Course description

This course is a survey of African history from 1800 to the 1960s. We will focus on the emergence and transformation of significant social groups, as well as the ways in which those social groups were constituted by and engaged in struggles for authority in their particular societies. We will make the “invention of Africa” a guiding question in this course. We will also situate Africa in the wider global context, examining the ways in which interactions and exchanges with cultures and societies beyond the continent have influenced and been influenced by the cultures and societies of Africa. Themes include the pre-colonial transformations of African life and society, the colonial experience in its many facets, labor in African society, women, gender and sexuality, elite formation, global confrontations and Africa, decolonization, and the emergence of post-colonial sovereign nation-states. This course is designed to raise provocative questions about the history of Africa, its place in the world, and about the world in which we live – one that, especially in the “North,” situates Africa at the margins of global developments and processes. This course challenges the marginal status of Africa in historical and political discussions and insists upon its importance for global historical processes and the present world framework. The course is organized around a combination of lectures, readings, discussions, and expository exercises – exams, short writing assignments, and a paper. Attendance and participation are vital for your and the course's success. You will have to complete each module before you are able to advance to the next module. Within each module you will have to complete all the sections before you are permitted to advance to the next module. Each module will open at the start of each week and remain open throughout the course, so you can always go back and review previous material for the course.

GE Course Information

Historical Study:

Goals:

Students recognize how past events are studied and how they influence today's society and the human condition.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.
2. Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.
3. Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Diversity:

Goals:

Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Global Studies:

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples, and cultures outside the U.S.
2. Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

Assignment information

Weekly Online Discussions:

Online discussions are a means to explore the course material and personal interests (as they relate to the class) in greater depth than is possible through the recorded lectures and the readings. Each week a new subject theme will be posted on the course's Carmen website. Students are expected to participate in weekly conversations by posting reactions to that week's topic. A paragraph will be sufficient for credit although it is hoped that students will fully engage with the topics. They can also be spaces for exploring ideas about the paper, when relevant. Students may also revisit themes throughout the semester as part of on-going conversations. The subjects will be posted by Monday and students are expected to have made their interventions by the end of the day on Sunday, except for the last week since it only has one day of class and the discussion must be posted by the end of that day. Grading will be done based on whether the student has participated or not. A couple of words is NOT sufficient. You must write at least a few sentences to get credit. Retroactive credit also WILL NOT be given.

Weekly Short Writing Assignments:

The short writing assignments, due by the end of the day each Sunday for the weekly module except for the final week when the assignment will be due by the end of the day Monday since it is the last class, will be comprised of responses to questions posted that relate to the readings and lectures posted for that week. They are designed to offer in-depth analysis of core concepts explored through that week's subjects. The weekly writing assignments are building blocks for the term paper as well as preparation for the mid-term and final exams. Each week the instructor will post the guiding questions that relate to that week's material and students are expected to write a one-page paper responding to those prompts by using information from the readings and the lectures for that week. In the rare week when there is not any assigned reading, the responses will be based on material presented in the recorded lectures for that week. Grading will be based on completeness in responding to the prompts, use of the materials from the week, and quality of the analysis. Unlike the discussions, the short writing assignments will have a numerical grade associated with them.

Paper Assignment:

The paper is designed as a deeper exploration of a major theme of the course. Two weeks prior to its due date, the instructor will distribute the assignment that will be the basis of the paper. It will make use of Hochschild's King Leopold's Ghost as well as primary sources from the document reader. No outside research is required for this paper. The paper must meet the following technical requirements:

Margins: Left and Right 1.25", Top and Bottom 1"

Tabs to indent first lines of paragraphs 0.5"

All work must be Double-Spaced

Typed or computer generated

12 pt. text size

Times New Roman font

No extra spacing between paragraphs

No sub-heads

No footnotes or endnotes

All pages must be numbered at the bottom center

References (citations) formulated as: following the citation (author's last name: p. #)

Names to appear on a separate cover sheet affixed to the front of page 1 of the essay.

Length is 5 (FIVE) pages minimum; 7 (SEVEN) pages maximum

Late assignments

Please contact me at least three days before an assignment is due to discuss turning in the assignment late. I will take late work on a case-by-case basis.

Faculty feedback and response time

I am providing the following list to give you an idea of my intended availability throughout the course. (Remember that you can call 614-688-HELP at any time if you have a technical problem.)

