Relevance of Hindi 101, 102, 103, 104 to Category 7. Foreign Language in the GEC

Hindi, belonging to the Indo-European family of languages, is one of the 15 officially recognized languages of India. The goals of Hindi 101 are to introduce students to the Devanagari script and sound system., elementary vocabulary, basic grammar and sentence structure, and to enable students to identify the elements of the spoken and the written language. Students will also learn about the culture, traditions, and history of India. By the completion of this course, students are expected to have enough vocabulary to participate in a basic conversation, and to be able to read and write simple sentences.

In Hindi 102-104, students are further trained to develop their skills of speaking, comprehension, reading and writing. A variety of practice activities and language tasks, ranging from mechanical to communicative, will be used in class, such as grammar exercises, pronunciation practice, language games, reading and listening comprehensions, movie watching, songs, role-playing, and small skits and plays. Presentations and discussions about Indian culture will be required and encouraged. After completing these four courses, students should be able to listen to complex conversations or stories, watch movies and understand them, read and understand short texts, engage in conversations on everyday topics, and write essays on familiar topics using the structures and vocabulary introduced in class. The course should add to students' familiarity and understanding of Indian culture.

With respect to the GEC Foreign Language category, this instruction will enable students to understand and communicate across ethnic, cultural, ideological, and national boundaries, which is a primary goal of education. Students will be introduced to basic cultural concepts and literary forms, which are closely reflected in language, because elementary and intermediate language study can reveal much about the patterns of thought and cultural principles of another people as well as one's own. Students are thus afforded direct access to an understanding which will enhance the potential of real communication. This instruction, which necessarily involves critical thinking as well as language learning, offers a desirable and practical resource for the personal and professional life of the individual and the community within and outside of national boundaries.
