Course Description

HIST 3590 begins with the Age of Revolution in the Americas and then shifts to colonial conquest and resistance in South Asia and the African continent. It focuses on World War I & II as wars between empires, with an emphasis on colonial soldiering, imperial competition, and distinctions between imperial subject and state citizen. It also analyzes the linkages between the Second World War and decolonization, underscoring the changes and continuities within warfare as formal declarations of war drop away. Themes of race and colonial difference, gender and evolving distinctions and definitions between soldier, civilian, and citizen thread their way through course material which includes primary, secondary, and multimedia sources. If “war made the state,” as Charles Tilly famously observed, it also stimulated some of the social and political movements that went on to change regimes and transform who held membership to states, i.e., were citizens, as the world became increasingly diverse and interconnected through empire and subsequently decolonization.

GE Theme: Citizenship for a Diverse and Just World

This course fulfills the general requirements and expected learning outcomes for the GE Theme: Citizenship for a Diverse and Just World.

Goals:

1. Successful students will analyze an important topic or idea at a more advanced and in-depth level than in the Foundations component.
2. Successful students will integrate approaches to the theme by making connections to out-of-classroom experiences with academic knowledge or across disciplines and/or to work they have done in previous classes and that they anticipate doing in future.
3. Successful students will explore and analyze a range of perspectives on local, national, or global citizenship and apply the knowledge, skills, and dispositions that constitute citizenship.
4. Successful students will examine notions of justice amid difference and analyze and critique how these interact with historically and socially constructed ideas of citizenship and membership within society, both within the United States and around the world.

Expected Learning Outcomes:
Successful students are able to:

- 1.1. Engage in critical and logical thinking about the topic or idea of the theme.
- 1.2 Engage in advance, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the topic or idea of the theme.
- 2.1. Identify, describe, and synthesize approaches or experiences as they apply to the theme.
- 2.2. Demonstrate a developing sense of self as a learner through reflection, self-assessment, and creative work, building on prior experiences to respond to new and challenging contexts.
- 3.1. Describe and analyze a range of perspectives on what constitutes citizenship and how it differs across political, cultural, national, global, and/or historical communities.
- 3.2. Identify, reflect on, and apply the knowledge, skills, and dispositions required for intercultural competence as a global citizen.
- 4.1. Examine, critique, and evaluate various expressions and implications of diversity, equity, and inclusion, and explore a variety of lived experiences.
- 4.2. Analyze and critique the intersection of concepts of justice, difference, citizenship, and how these interact with cultural traditions, structures of power, and/or advocacy for social change.

How We Will Meet These Goals in This Course

Goal 1: You will engage in advanced study through the reading of, and responses to, primary and secondary sources that articulate notions of citizenship before, during, and following the transition from empire to nation-state. You will practice critical and logical thinking through your responses and short essays, especially regarding the concept of colonial subject citizen versus independent citizen which is introduced in the first unit on the Haitian Revolution (ELO 1.1). The primary exercise of in advanced, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the theme of citizenship within understandings of imperial conquests and decolonization is the essay portion of the midterm as well as the final exam (which is made up of two short essays), where you respond directly to questions that span the arc of the course, such as the relationship between world war and national liberation movements. (ELO 1.2)

Goal 2: This course will invite you to consider how the wars of empire and decolonization have ongoing legacies that continue to shape contemporary debates on citizenship, asymmetries of power, and issues of national belonging and exclusion. In every unit, we spend time on the political and cultural legacies of wars of empire and decolonization. For example, when discussing the Anglo-Mysore Wars as part of the global Napoleonic Wars, you will explore cultural representations of the battle and the question of modern museum exhibits related to these conflicts. (ELO 2.1). In your weekly responses and your essays, as well as in interactive lectures, and when meeting with the course head, you will be invited to engage in reflection and self-assessment of your own understanding of the material and its contemporary implications (ELO 2.2).

Goal 3: You will describe and analyze a wide range of perspectives on what constitutes citizenship and its relationship to imperial exclusions, ethnic categorization, particularly those of colonial soldiers (ELO 3.1). The perspectives that you will encounter teach intercultural competence by placing events such as the American Civil War and the Indian Revolt of 1957 within the same analytical frame as you consider the world-wide economic effects of cotton as a global commodity and the concept of 'war capitalism' to explain interrelated economic and military expansionist imperial systems. (ELO 3.2)

Goal 4: You will examine expressions of diversity, equity, and inclusion (as well as exclusion) that center around regions in what we know call the Global South. Among many other topics, we explore martial race theory and constructions of masculinity, economic imperialism and 'unequal treaties,' as well as 'civilizational' hierarchies in institutions of international order (ELO 4.1). You will grapple with the complexity of why, for many communities, decolonization and national liberation led to increased access to justice, rights, and enfranchisement, while for others it did not. The world became increasingly diverse and interconnected through empire and subsequently decolonization, but not necessarily one that is equal for all. You will work to make sense of this conundrum throughout the course by responding weekly to readings and participating actively in interactive lectures that pull through this embedded contradiction (ELO 4.2).

