Course Location

This course is designed as a Distance Learning (DL) course, so all class activities will take place online only. Weekly assignments can be completed at any time prior to the due date.

Course description

As a practicing attorney in Juvenile Law, and a Master's in Sociology, I will bring a unique perspective to the course materials. One of my favorite law school professors would regularly remind us that "the law is a seamless web." Our system of laws, including criminal justice laws, is complicated and complex, but organized to benefit different parts of society and to reinforce our societal norms and mores, often to the detriment of marginalized or less powerful groups. The events of 2020 provide a multitude of real-life examples of the importance of the legal system in American society. I hope that we all learn from each other during the course of the semester and from guest speakers and/or videos. I look forward to discussing the real-world application of the course materials.

Course learning outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

- Show a working understanding of the rule of law, criminal procedure and criminal liability;
- Understand the the organization of the American legal system, including how laws are made, why they are unevenly enforced, and how they can be appealed through the courts;
- Demonstrate an understanding of whether laws align with their stated purpose and if they influence behavior;
- Describe how legal institutions are influenced by other facets of society.

Course materials

Required

The required text is Anthony Walsh and Craig Hemmens. Law, Justice and Society: A Sociological Introduction. 5th Edition. Attendance, participation, and discussions

Student participation requirements

Because this is a distance-education course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of everyone's expected participation:

- Logging in: AT LEAST ONCE PER WEEK
Be sure you are logging in to the course in Carmen each week, including weeks with holidays or weeks with minimal online course activity. (During most weeks you will probably log in many times.) If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with me as soon as possible.
- Office hours and live sessions: OPTIONAL OR FLEXIBLE
All live, scheduled events for the course, including my office hours, are optional. For live presentations, I will provide a recording that you can watch later. If you are required to discuss an assignment with me, please contact me at the beginning of the week if you need a time outside my scheduled office hours.
- Participating in discussion forums: 1+ TIMES PER WEEK
As participation, each week you can expect to post at least one time as part of our substantive class discussion on the week's topics.

Discussion and communication guidelines

The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

- Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Informality (including an occasional emoticon) is fine for non-academic topics.

- Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online.
- Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. (For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a link.)
- Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Carmen discussion.

Academic integrity policy

Policies for this online course

- Quizzes and exams: You must complete the midterm and final exams yourself, without any external help or communication.
- Written assignments: Your written assignments, including discussion posts, should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow APA style to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are encouraged to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in--but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.
- Reusing past work: In general, you are prohibited in university courses from turning in work from a past class to your current class, even if you modify it. If you want to build on past research or revisit a topic you've explored in previous courses, please discuss the situation with me.
- Falsifying research or results: All research you will conduct in this course is intended to be a learning experience; you should never feel tempted to make your results or your library research look more successful than it was.

- Collaboration and informal peer-review: The course includes many opportunities for formal collaboration with your classmates. While study groups and peer-review of major written projects is encouraged, remember that comparing answers on a quiz or assignment is not permitted. If you're unsure about a particular situation, please feel free just to ask ahead of time.

Ohio State's academic integrity policy

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

Statement on title IX (Recommended)

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator, Kellie Brennan, at titleix@osu.edu

Accessibility accommodations for students with disabilities

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

Accessibility of course technology

This online course requires use of Carmen (Ohio State's learning management system) and other online communication and multimedia tools. If you need additional services to use these technologies, please request accommodations with your instructor.

Your mental health!

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614- 292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available through the 24/7 National Suicide Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273- TALK or at suicidepreventionlifeline.org

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Law is everywhere in modern society. It dictates how fast we drive, how harshly we punish, and how much privacy we can expect in our homes. Activists turn to the law when they desire social change, and politicians preach about the ‘rule of law’ as the backbone of a stable democracy. Yet laws do not spontaneously appear and they are not consistently enforced. Laws are created, interpreted, enforced, and broken by people who exercise discretion and sometimes act on their personal biases. Law, we might say, is variable, and one aim of law and society scholarship is to explain this variation.

