Course Description

Introduction to Music Enterprise (MUS 2271) is the first course in the Music, Media, and Enterprise curriculum. It begins an exploration of the spaces where music, audiences, and economic opportunity come together. Along the way it looks at the people, institutions, places, and processes that have defined creativity and commerce in music from the 19th through the 21st centuries. In addition, concepts from business, communication, cultural studies, economics, and the law will be introduced as they apply to value creation in music

This course is a required component of the Music, Media, and Enterprise minor and of the Enterprise Track of the Bachelor of Science in Music. It is open to all students, regardless of major. No prerequisites. 3 credits.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

- Identify key individuals, institutions, laws, policies, places, and events in music and correctly locate them in relationship to cultural, social, and economic history, including current events;
- Describe and interpret selected concepts drawn from music, business, communication, cultural studies, and law as they apply to enterprise in music;
- Independently discover and interpret data in relationship to music enterprise;
- Apply historical knowledge and basic theoretical principles to critically analyze—at a basic level--how musical, cultural, social and economic value is created by individuals and organizations.

How This In-Person Course Works

Mode of delivery: This course is 100% in-person, although there is also a substantial supplemental online component. The two in-person meetings each week on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9:35 am-10:55 am are highly recommended. While lecture slide decks and/or outlines are often posted, there are in-class discussion topics that are not replicated in Carmen. Individual and group assigned work is found in Carmen and is scheduled to be completed following the calendar posted in Carmen.

Pace of activities: This course is divided into weekly modules that are released up to one week ahead of time. Students are expected to prepare assigned material in advance of scheduled class meetings and to keep pace with assignment deadlines.

Credit hours and work expectations: This is a 3 credit-hour course. According to Ohio State bylaws on instruction (go.osu.edu/credit hours), students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of C on average.

Attendance and participation requirements: Research shows regular participation is one of the highest predictors of success. With that in mind, I have the following expectations for everyone's participation:

Participating in in-person class meetings for attendance: twice per week whenever possible. You are also expected to log in to the course in Carmen every week. During most weeks you will probably log in many times. If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with me as soon as possible.

Zoom office hours: optional, but recommended

My livestreamed, scheduled office hours are optional. In-person and additional Zoom times may be available upon request.

Participating in class discussion and online Discussion forums: 1-2 times per week

Sometimes this will take the form of making a contribution in-class, other times there will be online ponderable questions related to that week's topics, and finally, there will be three formal discussion

Grading and Faculty Response

Weekly Ponderable Discussions: 10 @ 1 point each	10
Major Discussions: 3 @ 10 points each	30
Written Exams: 3 @ 10 points each	30
Research and Analysis Project	30
Total Points Possible	100

See Course Schedule for due dates.

Descriptions of Major Course Assignments

Weekly Ponderable Discussions

Description: These are shorter posts based on a posted question or “ponderable” for the week. Topics will usually expand upon a topic from the week’s work and/or explore current events relevant to the course.

Major Discussions

Description: For assigned topics students must research and write an original post of approximately 300-500 words and a substantive response post to at least one other student’s original post. Responses are substantive when they specifically address how the post challenges your own analysis of the topic, changes your mind, or if you can politely refute the post on the basis of substantive information.

Written Exams

Description: These are open book and open Internet exams. They consist of essay questions, some of which draw on course materials and some that draw on additional, reading and/or viewing as described for each question. The purpose of the exams is to challenge students to apply concepts being studied to circumstances not studied in class.

Research and Analysis Project

Description: This is a small group project designed to support exploration of topics of shared interest using tools and techniques discussed in the course.

Grades will be based on thoroughness of research, completeness of information provided, and clarity of your application of principles we have covered in class.

