Course Change Information

What change is being proposed? (If more than one, what changes are being proposed?)

REGD GE approval; add course goals

What is the rationale for the proposed change(s)?

This course is foundational in that it primes students to notice and analyze critical issues as they relate to race, ethnicity, and gender, as well as intersectional approaches in the humanities as they appear both in their subsequent classes and in their lives more generally. Concurrently, we would like to add missing course goals that reflect how the course is being taught; these are in addition to the new REGD ELOs for this course.

What are the programmatic implications of the proposed change(s)?

(e.g. program requirements to be added or removed, changes to be made in available resources, effect on other programs that use the course)?

We expect ongoing/greater enrollment, especially among students who are searching for REGD courses.

Is approval of the request contingent upon the approval of other course or curricular program request? No

Is this a request to withdraw the course? No

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

College of Arts and Sciences
Comparative Studies

Course Description

This course examines people, places, and things that are “American Icons,” considering icons as objects of identification, admiration, skepticism, and analysis. We will examine an array of iconic American figures—from John Wayne to Beyoncé—alongside iconic concepts in American culture, including hard work, freedom, and the American dream. Where do American ideas about hard work and prosperity come from? What do we mean by “freedom,” and do all people and communities in America have equal access to it? Is the American dream achievable anymore—and, if it is, for whom?

Answering these questions requires that we do more than simply learn about iconic figures and ideas of the American past and present. Accordingly, we will consider what a “cultural icon” is and the cultural work that it performs. With this knowledge, we will analyze the social contexts from which icons have emerged, examining connections between icons, historic events, and social groups. This makes CS 2281 an introduction to interdisciplinary methods in American Studies. Our goal will always be to approach icons with a critical eye and to account for multiple points of view that might fall under the descriptor “American.” In doing so, we will consider how knowledge is produced in humanistic research and the various ways that such knowledge is circulated in contemporary society.

This section of “American Icons” will pay particular attention to the construction of—and struggle over—American identity and history. Put differently, our specific focus will be on the myriad ways that American icons speak to the entanglement of race, ethnicity, gender, and sexuality. We will consider how Americans of various racial and ethnic backgrounds have been construed as alien “others” by American culture, as well as how gender, sexuality, and class produce feelings of American belonging and American estrangement. Special attention will be paid to the historical roots of American inequality (like housing segregation) and their present-day outcomes (like racial health disparity). The second half of our semester will examine how categories of race, gender, and sexuality function within complex systems of power to impact individual lived experiences and broader societal issues. To do so, we will complete two thematic units. The first unit will explore how individual sports and organized sports leagues provided a pathway for professional accomplishment, racial progression, and integration for Black Americans. The second unit will examine the iconicity of Blackness in the American musical tradition, considering the role of intersectional feminist practices in challenging racial-patriarchal thought in America.

Students will come away from this class with a greater appreciation of the radical plurality of U.S. culture and its citizens, including how representatives of this plurality have struggled to gain legal, media, and epistemological recognition.

GE Fulfillment Information (Revised and “Legacy”)

This course meets the requirements of the new/revised GE (launched in fall 2022) in two categories: Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity and Cultural Studies. The course also continues to meet the “legacy” GE requirements in Cultures and Ideas and Diversity: Social Diversity in the United States for students completing a degree under the previous GE framework.

Revised GE (fall 2022 and on)

Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity

Legacy GE (2021 and prior)

Cultures and Ideas

Goals: Students evaluate significant cultural phenomena and ideas in order to develop capacities for aesthetic and historical response and judgment; and interpretation and evaluation.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students analyze and interpret major forms of human thought, culture, and expression.
2. Students evaluate how ideas influence the character of human beliefs, the perception of reality, and the norms which guide human behavior.

Diversity: Social Diversity in the United States

Goals: Students understand the pluralistic nature of institutions, society, and culture in the United States and across the world in order to become educated, productive, and principled citizens.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

1. Students describe and evaluate the roles of such categories as race, gender and sexuality, disability, class, ethnicity, and religion in the pluralistic institutions and cultures of the United States.
2. Students recognize the role of social diversity in shaping their own attitudes and values regarding appreciation, tolerance, and equality of others.