This class is the first of two courses offered by the Sociology Department that delve into the connection between law and society (the sequel to this course is Sociology 4509 – Sociology of Law). Our objective in this class is to learn about fundamental concepts (e.g., criminal liability) and understand how the law is influenced by other aspects of society, such as the economy, politics, and race relations. To this end, we begin by reviewing some basic legal concepts and learning about theories that guide judicial interpretation (Part I). In Part II, we look at ways in which law and society influence each other, and in Part III we examine how sociological factors influence decision-making in the courts.

Course Objectives in Brief

1. Learn how different academic disciplines approach the study of law;
2. Develop a working understanding of the rule of law, criminal procedure, and criminal liability;
3. Apply theories of constitutional interpretation to cases;
4. Assess whether or when laws are capable of causing social change;
5. Evaluate whether and how decision-making in the courts is influenced by characteristics of court actors and the social context.

Books and Readings

- Anthony Walsh and Craig Hemmens. 2016. Law, Justice and Society, Fourth Edition. Oxford University Press.
- Additional required readings are available on the course Carmen page.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS AND GRADING

Grades are determined based on your performance on three exams, an in-class quiz, one writing assignment, and several short online quizzes on the readings. These quizzes are on Carmen and have the dual purpose of preparing you for the exams and checking that you understand the key points from the readings. Exams consist of matching, multiple choice, and short answer questions.

DISTRIBUTION OF POINTS AND DUE DATES

Assignment	Points (approx. %)	Date
Quizzes on readings	10 (~3%)	Periodically (see schedule)
Constitution Quiz	20 (~6%)	Jan. 27
Legal brief	30 (~10%)	Feb. 24
Exam #1	100 (~32%)	Feb. 12
Exam #2	100 (~32%)	March 30
Exam #3	50 (~16%)	April 28
Total	310

The OSU Standard Grade Scheme is as follows (numbers refer to percentage of possible points):

93 - 100 (A)	80 - 82.9 (B-)	67 - 69.9 (D+)
90 - 92.9 (A-)	77 - 79.9 (C+)	60 - 66.9 (D)
87 - 89.9 (B+)	73 - 76.9 (C)	Below 60 (E)
83 - 86.9 (B)	70 - 72.9 (C-)

POLICIES ON LATE WORK, MISSED CLASS, INCOMPLETES AND CLASS CONDUCT

Conduct and integrity. Students will not be penalized for late work if they show documentation of a reasonable excuse for missing the assignment (e.g., doctor, jury duty). Documentation can be shown directly to the professor. I realize that sometimes students get sick but do not require a visit to the doctor's office (e.g., a bad cold or minor case of the flu). Documentation is not required in these situations, but it is important to let me know of your impending absence by phone or email. Exams taken late and papers submitted after the deadline will result in a 10% deduction. If you miss a lecture, I recommend getting the notes from a fellow student or downloading the power point slides from Carmen, and then seeing the instructor or TA for clarification.

Any student suspected of cheating, plagiarizing, or engaging in any other form of scholastic misconduct will be referred to the Committee on Academic Misconduct (COAM). It is the responsibility of COAM to investigate all suspected cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes, but is not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors must report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to COAM (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct at <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

Attendance: Attendance at each lecture is expected. At least half of the exam questions will come from lecture (as opposed to readings). As such, regular attendance is necessary to receive a high grade.

Note on email. Please practice professional etiquette when writing emails. Include a greeting (Dear...), write your name at the end of your message, identify the course in the subject line, and use proper capitalization and grammar. In short, do not write like a text message. These are good habits to develop as you prepare for the job market, and in the absence of a good faith effort to follow these guidelines, I will politely reply and ask that you rewrite and resend the message using proper grammar. I appreciate your attention to these details.

Statement regarding disability. The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on a disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. You may also register with Student Life Disability Services to establish reasonable accommodations. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.