- Step one: form a group and sign up
- Step two: agree on a topic to research and analyze
- Step three: decide who is doing what - everyone doing everything and pulling together your ideas at the end, or a division of labor along the way - your choice.
- Step four: write your analysis and post it in Carmen.
- Your work must be a minimum of 1000 words and reflect the efforts of everyone in the group. Feel free to include media and to use graphics (flowcharts, infographics, etc.) to present your ideas. You must also provide references for any work you cite or use to significantly inform your submitted work. A reference page (using whatever style guide you know best) will be sufficient.
- Grades will be based on thoroughness of research, completeness of information provided, and clarity of your application of principles we have covered in class.
- Detailed grading rubric is available in Carmen.

Academic integrity and collaboration: Your written assignments, including discussion posts, should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow the citation style with which you are most familiar to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are encouraged to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.

Late Assignments

Please refer to Carmen for due dates. Due dates are set to help you stay on pace and to allow timely feedback that will help you complete subsequent assignments. Due to the collaborative nature of major and weekly discussions, I am not able to grade posts submitted after the final deadline for this assignment type.

Instructor Feedback and Response Time

I am providing the following list to give you an idea of my intended availability throughout the course. Remember that you should call 614-688-4357 \(HELP\) at any time if you have a technical problem.

- Preferred contact method: If you have a question, please contact me first through my Ohio State email address. I will reply to emails within 24 hours on days when class is in session at the university.

- Class announcements: I will send all important class-wide messages through the Announcements tool in CarmenCanvas. Please check your notification preferences (go.osu.edu/canvas-notifications) to ensure you receive these messages.
- Discussion board: I will check and reply to messages in the discussion boards once mid-week and once at the end of the week.
- Grading and feedback: For assignments submitted before the due date, I will try to provide feedback and grades within seven days. Assignments submitted after the due date may have reduced feedback, and grades may take longer to be posted.

Other Course Policies

Discussion and Communication Guidelines

The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

- Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. A more conversational tone is fine for non-academic topics.
- Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online.
- Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a title and a link.
- Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Carmen discussion. The same advice applies to all submitted work.
- Synchronous sessions: During our Zoom sessions I ask you to use your real name and a clear photo of your face in your Carmen profile. During our full-group lecture time, you may turn your camera off if you choose. When in breakout rooms or other small-group discussions, having cameras and mics on as often as possible will help you get the most out of activities. You are always welcome to use the free, Ohio State-themed virtual backgrounds (go.osu.edu/zoom-backgrounds). Remember that Zoom and the Zoom chat are our classroom space where respectful interactions are expected.

Academic Integrity Policy

See Descriptions of Major Course Assignments for specific guidelines about collaboration and academic integrity in the context of this online class.

Ohio State's Academic Integrity Policy

Academic integrity is essential to maintaining an environment that fosters excellence in teaching, research, and other educational and scholarly activities. Thus, The Ohio State University and the Committee on Academic Misconduct (COAM) expect that all students have read and understand the university's Code of Student Conduct (studentconduct.osu.edu), and that all students will complete all academic and scholarly assignments with fairness and honesty. Students must recognize that failure to follow the rules and guidelines established in the university's Code of Student Conduct and this syllabus may constitute "Academic Misconduct."

The Ohio State University's Code of Student Conduct (Section 3335-23-04) defines academic misconduct as: “Any activity that tends to compromise the academic integrity of the university or subvert the educational process.” Examples of academic misconduct include (but are not limited to) plagiarism, collusion (unauthorized collaboration), copying the work of another student, and possession of unauthorized materials during an examination. Ignorance of the university’s Code of Student Conduct is never considered an excuse for academic misconduct, so I recommend that you review the Code of Student Conduct and, specifically, the sections dealing with academic misconduct.

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university’s Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university. If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Other sources of information on academic misconduct (integrity) to which you can refer include:

The materials used in connection with this course may be subject to copyright protection and are only for the use of students officially enrolled in the course for the educational purposes associated with the course. Copyright law must be considered before copying, retaining, or disseminating materials outside of the course.