Meeting GE Learning Outcomes

The course supports the expected learning outcomes for all four GE categories by teaching students how to:

- Understand and describe key methods and concerns in the interdisciplinary field of American Studies;
- Identify critical icons in American culture and the socio-historical debates that inform their status as icons;

- Recognize the processes by which American icons become invested with specific cultural values, as well as how they communicate those cultural values in ways that are productive rather than passive;
- Apply new understandings of American icons to the interpretation of contemporary social issues, political debates, and cultural contexts, including those experienced in their own lives;
- Describe and examine how American icons affect personal and collective identity categories (including but not limited to culture, ethnicity, race, gender, sexuality, language, nationality, and ability differences) by shaping constructions American identity and thus the lived experiences of individuals;
- Attend to varied intersections of identities, to the unique configurations of privilege and/or oppression they produce, and to lived experiences of this intersectionality, both as represented in culture and as experienced by individuals;
- Theorize and trace representations of oppression, assimilation, hybridity, intersectionality, colonization, migration, and diaspora, especially as they relate to race, ethnicity, gender, sexuality, and other forms of diversity in American society;
- Identify and analyzing systems of power and inequality within American society that circulate as “icons,” in the circuits of cultural dissemination, and in current events; and
- Use the knowledge of identity and systems of power gained through studying American culture to examine their identities, place in power structures, and impact as global citizens.

Assessment of Outcomes: surveys, discussions, reflections, essays, short presentations, final and midterm exams, and end-of-term evaluations will be used to assess the achievement of these objectives.

Required Course Materials

There are no required textbooks for this class. All readings are available on Carmen or via webpages hyperlinked directly into the schedule. All readings should be printed and brought to class on the day they are assigned. Printing the readings is necessary because computers will only be permitted during specific in-class activities.

Content Advisory: Students should note that readings in this course will frequently cover topics and materials that are explicit in nature (cursing, sexual content, etc.), and that some readings will include racist, misogynistic, homophobic, and/or transphobic language. These elements exist in the texts as part of a complex cultural system and will be framed in discussion, but students who are uncomfortable with encountering them or engaging them critically, in a supported academic setting, may prefer another course.

Overview of Major Course Assignments

In this course, students will be completing the following assignments. Regardless of the math, all papers and exams must be completed to pass this course.

Assignment	Value
Discussion Posts	10%
Response Papers	10%
Mini-Presentations	10%
Icon Analysis	20%
Midterm Exam	10%
Final Exam	20%
In-Class Participation/Writing/Quizzes/Etc.	20%
Total	100%

Discussion Posts. Beginning in week 3, students are expected to post a 300-word response to Wednesday's readings by the start of class on Wednesday. We will use these posts to generate discussion during the class period. The posts can be about a particular reading or the readings as a whole. I encourage you to think of discussion posts as self-reflexive, free-writing spaces in which you can connect course material and the icons we study to your own interests, ideas, social positions, and identities. I am looking for your ideas, thoughts, and reflections. Please identify topics or concepts that confuse you or trouble you so that we can pay particular attention to these issues in class. At the end of your discussion post, please pose one question for the class to consider. This question cannot be a yes-no question; it must be conducive to discussion. For the specific Wednesdays that Discussion Posts are due, please see out schedule. There are 11 Discussion Posts due in total, only 10 will be graded (so students can drop 1 of their choice).

Response Papers. Short papers (~500 words) to prompts in the syllabus. Due on Fridays, these are designed to spur critical thinking about assigned readings, prepare you for class discussion, and help in connecting theoretical materials to your own life—and thus to recognize how perceptions of difference shape your own attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors. To receive credit, all Response Papers must be printed and brought to class on the scheduled dates. For the specific Fridays that Response Papers are due, please see out schedule. There are 10 Response Papers due in total.

Mini-Presentation (Reflection): Individually, all students will begin 1 class period by sharing an icon with personal meaning/value. This icon may be a person, place, thing, or idea, but should be personally meaningful to students. This presentation is informal, lasting approximately 5 minutes, and aims to provide a space for students to connect course materials to their own lives, to reflect on their social positions and identities, and to consider how perceptions of difference shape their own attitude, beliefs, and behaviors. We will assign mini-presentation dates in Week 2.