Grading and feedback

For large weekly assignments, you can generally expect feedback within 7 days.

E-mail

I will reply to e-mails within 24 hours on school days.

Discussion board

I will check and reply to messages in the discussion boards every 24 hours on school days.

Attendance, participation, and discussions

Student participation requirements

Because this is a distance-education course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of everyone's expected participation:

- Logging in:
Be sure you are logging in to the course in Carmen each week, including weeks with holidays or weeks with minimal online course activity. (During most weeks you will probably log in many times.) If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with me as soon as possible.
- Office hours and live sessions:
All live, scheduled events for the course, including my office hours, are optional. For live presentations, I will provide a recording that you can watch later. If you are required to discuss an assignment with me, please contact me at the beginning of the week if you need a time outside my scheduled office hours.
- Participating in discussion forums:
As participation, each week you can expect to post at least four times as part of our substantive class discussion on the week's topics.

Discussion and communication guidelines

The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

- Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. Informality (including an occasional emoticon) is fine for non-academic topics.
- Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online.
- Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. (For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a link.)
- Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Carmen discussion.

Academic integrity policy

Policies for this online course

- Quizzes and exams: You must complete the midterm and final exams yourself, without any external help or communication. Weekly quizzes are included as self-checks without points attached.
- Written assignments: Your written assignments, including discussion posts, should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow MLA style to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are encouraged to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in--but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.

- Reusing past work: In general, you are prohibited in university courses from turning in work from a past class to your current class, even if you modify it. If you want to build on past research or revisit a topic you've explored in previous courses, please discuss the situation with me.
- Falsifying research or results: All research you will conduct in this course is intended to be a learning experience; you should never feel tempted to make your results or your library research look more successful than it was.
- Collaboration and informal peer-review: The course includes many opportunities for formal collaboration with your classmates. While study groups and peer-review of major written projects is encouraged, remember that comparing answers on a quiz or assignment is not permitted. If you're unsure about a particular situation, please feel free just to ask ahead of time.
- Group projects: This course includes group projects, which can be stressful for students when it comes to dividing work, taking credit, and receiving grades and feedback. I have attempted to make the guidelines for group work as clear as possible for each activity and assignment, but please let me know if you have any questions.

Ohio State's academic integrity policy

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

Statement on title IX

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator, Kellie Brennan, at titleix@osu.edu

Accessibility accommodations for students with disabilities

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. Your mental health!

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614- 292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available through the 24/7 National Suicide Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273- TALK or at suicidepreventionlifeline.org

Course Description:

This course is a survey of African history from 1800 to the 1960s. We will focus on the emergence and transformation of significant social groups, as well as the ways in which those social groups were constituted by and engaged in struggles for authority in their particular societies. We will make the “invention of Africa” a guiding question in this course. We will also situate Africa in the wider global context, examining the ways in which interactions and exchanges with cultures and societies beyond the continent have influenced and been influenced by the cultures and societies of Africa. Themes include the pre-colonial transformations of African life and society, the colonial experience in its many facets, labor in African society, women, gender and sexuality, elite formation, global confrontations and Africa, decolonization, and the emergence of post-colonial sovereign nation-states. Students will be expected to attend class and participate, take mid-term and final examinations, complete the assigned readings, produce a short five-page paper on a topic to be assigned by the instructor, and participate in online discussions posted weekly. This course is designed to raise provocative questions about the history of Africa, its place in the world, and about the world in which we live – one that, especially in the “North,” situates Africa at the margins of global developments and processes. This course challenges the marginal status of Africa in historical and political discussions and insists upon its importance for global historical processes and the present world framework. Automatic failure of the course will result from the following: not submitting the paper, missing THREE online Carmen discussions, not taking the mid-term or final exams, or five unexcused absences.

Classroom Conduct:

In this course we will create and maintain an environment of respect for one another where all will have an equal opportunity to learn, participate, and succeed. Harassment of any kind and disrespect in general will not be tolerated. All have the right to speak freely within the parameters of the course subject as well as the right to listen to others speaking. A student's right to privacy shall in no way be infringed; any information pertaining to a student's performance in the course shall be kept in strictest confidentiality among the interested parties according to the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974.

University Policies:

Academic Misconduct:

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term academic misconduct includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct:

GE ASSESSMENT PLAN

A. Historical Studies

ELO 1: Students construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.