Creating an Environment Free from Harassment, Discrimination, and Sexual Misconduct

The Ohio State University is committed to building and maintaining a community to reflect diversity and to improve opportunities for all. All Buckeyes have the right to be free from harassment, discrimination, and sexual misconduct. Ohio State does not discriminate on the basis of age, ancestry, color, disability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity or expression, genetic information, HIV/AIDS status, military status, national origin, pregnancy (childbirth, false pregnancy, termination of pregnancy, or recovery therefrom), race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status, or any other bases under the law, in its activities, academic programs, admission, and employment. Members of the university community also have the right to be free from all forms of sexual misconduct: sexual harassment, sexual assault, relationship violence, stalking, and sexual exploitation.

To report harassment, discrimination, sexual misconduct, or retaliation and/or seek confidential and non-confidential resources and supportive measures, contact the Office of Institutional Equity:

1. Online reporting form at equity.osu.edu,
2. Call 614-247-5838 or TTY 614-688-8605,
3. Or email equity@osu.edu

The university is committed to stopping sexual misconduct, preventing its recurrence, eliminating any hostile environment, and remedying its discriminatory effects. All university employees have reporting responsibilities to the Office of Institutional Equity to ensure the university can take appropriate action:

- All university employees, except those exempted by legal privilege of confidentiality or expressly identified as a confidential reporter, have an obligation to report incidents of sexual assault immediately.
- The following employees have an obligation to report all other forms of sexual misconduct as soon as practicable but at most within five workdays of becoming aware of such information: 1. Any human resource professional (HRP); 2. Anyone who supervises faculty, staff, students, or volunteers; 3. Chair/director; and 4. Faculty member.

Your Mental Health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. No matter where you are engaged in distance learning, The Ohio State University's Student Life Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) is here to support you. If you find yourself feeling isolated, anxious or overwhelmed, on-demand mental health resources (go.osu.edu/ccsondemand) are available. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614- 292-5766. 24-hour emergency help is available through the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline website (suicidepreventionlifeline.org) or by calling 1-800-273-8255\(TALK\). The Ohio State Wellness app (go.osu.edu/wellnessapp) is also a great resource.

Accessibility Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

Requesting Accommodations

The university strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions, please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. Panel Questions and Responses/Rationales for Music 2271 change request

- QUESTION: The Panel asks for clarification on whether these three syllabi are to be offered simultaneously within a single semester, or if one iteration will be offered per semester.

It is unlikely that all three modalities would ever be offered in a single semester. The most likely scenario is for the hybrid modality to be the default version of Music 2271. This is based on several factors. First, student feedback about the hybrid version offered last Autumn semester was extremely positive. Student performance and completion rates were extremely high, as always. This aligns well with research about the instructional effectiveness of hybrid classes.

In addition, both hybrid and online modalities are a good fit for the media focus of this required course in the Music, Media, and Enterprise Minor (see answer to the second question, below, for more detail). Beyond these considerations, since the course (and the MME minor that it is part of) have become extremely popular with students from China, Korea, as well as with other international students, it is conceivable that an online section could be offered concurrently with the hybrid version from time to time to facilitate the international student community.

- The Panel asks for a rationale for request for hybrid and distance-learning delivery, as they are unsure of why the department is considering offering this course in a distance-learning format.

The courses in the Music, Media, and Enterprise Minor, including Music 2271, Introduction to Music Enterprise, are consistently wait-listed and have been so for more than a decade. One thing that distance learning options afford is the ability to allow for larger enrollments per section without over-stressing classroom resources in the School of Music. More critically, distance learning options—both hybrid and online—give students who have scheduling demands driven by disparate majors, greater flexibility in scheduling these minor courses, which are typically offered only one semester per year. It is vital not to create impediments to completion—either of the MME minor or the major—due to restricted availability.

In terms of the learning experience—as already noted—the subject matter of Music 2271 is heavily media-oriented. As such, both hybrid and online delivery approaches align well with the many online resources that are central to instructional content. Whether the course is offered in-person, hybrid, or fully online, students spend a great deal of time, reading, viewing, analyzing, and discussing online-based content. If we have learned anything during the previous year's pandemic in terms of production, reception, and monetization, it is that online-based content, both "live" and recorded, are central to the present and likely future of the music business. One benefit of the adjustments made to course delivery in 2020-21 was how smoothly and effectively Zoom-based sessions can incorporate multi-media content. This was a frequent point of positive comment from students in the past year.