Mini-Presentation (Research): Working in small groups, students research the historical context for a course icon (or a theme/idea represented in an assigned selection of a course text) and then present their findings to the class. Presentations should consider how the icon's background is historically and culturally situated within socially constructed categories of race, ethnicity, gender, and/or sexuality, as well as how it intervenes into the apparent stability of such social fields. The presentation can take a variety of forms depending on what students think will benefit the class and best suit the material. For example, a group might stage a moderated Q&A discussion, share a slideshow, or record a brief video/podcast (please ensure captioning). Regardless of format, presentations must be shareable in class and should last approximately 10 minutes. We will assign mini-presentation groups and dates during Week 2.

Icon Analysis. Students will write one essay (~1,200-1,500 words) in which they synthesize their learning from the semester to identify and analyze an American icon of their choice. The icon may be a person, concept, or object. Students may choose an icon that appears on the syllabus, but they will be expected to depart from and/or expand upon ideas developed in class. Essays must explain how the icon bears on social life, identity, belonging, and difference in the U.S., as well as the historical process by which the icon became invested with specific cultural values and the ways that it communicates those values. Students are expected to incorporate 3 peer-reviewed sources into their analysis for additional support. Use of outside sources should contribute to the argument, but they should not take over the argument, meaning the essay's author should not lose his/her/their authorial voice or original ideas in long paragraphs about what other people think. Keep summary of other peoples' ideas concise and specific. Essays must be organized with an introduction that contextualizes the argument and provides a thesis statement, body paragraph(s) with supporting evidence for your argument, a conclusion paragraph that states the argument's significance, and an MLA formatted works cited page.

Exams. There will be two in-class exams. The midterm will cover topics from the first half of our semester; the final will focus on topics belonging to the second half of our semester but will be cumulative, taking place during our scheduled exam time. Exams will evaluate comprehension of material on the syllabus and discussed in class. The exam content will be generated by students. Content will be identification questions and short-essay questions. The week before each exam, the instructor will ask students to review their notes and make a list of the ideas they feel are most important to the course. After generating the master list as a class, the instructor will refine it into approximately 40 key terms and redistribute it to students. On the day of the midterm exam, the instructor will choose 8 of these terms at random and students will be responsible for responding to 5 of them; on the day of the final exam, the instructor will choose 12 of these terms at random and students will be responsible for responding to 8 of them. Complete answers will achieve the following:

- If from a specific article, identifies the author and text;
- Defines the term and explains the context or some important details about it; and
- Offers a statement of the identification's importance to our class and/or provides an example that clarifies the term's significance.

Makeup exams will only be given in extraordinary circumstances.

In-Class Participation/Writing/Quizzes/Etc. This category includes all graded in-class work, such as quizzes, worksheets, and free writing. Quizzes may cover any material (readings, a lecture, even the syllabus). In-class work cannot be made up if you are absent.

Specifications for Formatting and Submitting Written Work. All formal written work should be typed, double-spaced, in 12-point Times New Roman font, with 1-inch margins on all sides. Papers should have a heading formatted to MLA guidelines, a title that corresponds to the topic/argument, and an MLA formatted works cited page (when applicable). All pages should be numbered. No email papers will be accepted. All late papers will be penalized 10% per calendar day late, including weekends. Acceptable file formats are .doc, .docx, and .pdf. I cannot accept documents shared online through Word Online or Google Docs, and I do not accept Pages files (all these files are incompatible with CarmenCanvas). It is your responsibility to download, save, and/or convert those documents prior to submissions.

