Course description

This upper-division course examines the history of medicine in North America from the pre-colonial period to the present day. Through lectures, readings (both primary and secondary), films, and podcasts we will examine the practice of healing (the work of the doctor) and the experience of the healed (the patient) and the evolution of medical science and technology in the United States. Among the topics we will examine this semester, we will study rise of the medical profession, the emergence of the modern hospital, the relationship between medical science and clinical medicine and the emergence of the modern healthcare industry. Along the way, we will also pay close attention to the ways the history of medicine is intertwined with larger political, cultural, and social phenomenon of the period.

To give some focus to the vast historical topic that is the history of American medicine, we will pay particular attention to two guiding themes/questions throughout the semester:

1. How has the practice of medicine developed into what we experience as modern medicine today? How did we develop modern medical science and technology? What were some of the major trials and tribulations that had to be overcome?
2. How has the experience of health and healing varied (and continues to vary), in terms of quality, accessibility, etc. based on geography, race, class, socio-economic status, sexual orientation, etc.? Where do examples of these inequities in the history of American medicine? What are some of the causes for these inequalities? How and why have they persisted?

General education goals and expected learning outcomes

Themes: General
Goals	Expected Learning Outcomes	Related Course Content
GOAL 1: Successful students will analyze health and wellbeing at a more advanced and in-depth level than the foundations.	Successful students are able to ...  1.1 Engage in critical and logical thinking about the topic or idea of the theme.	In this course, students will ...  Think critically and logically about the history of American medicine as they watch all the lectures, read the assigned texts, and listen to/watch assigned media each week.  Demonstrate engagement with the material through weekly check-in quizzes.
	1.2 Engage in an advanced, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the topic or idea of the theme.	Think about two framing questions throughout the semester to both consider American medicine as a process through time and to appreciate how the history of medicine is intertwined with politics, society, and economics.  Demonstrate deeper engagement with selected texts of their choice by writing an analytical book review and two primary source analysis essays.  Address one of the framing course questions in a final creative research project.
GOAL 2: GOAL: Successful students will integrate approaches to health and wellbeing by making connections to out-of- classroom experiences with academic knowledge or across disciplines and/or to work they have done in previous classes and that they anticipate doing in future.	2.1 Identify, describe, and synthesize approaches or experiences as they apply to the theme.	Identify and reflect on the patient experience at all levels of society and how it has evolved throughout the history of American medicine up to and including their own experiences as medical patients.  Think about how lessons from history can continue to improve the work of medical practitioners in the future and present these conclusions in a final creative research project.

	2.2 Demonstrate a developing sense of self as a learner through reflection, self-assessment, and creative work, building on prior experiences to respond to new and challenging contexts.	Demonstrate improvement and development in critical reading and writing by using feedback from their first primary source analysis essay to improve their work in their second essay. Be able participate in an optional discussion session to reflect collaboratively on the two assigned monographs and to compare/share conclusions with classmates. Have the option to develop a creative final project, in which they make the case for why a particular aspect of the history of medicine is particularly important/relevant to the profession at large. While doing so, the student is reflecting on why the subject is important to them.
Theme: Health &amp; Wellbeing
Goals	Expected Learning Outcomes	Related Course Content
GOAL: Students will explore and analyze health and wellbeing through attention to at least two dimensions of wellbeing. (Ex: physical, mental, emotional, career, environmental, spiritual, intellectual, creative, financial, etc.)	Successful students are able to... 1.1 Explore and analyze health and wellbeing from theoretical, socio-economic, scientific, historical, cultural, technological, policy, and/or personal perspectives.	In this course, students will ... Examine cultural, scientific, technological, and socio-economic, and policy aspects of the history of American medicine. Topics that address this include the cultural history of medical education, the history of medical science and biomedical research, the history of medical technologies (e.g., surgical techniques and X-rays), the history of health care inequities and policies (e.g., Medicare/Medicaid) intended to close these inequities. Demonstrate their comprehension of these connections in weekly quizzes and reflect on specific moments in the history of medicine through their primary source analysis papers and book review.
	1.2 Identify, reflect on, and apply the skills needed for resiliency and wellbeing.	Identify recent historical efforts that have both been successful in promoting health and well-being as well as the history of setbacks/challenges that still need to be overcome. Think about how we can draw lessons from the history of medicine to improve contemporary healthcare and embed these conclusions in their final projects.