Further, Carmen-based (and other online) tools used for individual and collaborative assignments in the course are directly relevant to the development of media expertise for students in the MME Minor. In the case of some projects, students create content using presentation tools native to the Internet. This is particularly important for those with an interest in careers in the music and entertainment industry, but likely relevant to most others as well. Graduates of the MME program with such careers have commented positively about this aspect of the MME course experience. Expanding online, multi-media fluency in content, modality, and student learning will be critically important to keeping the curriculum, current, relevant to student experience, and valuable to post graduate study and professional life.

To sum up, in most semesters offering Music 2271 as a hybrid will provide the optimal balance of in-person instruction and on-campus social connectivity with mediated communication, collaboration, learning, and flexibility of scheduling. Should emerging circumstances—such as the continued growth of an interested international student population, changes to the university's economic delivery model, or even additional public-health related disruptions—require it, Music 2271 must also be fully capable of moving to an entirely distance-learning based platform, without compromising the student experience or educational "take-away." Planned development and review of a fully online version is an important step toward making this flexibility a reality.

- Additionally, and to the above point, they are concerned about the attendance policy in the hybrid and in-person offering, as it does not offer incentive for students to attend any synchronous/in-person offering. The Panel would like to offer the friendly suggestion of attaching points and/or a grade percentage to attendance to ensure students attend the course in the appropriate format they have selected.

Good point and friendly suggestion taken. The syllabi have been amended (see attached) to reflect participation points earned from attending synchronous sessions—whether in-person or online, depending on the modality being offered.

- Additionally, students should not have the option to attend or not attend the in-person sessions in a hybrid course, as once they enroll in a hybrid course, the in-person sessions should not be an added, optional component.

Agreed. As noted above, attendance at in-person sessions of a hybrid course will be required, with participation points attached. Students who fail to attend the in-person component of a hybrid session will lose points and potentially incur a significant grade reduction for the semester.

Thanks to the panel for this thoughtful review and constructive feedback of these proposals.

Course Description

Introduction to Music Enterprise (MUS 2271) is the first course in the Music, Media, and Enterprise curriculum. It begins an exploration of the spaces where music, audiences, and economic opportunity come together. Along the way it looks at the people, institutions, places, and processes that have defined creativity and commerce in music from the 19th through the 21st centuries. In addition, concepts from business, communication, cultural studies, economics, and the law will be introduced as they apply to value creation in music

This course is a required component of the Music, Media, and Enterprise minor and of the Enterprise Track of the Bachelor of Science in Music. It is open to all students, regardless of major. No prerequisites. 3 credits.

Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

- Identify key individuals, institutions, laws, policies, places, and events in music and correctly locate them in relationship to cultural, social, and economic history, including current events;
- Describe and interpret selected concepts drawn from music, business, communication, cultural studies, and law as they apply to enterprise in music;
- Independently discover and interpret data in relationship to music enterprise;
- Apply historical knowledge and basic theoretical principles to critically analyze—at a basic level--how musical, cultural, social and economic value is created by individuals and organizations.

How This Online Course Works

Mode of delivery: This course is 100% online. There is a synchronous (real-time) session in Zoom every week on Tuesday from 9:35am – 10:55 am. Students must attend these synchronous sessions. Failure to attend and participate in synchronous sessions will result in a grade reduction. See Grades and Faculty Response below.

Some weeks, as noted in the course schedule and Carmen Announcements, there will be additional lecture material—slides and recorded video—available. Students are responsible for this additional content and it may be included in course exams and/or discussion assignments. Students are free, however, to view this material at their convenience, rather than at a scheduled time.

The rest of the course work—weekly topic discussions, expanded discussions, projects, and exams—is found in Carmen as detailed in the courses schedule and announcements.