Methods of Assessment:

1. Direct Measure:

Specific Question/Assignment: There will be a short writing assignment (2-3 pages) to assess students' ability to construct an integrated perspective on history and the factors that shape human activity.

Sample: Write an essay in which you discuss how the religious revolutions and economic transformations of the early 19th century in Africa contributed to the formation of new kinds of political systems across the continent. To what extent was Africa on the path toward the development fully modern nation-states prior to the European conquest?

Assessment Rubric:

Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor
Demonstrates a robust, critical, integrated and self-aware understanding of history and the factors that shape human activity.	Demonstrates adequate and integrated understanding of history and the factors that shape human activity.	Demonstrates modest understanding of history and the factors that shape human activity.	Demonstrates little or no understanding of history and the factors that shape human activity.

2. Indirect measure:

Students will complete an informal feedback survey that rates their experience. They will hand these in before the final.

Directions: In order to assess the effectiveness of this General Education course, we are asking for students' input on learning objectives. Please place an X in grid below to indicate how strongly you agree that this course provided you with opportunities to meet the learning objectives. You may type in comments in the space provided. All responses are anonymous.

This course provided opportunities for me to meet this objective.

Agree Strongly	Agree	Neutral	Disagree	Disagree strongly

Please explain:

Level of student achievement expected for the ELO: Expected score: 75% of students good or better and agree or agree strongly that course meets objectives.

Assessment Evaluation Goals:

A brief summary report will be written and be made available to the Chair of the department. We intend to ensure that the proposed course adequately articulates these goals, teaches toward them, tests for them, and helps students realize their individual potential to meet them. Assessments will be summarized and used to alter the course for the next teaching.

ELO 2: Students describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.

Methods of Assessment:

1. Direct Measure:

Specific Question/Assignment: a question will appear on the midterm or final to assess students' ability to describe and analyze the origins and nature of contemporary issues.

Sample question: Between 1880 and 1900 a handful of European powers divided Africa and its people among themselves in a violent and intense scramble. Why did this happen at that time? Write an essay in which you discuss some of the factors that contributed to that process.

Assessment Rubric:

Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor
Demonstrates a robust, critical, and self-aware analysis of the origins and nature of contemporary issues.	Demonstrates adequate and critical understanding of the origins and nature of contemporary issues.	Demonstrates modest understanding of the origins and nature of contemporary issues.	Demonstrates little or no understanding of the origins and nature of contemporary issues.

ELO 3: Students speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Methods of Assessment:

1. Direct Measure:

Specific Question/Assignment: Students will write a short paper (2-3 pages) to assess students' ability to speak and write critically about primary and secondary historical sources by examining diverse interpretations of past events and ideas in their historical contexts.

Sample question: Using primary sources as well as the assigned readings write an essay in which you discuss the early formation of nationalist political movements in Africa. To what extent was African nationalism derivative of the European conquest? What aspects of African nationalism were innovative and marked a break with European intellectual traditions?

Assessment Rubric:

Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor

B. Diversity- Global Studies

ELO 1: Students understand some of the political, economic, cultural, physical, social, and philosophical aspects of one or more of the world's nations, peoples and cultures outside the U.S.

1. Direct Measure:

Specific Question/Assignment: a question will appear on the midterm or final to assess students' ability to understand the economic, political, cultural, and social dimensions of the past and present societies of modern Africa and will learn to weigh the various aspects of these dimensions in their understanding of the past and present.

Sample: Following the Second World War (1945) Britain and France attempted to reform colonial practices to keep control of their empires in Africa. However, the reforms only accelerated the decolonization process. In some cases this led to a rapid and peaceful transfer of power to nationalist leaders. Write an essay in which you discuss the post-war reforms and how they contributed to an unexpected and rapid decolonization?

Assessment Rubric:

Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor
Demonstrates an excellent understanding of the varied aspects of the cultures and communities of modern Africa. ELO 2: Students recognize the role of national and international diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values as global citizens.

1. Direct Measure:

Specific Question/Assignment: a question will appear on the midterm or final to assess students' ability to be able to situate local events in their global contexts and their ability to understand their own place in this economic context both as US and as global citizens.

Sample: After African countries achieved independence the new governments faced many difficulties in trying to overcome the effects of colonialism on their societies. Write an essay in which you describe some of the challenges the new governments faced and examples of how they sought to overcome them?

Assessment Rubric:

Excellent	Good	Fair	Poor