HOW THIS ONLINE COURSE WORKS

Mode of delivery: This course is 100% online. There are no required sessions when you must be logged in to Carmen at a scheduled time.

Pace of online activities: This course is divided into weekly modules that are released on the Monday of each week and will be completed by the following Monday by 11:59 pm. Students are expected to keep pace with weekly deadlines but may schedule their efforts freely within that time frame.

Credit hours and work expectations: This is a 3-credit-hour course. According to Ohio State policy (go.osu.edu/credithours), students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of (C) average.

Attendance and participation requirements: Because this is an online course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of students' expected participation:

- Participating in online activities for attendance: AT LEAST ONCE PER WEEK
You are expected to log in to the course in Carmen every week. (During most weeks you will probably log in many times.) If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with me as soon as possible.
- Office hours and live sessions: OPTIONAL
All live, scheduled events for the course, such as the two class discussions of the two monographs or my office hours, are optional.

COURSE MATERIALS AND TECHNOLOGIES

GRADING AND FACULTY RESPONSE

How your grade is calculated

ASSIGNMENT CATEGORY	GRADE WEIGHT
WEEKLY QUIZZES	20%
PRIMARY SOURCE ANALYSIS ESSAYS	2 x 15% each
BOOK REVIEW ESSAY	15%
PODCAST/VIDEO FINAL PROJECT	35%
TOTAL	100%

Descriptions of major course assignments

Weekly Quizzes (20%)

There will be a short multiple-choice quiz each week to ensure that students are keeping up with the videos and the reading. These quizzes will be timed but open-note and will test factual comprehension of the material from the week's lessons and the readings. Students must complete all quizzes by themselves, without any external help or communication. Students will only be allowed one attempt at each quiz, but I will drop the lowest two quiz scores so the best eight out of ten scores will count 2% each.

Primary Source Analysis Papers (2 x 15% each)

Most weeks we will read one or two primary sources from the period under study. Twice during the semester students will write a short two to three (2-3) page analytical essay that responds to one primary sources using the five categories in the PAPER acronym (a detailed explanation is on Carmen). The purpose of this assignment is to practice interpreting a primary source and explaining your reasoning using evidence. Students will complete TWO of these short essays over the course of the semester, during weeks of their choice (out of ten possible options). These short essays will be due at the end of the week/module for which we read the document.

Book Review Essay (15%)

Students will write a four (4) page critical book review essay on ONE of the two monographs will read together this semester. This essay will be due the week after the week allocated to reading the monograph. A detailed explanation of how to write a book review is available on Carmen.

Podcast/Video Final Project (35%)

Working in groups of two to four (2-4) students will create an ~eight to ten (8–10) minute podcast or video presentation in which they will imagine that they are in medical school giving a presentation to their peer students who have not studied the history of American medicine. In this presentation/podcast groups will introduce their peers to the topic that they deem to be the most important topic of the history of American medicine that their peer students should know about, and why. This project will invite students to do additional research beyond the course materials and present their findings in a creative way. Students will be invited to share their projects with their classmates to practice (asynchronously) oral presentation skills.

This project will be completed through a series of four graded assignments:

1. Brainstorming and finding a group (2.5%)
2. Developing a topic and research focus in a short proposal (5%)
3. Scripting and recording the podcast/video (25%)
4. Providing providing peer feedback by listening to and reflecting on at least two other groups' podcasts (2.5%)

Late assignments

I have built into this syllabus considerable flexibility for assignments, allowing students to choose the best deadline for them from a set of options for most of the major assignments. Students will be allowed to make up major assignments without penalty only in the event of a documented family or medical emergency. In accordance with departmental policy, the student must present documentation of the reason he/she had failed to submit the assignment in a timely manner and documentation must be given to the instructor no more than a week after the scheduled assignment. Late assignments will otherwise be penalized 10% per day late.

Grading scale

100-93: A
90-92: A-

Instructor feedback and response time

I am providing the following list to give you an idea of my intended availability throughout the course. (Remember that you can call 614-688-4357(HELP) at any time if you have a technical problem.)

Grading and feedback: For large assignments, you can generally expect feedback within 10 days.