Pace of activities: This course is divided into weekly modules that are released one week ahead of time. Students are expected to keep pace with weekly deadlines but—with the exception of the required synchronous sessions—may schedule their efforts freely within that time frame.

Credit hours and work expectations: This is a 3 credit-hour course. According to Ohio State bylaws on instruction (go.osu.edu/credit hours), students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of C on average.

Attendance and participation requirements: Research shows regular participation is one of the highest predictors of success. With that in mind, I have the following expectations for everyone's participation:

Participating in online activities for attendance: at least twice per week

You are required to attend the weekly synchronous session via Zoom. You are also expected to log in to the course in Carmen one additional time every week. During most weeks you will probably log in numerous times, including lecture attendance and weekly writing assignments. If you have a situation that might cause you to miss any scheduled class activities or deadlines, discuss it with me as soon as possible.

Zoom office hours: optional, but recommended

My live, scheduled office hours are optional. Additional times may be available upon request.

Participating in discussion forums: two or more times per week

As part of your participation, each week you can expect to post at least twice (one original and at least one response) as part of our substantive class discussion on the week's topics.

Descriptions of Major Course Assignments

Weekly Ponderable Discussions

Description: These are shorter posts based on a posted question or “ponderable” for the week. Topics will usually expand upon a topic from the week’s work and/or explore current events relevant to the course.

Major Discussions

Description: For assigned topics students must research and write an original post of approximately 300-500 words and a substantive response post to at least one other student’s original post. Responses are substantive when they specifically address how the post challenges your own analysis of the topic, changes your mind, or if you can politely refute the post on the basis of substantive information.

Written Exams

Description: These are open book and open Internet exams. They consist of essay questions, some of which draw on course materials and some that draw on additional, reading and/or viewing as described for each question. The purpose of the exams is to challenge students to apply concepts being studied to circumstances not studied in class.

Research and Analysis Project

Description: This is a small group project designed to support exploration of topics of shared interest using tools and techniques discussed in the course.

- Step one: form a group and sign up
- Step two: agree on a topic to research and analyze
- Step three: decide who is doing what - everyone doing everything and pulling together your ideas at the end, or a division of labor along the way - your choice.
- Step four: write your analysis and post it in Carmen.
- Your work must be a minimum of 1000 words and reflect the efforts of everyone in the group. Feel free to include media and to use graphics (flowcharts, infographics, etc.) to present your ideas. You must also provide references for any work you cite or use to significantly inform your submitted work. A reference page (using whatever style guide you know best) will be sufficient.
- Grades will be based on thoroughness of research, completeness of information provided, and clarity of your application of principles we have covered in class.
- Detailed grading rubric is available in Carmen.

Academic integrity and collaboration: Your written assignments, including discussion posts, should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow the citation style with which you are most familiar to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are encouraged to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.

Late Assignments

Please refer to Carmen for due dates. Due dates are set to help you stay on pace and to allow timely feedback that will help you complete subsequent assignments. Due to the collaborative nature of major and weekly discussions, I am not able to grade posts submitted after the final deadline for this assignment type.

Instructor Feedback and Response Time

I am providing the following list to give you an idea of my intended availability throughout the course. Remember that you should call 614-688-4357 \(HELP\) at any time if you have a technical problem.

- Preferred contact method: If you have a question, please contact me first through my Ohio State email address. I will reply to emails within 24 hours on days when class is in session at the university.
- Class announcements: I will send all important class-wide messages through the Announcements tool in CarmenCanvas. Please check your notification preferences (go.osu.edu/canvas-notifications) to ensure you receive these messages.
- Discussion board: I will check and reply to messages in the discussion boards once mid-week and once at the end of the week.
- Grading and feedback: For assignments submitted before the due date, I will try to provide feedback and grades within seven days. Assignments submitted after the due date may have reduced feedback, and grades may take longer to be posted.

