Good afternoon,

On Thursday, November 18th, the Themes Panel of the ASC Curriculum Committee reviewed a new GE Themes: Citizenship for a Diverse and Just World proposal for AAAS 3450.

The Panel did not vote on the request as they would like the following feedback points addressed:

- The reviewing faculty are very excited about this course, and strongly supportive of its inclusion within the Theme, but request further clarification surrounding how the course relates to Citizenship. Specifically, there are concerns that the connection to Citizenship is not fully developed within the course syllabus, and would like more of the information in the GE Theme submission forms displayed within the course syllabus and ask that the syllabus contain more of this information.
- The reviewing faculty ask that further articulation of how weekly topics and readings connect to the GE Theme: Citizenship be provided within the course syllabus.
- The reviewing faculty request clarification around the provided reading list, as it was unclear which readings were assigned for which week or when students would be expected to complete the readings.

I will return AAAS 3450 to the departmental queue in curriculum.osu.edu in order to address the Panel's feedback.

Should you have any questions about the feedback of the Panel, please feel free to contact Jim Fredal, faculty Chair of the Themes Panel and Isaac Weiner, faculty Chair of the Theme Advisory Group: Citizenship for a Diverse and Just World, or me.

Best,
Michael