Email: Students should feel free to contact the instructor at any point during the semester if they have questions about the course or about history more generally (of course I am happy to meet during office hours as well!). E-mail is the quickest way to contact the instructor with pressing questions, but major concerns should be reserved for office hours. When you e-mail, please be sure to put the course # (History 3701) in the subject line so I know which course you are enrolled in (I teach multiple online courses!), begin with a respectful salutation (“Dear Dr. Harris”), and be sure sign your name. I will reply to emails within 24 hours on days when class is in session at the university. I do not regularly check my email on the weekends.

OTHER COURSE POLICIES

Communication guidelines

The following are my expectations for how we should communicate as a class. Above all, please remember to be respectful and thoughtful.

- Writing style: While there is no need to participate in class discussions as if you were writing a research paper, you should remember to write using good grammar, spelling, and punctuation. A more conversational tone is fine for non-academic topics.
- Tone and civility: Let's maintain a supportive learning community where everyone feels safe and where people can disagree amicably. Remember that sarcasm doesn't always come across online.
- Citing your sources: When we have academic discussions, please cite your sources to back up what you say. For the textbook or other course materials, list at least the title and page numbers. For online sources, include a link. For your formal essays, you should follow the Chicago Manual of Style “notes and bibliography” format to cite the ideas and words of your research sources (see: http://www.chicagomanualofstyle.org/tools\_citationguide/citation-guide-1.html).
- Backing up your work: Consider composing your academic posts in a word processor, where you can save your work, and then copying into the Carmen discussion.

Academic integrity policy

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university's Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university.

Quizzes: Weekly quizzes are open-book/open-note but should be completed on your own. Study groups are encouraged but remember that comparing answers on a quiz or assignment is not permitted.

Written assignments: Your written assignments should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow the Chicago Manual of Style to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are welcome to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in, but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.

Reusing past work: In general, you are prohibited in university courses from turning in work from a past class to your current class, even if you modify it. If you want to build on past research or revisit a topic you've explored in previous courses, please discuss the situation with me.

Group projects: This course include a semester-long group project, which can be stressful for students when it comes to dividing work, taking credit, and receiving grades and feedback. I have attempted to make the guidelines for group work as clear as possible for each activity and assignment, but please let me know if you have any questions.

If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Other sources of information on academic misconduct (integrity) to which you can refer include:

- Committee on Academic Misconduct web page (go.osu.edu/coam)
- Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity (go.osu.edu/ten-suggestions)

Copyright for instructional materials

The materials used in connection with this course may be subject to copyright protection and are only for the use of students officially enrolled in the course for the educational purposes associated with the course. Copyright law must be considered before copying, retaining, or disseminating materials outside of the course.

Statement on Title IX

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu

Commitment to a diverse and inclusive learning environment

The Ohio State University affirms the importance and value of diversity in the student body. Our programs and curricula reflect our multicultural society and global economy and seek to provide opportunities for students to learn more about persons who are different from them. We are committed to maintaining a community that recognizes and values the inherent worth and dignity of every person; fosters sensitivity, understanding, and mutual respect among each member of our community; and encourages each individual to strive to reach his or her own potential. Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

Land Acknowledgement

We would like to acknowledge the land that The Ohio State University occupies is the ancestral and contemporary territory of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe and Cherokee peoples. Specifically, the university resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greenville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical contexts that has and continues to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land. More information on OSU's land acknowledgement can be found here: <https://mcc.osu.edu/about-us/land-acknowledgement>

Your mental health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learn, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. No matter where you are engaged in distance learning, The Ohio State University's Student Life Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) is here to support you. If you find yourself feeling isolated, anxious or overwhelmed, on-demand resources are available at go.osu.edu/ccsondemand. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614- 292-5766, and 24-hour emergency help is also available through the 24/7 National Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273-TALK or at suicidepreventionlifeline.org. The Ohio State Wellness app is also a great resource available at go.osu.edu/wellnessapp.

ACCESSIBILITY ACCOMMODATIONS FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Requesting accommodations

The university strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions, please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

GE THEME COURSES

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Themes must meet two sets of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELOs): those common for all GE Themes and one set specific to the content of the Theme. This form begins with the criteria common to all themes and has expandable sections relating to each specific theme.

A course may be accepted into more than one Theme if the ELOs for each theme are met. Courses seeing approval for multiple Themes will complete a submission document for each theme. Courses seeking approval as a 4-credit, Integrative Practices course need to complete a similar submission form for the chosen practice. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class will meet the ELOs of the Theme to which it applies. Please use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. You are encouraged to refer specifically to the syllabus submitted for the course, since the reviewers will also have that document. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc.
