sexuality Studies

2. Rationale

- Describe the rationale/purpose of the minor.
 - The current Sexuality Studies minor “focuses on the social, historical, psychological, literary, legal, and political contexts in which human sexualities have been and are currently being expressed and theorized. The minor pays particular attention to the tension between non-normative sexualities and the concept of heterosexuality against which they are typically defined. It also investigates the ways that sexuality is shaped by social differences connected to race, gender, (dis)ability, nationality, and social class.” The revised LGBTQ+ Studies minor carries forward the interdisciplinary approach to analyzing sexuality within particular discursive, institutional, and social contexts. It not only remains attentive to the ways that non-normative sexualities are defined against heterosexuality; it also places these historical and contemporary processes at the center of inquiry, while expanding the analytical scope to include the study of non-normative genders as well. As with the current minor, the revised minor takes a robust intersectional approach by “investigat[ing] the ways that sexuality is shaped by social differences connected to race, gender, (dis)ability, nationality, and social class.”
 - Marking the minor with the acronym LGBTQ+ (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer) makes explicit the degree’s commitment to valuing and validating the study of gender and sexual minorities and thus aligns it with the university’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.
- Goals & Outcomes:
 - 1) The successful student will question common sense, dominant assumptions about “natural” and “universal” concepts of sexuality and gender by understanding LGBTQ+ identities and social movements as historically, geographically, and culturally generated, located, and contested.
 - a. Recognize that sexuality and gender are socially constructed in time and place.
 - b. Interrogate dominant assumptions about sexuality and gender.

- c. Identify how LGBTQ+ social movements both contest and construct norms of sexuality and gender.
 - 2) The successful student will understand LGBTQ+ identities as intersectional and embodied.
 - a. Define intersectionality.
 - b. Describe identities as uniquely experienced and embodied.
 - c. Map categories of sexuality and gender to other social differences and hierarchies of power.
 - 3) The successful student will know that sexuality and gender are constituted and contested through race, ethnicity, white supremacy, settler colonialism, and empire.
 - a. Critique binary constructions of sexuality and gender.
 - b. Recognize that many people and communities experience sexuality and gender beyond LGBTQ+ categories and straight and cisgender identities.
 - c. Articulate LGBTQ+ identities and social movements to white supremacist and colonial systems, especially through analytic frameworks such as women of color feminism, queer/trans of color critique, and indigenous studies.
- Describe how assessment data has served as an impetus for the proposal (i.e., program review, reaccreditation data, or student data gathered).
 - In 2018, the Diversity and Identity Studies Collective (DISCO), which had housed the Sexuality Studies Program, was dissolved. During 2018-2019, the Sexuality Studies Program underwent an internal review in preparation for its move into the Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies (WGSS). Based on that review, the Sexuality Studies major will be phased out and the minor renamed and refocused into the LGBTQ+ Studies minor. Doing the latter will distinguish the interdisciplinary degree more explicitly from the WGSS major and minor and take advantage of the range of LGBTQ+ studies courses available on campus or in the pipeline.
 - The numbers of Sexuality Studies minors has been declining since semester conversion—from a height of 63 students graduated in 2011-12 to the current 22. Giving the minor greater specificity, visibility, and legibility as LGBTQ+ Studies has the potential to attract students who might otherwise be unmoved or unaddressed by the general reference to “sexuality studies.”
 - In terms of benchmark institutions, a number of Big Ten schools (the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, University of Maryland, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota, University of Nebraska, Purdue University, and University of Wisconsin-Madison) as well as Ohio schools (Kent State University and Ohio University) offer LGBTQ+ Studies minors or undergraduate certificates. The shift in name and curriculum is thus in line with national trends.
- Identify any unique characteristics or resources that make it particularly appropriate for Ohio State to offer the proposed minor.
 - The Multicultural Center provides programming around LGBTQ+ student initiatives (<http://mcc.osu.edu/resources/LGBTQ+-allies/>); the Ohio Union supports numerous LGBTQ+ student organizations; OSU as a whole hosts a website devoted to LGBTQ+ services, events, and academics (<https://LGBTQ+.osu.edu/>); and OSU is often rated highly on the Campus Pride index, a national listing of LGBTQ+-friendly colleges and universities (<https://www.campusprideindex.org/>). The LGBTQ+ Studies Minor will thus operate as the academic counterpart to these student life initiatives by enabling students to engage in this robust intellectual field.