Grading Explanation

Assigned grades are a measure of how well your work satisfies a specific assignment's requirements. They do not reflect my estimation of you as a person, and they are not awarded in proportion to the effort put into an assignment. In grading, I abide by the following definitions:

Grade	%	Explanation
A	93-100 = A 90-92 = A-	Superlative work. Addresses all the requirements of the assignment in a compelling and insightful way. Manifests consistent attention to detail in both the ideas being presented and the writing that conveys them. Leaves the reader thinking well after the last word.
B	87-89 = B+ 83-86 = B 80-82 = B-	Excellent work. Engagingly addresses all requirements of the assignment. Writing is readable and rewarding, attuned to the needs and interest of the reader. Almost entirely error-free.
C	77-79 = C+ 73-76 = C 70-72 = C-	Adequate work. Meets all the basic requirements of the assignment. Clearly addresses the main ideas of the assignment. Writing is readable with occasional lapses in correctness and style. Punctuation, spelling, source citation, and grammar are largely error-free.
D	67-69 = D+ 60-66 = D	Barely meets the basic requirements of the assignment. Addresses the important issues or ideas but largely without insight. Frequent lapses in style, correctness, and grammar indicate insufficient proofreading.
E	59 and lower	Fails to meet the basic requirements of the assignments. Fails to address ideas that are central to the assignment. Inattention to style, correctness, and grammar impact readability.

Course Expectations and Policies

Credit Hours and Work Expectations. This is a 3 credit-hour course. According to Ohio State bylaws on instruction, students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of C average. What does this look like in practice? For some weeks, you will read as much as 150 pages of literature, in addition to shorter critical readings to provide context and theoretical insight. You will then be expected to participate every class. Taking a “back seat” simply will not work for you in this environment. If you are unable to meet these expectations, I recommend that you enroll in a different course. It’s okay to admit to yourself that this is just not the time for a more intensive experience. I would love to welcome you another semester!

Classroom Respect and Civility. Students are expected to discuss and study literary works with respect to their peers and instructor. Often, course material will include racist, misogynistic, homophobic, and/or transphobic language. I ask that you to skip over such language and/or substitute it with currently acceptable language (ex: substituting racial epithets or historically obsolete terms for Americans of African descent with the currently preferred term “Black”). At no point will anyone be permitted to reproduce—either out loud or in their writing—any non-affirming ideas or language in this class, including historically obsolete language.

Incidents of bias and other disruptive virtual behavior will be reported to OSU’s Office of Institutional Equity, which may refer the incident to other governing bodies. This behavior will be subject to whatever consequences these governing bodies impose. Bias includes any kind of discriminatory talk or action against an individual or group based on sex, gender identity, race, ethnicity, color, age, religion, sexual orientation, disability, national origin, veteran status, or HIV status. Sexual harassment as defined by Title IX will not be tolerated.

Attendance. You are allowed two (2) absences, no questions asked. Each absence beyond those will lower your final grade by 1/3 of a letter (ex: B to B-). Students who are absent for more than 6 classes will fail the course. University-excused absences (such as religious holidays, away games for athletes, etc.) and absences related to COVID-19 are the only absences that do not count toward your allowed absences, and you must provide all relevant documentation to be excused—in other words, apart from these occasions, there are no excused absences in this class. In-class assignments (informal writing, worksheets, activities, etc.) cannot be made up if missed. If you are beset with a personal/family emergency or serious illness, please let me know at your earliest convenience and keep me posted during your period of absence.

Participation. You are expected to have completed each class’s assigned readings before class begins on the day the reading is assigned on the syllabus. You should always bring the assigned readings to class. Coming to class unprepared will make class participation difficult and detract from your participation grade.

Leaving Early. Please do not schedule other obligations (like doctor’s appointments or exams for other classes) during our class time. Your other instructors are not able to schedule course meetings or exams that overlap with our course meetings—if they do, please let me know and I will email them on your behalf. To be present and to earn participation points, you must be present and participating for the entire class period, so leaving early is not permitted.

Late Work. Please ask for an extension if you anticipate a scheduling or workload challenge. Given the flexibility of the course set up, no late work will be accepted without explicit consent (this consent will be given in rare cases, such as serious illness, major accident, mental health emergency). This is to ensure fairness to you—so that you have the accountability to do the work in a way that will make it meaningful—and fairness to your classmates—so that my time is spent preparing excellent experiences for you all and not on managing late submissions.