Other Course Policies

Discussion and Communication Guidelines

The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

- Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. A more conversational tone is fine for non-academic topics.
- Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably and constructively. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online.
- Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a title and a link.
- Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Carmen discussion. The same advice applies to all submitted work.
- Synchronous sessions: During our synchronous Zoom sessions I ask you to use your real name and a clear photo of your face in your Carmen profile. During our full-group lecture time, you may turn your camera off if you choose. When in breakout rooms or other small-group discussions, having cameras and mics on as often as possible will help you get the most out of activities. You are always welcome to use the free, Ohio State-themed virtual backgrounds (go.osu.edu/zoom-backgrounds). Remember that Zoom and the Zoom chat are our classroom space where respectful interactions are expected.

Academic Integrity Policy

See Descriptions of Major Course Assignments for specific guidelines about collaboration and academic integrity in the context of this online class.

Ohio State's Academic Integrity Policy

Academic integrity is essential to maintaining an environment that fosters excellence in teaching, research, and other educational and scholarly activities. Thus, The Ohio State University and the Committee on Academic Misconduct (COAM) expect that all students have read and understand the university's Code of Student Conduct (studentconduct.osu.edu), and that all students will complete all academic and scholarly assignments with fairness and honesty. Students must recognize that failure to follow the rules and guidelines established in the university's Code of Student Conduct and this syllabus may constitute "Academic Misconduct."

The Ohio State University's Code of Student Conduct (Section 3335-23-04) defines academic misconduct as: "Any activity that tends to compromise the academic integrity of the university or subvert the educational process." Examples of academic misconduct include (but are not limited to) plagiarism, collusion (unauthorized collaboration), copying the work of another student, and possession of unauthorized materials during an examination. Ignorance of the university's Code of Student Conduct is never considered an excuse for academic misconduct, so I recommend that you review the Code of Student Conduct and, specifically, the sections dealing with academic misconduct.

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university's Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university. If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Creating an Environment Free from Harassment, Discrimination, and Sexual Misconduct

The Ohio State University is committed to building and maintaining a community to reflect diversity and to improve opportunities for all. All Buckeyes have the right to be free from harassment, discrimination, and sexual misconduct. Ohio State does not discriminate on the basis of age, ancestry, color, disability, ethnicity, gender, gender identity or expression, genetic information, HIV/AIDS status, military status, national origin, pregnancy (childbirth, false pregnancy, termination of pregnancy, or recovery therefrom), race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status, or any other bases under the law, in its activities, academic programs, admission, and employment. Members of the university community also have the right to be free from all forms of sexual misconduct: sexual harassment, sexual assault, relationship violence, stalking, and sexual exploitation.

To report harassment, discrimination, sexual misconduct, or retaliation and/or seek confidential and non-confidential resources and supportive measures, contact the Office of Institutional Equity:

1. Online reporting form at equity.osu.edu,
2. Call 614-247-5838 or TTY 614-688-8605,
3. Or email equity@osu.edu

The university is committed to stopping sexual misconduct, preventing its recurrence, eliminating any hostile environment, and remedying its discriminatory effects. All university employees have reporting responsibilities to the Office of Institutional Equity to ensure the university can take appropriate action:

- All university employees, except those exempted by legal privilege of confidentiality or expressly identified as a confidential reporter, have an obligation to report incidents of sexual assault immediately.
- The following employees have an obligation to report all other forms of sexual misconduct as soon as practicable but at most within five workdays of becoming aware of such information: 1. Any human resource professional (HRP); 2. Anyone who supervises faculty, staff, students, or volunteers; 3. Chair/director; and 4. Faculty member.

Your Mental Health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. No matter where you are engaged in distance learning, The Ohio State University's Student Life Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) is here to support you. If you find yourself feeling isolated, anxious or overwhelmed, on-demand mental health resources (go.osu.edu/ccsondemand) are available. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614- 292-5766. 24-hour emergency help is available through the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline website (suicidepreventionlifeline.org) or by calling 1-800-273-8255\(TALK\). The Ohio State Wellness app (go.osu.edu/wellnessapp) is also a great resource.

Accessibility Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

Requesting Accommodations