- Cite the benefits for students, the institution, and the region or state.
 - As above, the LGBTQ+ Studies Minor makes clear the university's support for LGBTQ+ studies and students in intellectual terms. It also complements LGBTQ+ organizations, support groups, arts cultures, and commercial venues in Columbus. The networks that might develop from the curricular initiatives may also facilitate connections between the OSU campus and the central Ohio community.

3. Relationship to Other Programs / Benchmarking

- Describe current major and minor programs in the department(s) and how they relate to the proposed minor.
 - The Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies offers a major and minor. The LGBTQ+ Studies minor will include some WGSS courses, but the majority will draw on courses from outside the department.
- Identify any overlaps with other programs or departments within the university. Append letters of concurrence or objection from related units.
 - The Department of Women's, Gender and Sexuality Studies is the only unit that offers degrees which overlap with the proposed LGBTQ+ Studies minor. Since it is the unit administering the minor, there are no objections.
- Indicate whether this minor or a similar minor was submitted for approval previously. Explain at what stage and why that proposal was not approved or was withdrawn.
 - As stated, this proposal is both a name change and a curriculum modification from the previous Sexuality Studies minor, which it will replace.

4. Student Enrollment

- Indicate the number of students you anticipate will take this minor and what programs they may come from.
 - We anticipate that 15-20 students will enroll in the minor in its first year or two. Hopefully, as word about the degree gets out, more students will take advantage of the opportunity. It is likely that the majority of the students will come from the social sciences, humanities, and arts, with some coming from the health and physical sciences.

5. Curricular Requirements

- Provide ASC minor advising sheet (see Appendix 1-3).
- List the courses (department, title, credit hours, description) which constitute the requirements and other components of the minor. If any courses have prerequisites, please indicate so. Indicate which courses are currently offered and which will be new, which ones will be changed, and which ones may need to be withdrawn. When those new courses, course changes, and course withdrawals are put in curriculum.osu.edu, we recommend you indicate that those course requests are submitted as part of a larger programmatic proposal. As much as possible, the curriculum committees will review the course requests in conjunction with the minor proposal.

The minor in LGBTQ+ studies focuses on the social, historical, literary, legal, and political contexts in which human sexualities and genders have been and are currently being expressed and theorized. The minor pays particular attention to the tension between non-normative sexualities and non-normative genders and the concepts of heterosexuality and binary gender against which they are typically defined. It also investigates the ways that sexuality and gender are shaped by social differences connected to race, (dis)ability, nationality, and social class.

This minor requires 12 credit hours, one required course (WGSST/English 2282), one foundations course from the list below, and 6 credit hours of electives from the list below. Additional foundations courses may count towards the electives. At least three of the 12 hours should come from a department outside the student's major. A number of the courses listed below have prerequisites, which must be taken or waived by the instructor, and enrollment in some courses may be limited because of demand or available space. Students and faculty may petition the WGSS Undergraduate Studies Committee (WGSS UGSC) to count courses other than those listed here to fulfill the requirements of the minor. To be approved, courses must address one of the three minor goals. With advisor approval, students may also apply up to 3 credit hours of Women's, Gender and Studies 5998 (Undergraduate Research), 5998H, 4999 (Thesis Research), 4999H, 5191 (Internship), 5193 (Individual Study), or 5194 (Group Study), toward the minor. After the advisor for the LGBTQ+ studies minor has approved the student's Minor Program Form, the student must file the form with his/her counselor in his/her college. For further information, see the advisor listed above.

This minor requires 12 credit hours, with at least 6 hours selected from the central courses listed below. The remaining 6 hours can be taken from these courses and/or the list of electives. At least three of the 12 hours should come from a college outside the student's own. A number of the courses listed below have prerequisites, which must be taken or waived by the instructor, and enrollment in some courses may be limited because of demand or available space. No more than 6 credit hours of course work at the 2000 level may count toward the minor. Students and faculty may petition advisers to count courses other than those listed here to fulfill the requirements of the minor. To be approved, at least 50% of the course content must address sexuality. With adviser approval, students may also apply up to 3 credit hours of Sexuality Studies 4998 (Undergraduate Research), 4998H, 4999 (Thesis Research), 4999H, 5191 (Internship), 5193 (Individual Study), 5194 (Group Study), or 5700 (Workshop) toward the minor. After one of the advisers for the sexuality studies minor has approved the student's Minor Program Form, the student must file the form with his/her counselor in his/her college. For further information, see one of the advisers listed above.