Academic Integrity. I expect you to know what constitutes plagiarism at OSU, in its forms both as outright theft and as failure to give proper credit due to inadequate or inaccurate source citation. If it is discovered that you have intentionally represented the work of another as your own, I will report the misconduct for review. Please see these resources on Academic Integrity:

- Committee on Academic Misconduct (go.osu.edu/coam)
- Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity (go.osu.edu/ten-suggestions)
- Eight Cardinal Rules of Academic Integrity (go.osu.edu/cardinal-rules)

Contacting Me. Reserve email for questions that can be given brief (and therefore prompt) answers. Allow 48 hours for a response during the work week (I do not routinely check my work email after 6:00 p.m. or over the weekend). I cannot respond to drafts of your writing via email; this is the purpose of office conferences, which you should feel free to schedule with me. If my office hours do not work with your schedule, you are encouraged to let me know so we can set an appointment that works for both of us. When coming to an office conference, please be prepared to guide the discussion by directing me to specific issues you would like to focus on. If your query concerns content you missed when you were absent from class, you should contact another student in the course first.

Student Resources

Academic Resources. There are many resources available at OSU for students who would like academic support, including the Writing Center, Dennis Learning Center, and other services. If you find yourself in circumstances that pose a serious challenge to your ability to keep up academically (e.g. ongoing family crisis, chronic illness, hospitalization, financial crisis, or being a victim of violence), Student Advocacy is available to help you manage the situation.

- Student Advocacy: <http://advocacy.osu.edu>
- Additional services: <http://advising.osu.edu/welcome.shtml>
- COVID-19 tools: <https://keeplearning.osu.edu/>

Student Disability Services. The university strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions, please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services \(SLDS\). After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. In light of the current pandemic, students seeking to request COVID-related accommodations may do so through the university's request process, managed by Student Life Disability Services.

Your Mental Health. As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. No matter where you are engaged in distance learning, The Ohio State University's Student Life Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) is here to support you. If you find yourself feeling isolated, anxious or overwhelmed, on-demand mental health resources (go.osu.edu/ccsondemand) are available. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766. 24-hour emergency help is available through the National Suicide Prevention Lifeline website (suicidepreventionlifeline.org) or by calling 1-800-273-8255\(TALK\). The Ohio State Wellness app (go.osu.edu/wellnessapp) is also a great resource.

Outside resources include the National Suicide Prevention Hotline (1-800-273-TALK) and the Crisis Text Line, which can help you talk through any kind of crisis, including self-harm, domestic abuse, depression, sexual assault, family and friend problems, substance abuse, grief, and other situations (text START to 741-741).

Other Health and Crisis Services. Healthcare is available for all students at the Wilce Student Health Center on campus and accepts many insurance plans; it is mostly free for those on OSU student health insurance. If you are ill, they can give you an absence excuse as well as treatment. Same-day weekday appointments are available. After hours and on weekends, there are OSU-run urgent care facilities near campus that accept insurance; see <https://shs.osu.edu/emergencies/after-hours-care/>.

Sexual assault crisis services are available to people of all genders and orientations through the local SARNCO hotline (614-267-7020) and area hospitals. Ongoing support is available through Counseling and Consultation and Wilce Student Health. OSU Hospital, CCS, and SARNCO are confidential. You can also find support and ways to report sexual assault or harassment through the University's Title IX office (<http://titleix.osu.edu>), which does not guarantee confidentiality. Be aware that many other OSU academic and coaching staff are mandatory reporters (required to convey reports of assault to the University) and also cannot guarantee confidentiality. (To be clear, I absolutely will support you and help you get assistance, but you have a right to be aware of OSU's reporting policies.) Choose the support system that is right for you. Being a victim/survivor of sexual assault is never your fault, and you have the right to compassionate help.

Your Right to Protection from Harassment, Discrimination, or Sexual Misconduct.

GE Foundation Courses

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Foundations provide introductory or foundational coverage of the subject of that category. Additionally, each course must meet a set of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO). Courses may be accepted into more than one Foundation, but ELOs for each Foundation must be met. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

This form contains sections outlining the ELOs of each Foundation category. You can navigate between them using the Bookmarks function in Acrobat. Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class meets the ELOs of the Foundation(s) to which it applies. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. Please be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc. Your answers will be evaluated in conjunction with the syllabus submitted for the course.

Accessibility

If you have a disability and have trouble accessing this document or need to receive the document in another format, please reach out to Meg Daly at daly.66@osu.edu or call 614-247-8412.