Assignments (1000 points in total)

- Attendance/Engaged Participation (100 points). When enrollment allows, all students must meet the instructor once in office hours as part of their participation grade. If you know that you will need to miss class, please notify the instructor ahead of time.
- Brief (c. 150 word) weekly reading responses, due 24hrs before the first weekly lecture, late responses will not count, there are no make-ups, two responses are dropped (300 points). Responses identify the '5W's' of the readings (who, what, when, where, and why do you think you were asked to read/watch/analyze this source) and prepare you with good notes for the final take-home exam. They are submitted via Carmen.
- In class Midterm (250 points)
Contents of exam:
  - Map identifications

- Multiple choice questions
- Short essay. Sample questions might include:
  - When and how did the British East India company achieve military dominance on the Indian subcontinent?
  - How did scientific racism and ethnic categorization shape the composition of colonial armies?
  - Was the First World War a war between empires?
- Take home, open book, open note, cumulative, 48hr final exam (350 points). Exam contains two short essays of 1000 words each (you can be 10% above or below word count), inclusive of citations. You only need to draw upon material that has been assigned in HIST 3590, including both readings and lectures. The exam is cumulative but draws more heavily on the second half of the course, and rewards those with strong class notes.

Sample questions might include:

- When and why did decolonization become inevitable?
- What were the 'lessons learned' from Malaya/Indochina/Vietnam/Algeria for Afghanistan/Iraq?
- Why have many governments stopped declaring war?

Statement on Academic Misconduct

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

Statement on Disability

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

Statement on Mental Health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available through the 24/7 National Suicide Prevention Hotline at 1-800-273-TALK or at suicidepreventionlifeline.org.

Statement on Violence and Sexual Harassment

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu

Statement on Diversity

The Ohio State University affirms the importance and value of diversity in the student body. Our programs and curricula reflect our multicultural society and global economy and seek to provide opportunities for students to learn more about persons who are different from them. We are committed to maintaining a community that recognizes and values the inherent worth and dignity of every person; fosters sensitivity, understanding, and mutual respect among each member of our community; and encourages each individual to strive to reach his or her own potential. Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

Land Acknowledgment

The land that The Ohio State University occupies is the ancestral and contemporary territory of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe, and Cherokee peoples. Specifically, the university resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greenville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical contexts that have and continue to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land. This acknowledgment is of particular importance for a course focused on colonial conquest and decolonization.

GE THEME COURSES

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Themes must meet two sets of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELOs): those common for all GE Themes and one set specific to the content of the Theme. This form begins with the criteria common to all themes and has expandable sections relating to each specific theme.

A course may be accepted into more than one Theme if the ELOs for each theme are met. Courses seeking approval for multiple Themes will complete a submission document for each theme. Courses seeking approval as a 4-credit, Integrative Practices course need to complete a similar submission form for the chosen practice. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class will meet the ELOs of the Theme to which it applies. Please use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. You are encouraged to refer specifically to the syllabus submitted for the course, since the reviewers will also have that document. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc.

Course subject & number

General Expectations of All Themes

GOAL 1: Successful students will analyze an important topic or idea at a more advanced and in-depth level than the foundations.

Please briefly identify the ways in which this course represents an advanced study of the focal theme. In this context, “advanced” refers to courses that are e.g., synthetic, rely on research or cutting-edge findings, or deeply engage with the subject matter, among other possibilities. (50-500 words)

Course subject & number

ELO 1.1 Engage in critical and logical thinking about the topic or idea of the theme. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

ELO 1.2 Engage in an advanced, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the topic or idea of the theme. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

Course subject & number

GOAL 2: Successful students will integrate approaches to the theme by making connections to out-of-classroom experiences with academic knowledge or across disciplines and/or to work they have done in previous classes and that they anticipate doing in future.

ELO 2.1 Identify, describe, and synthesize approaches or experiences as they apply to the theme.

Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

ELO 2.2 Demonstrate a developing sense of self as a learner through reflection, self-assessment, and creative work, building on prior experiences to respond to new and challenging contexts. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met.

Specific Expectations of Courses in Citizenship

GOAL 1: Successful students will explore and analyze a range of perspectives on local, national, or global citizenship, and apply the knowledge, skills, and dispositions that constitute citizenship.

ELO 1.1 Describe and analyze a range of perspectives on what constitutes citizenship and how it differs across political, cultural, national, global, and/or historical communities. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

ELO 1.2 Identify, reflect on, and apply the knowledge, skills and dispositions required for intercultural competence as a global citizen. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

Course subject & number

GOAL 2: Successful students will examine notions of justice amidst difference and analyze and critique how these interact with historically and socially constructed ideas of citizenship and membership within societies, both within the US and/or around the world.

ELO 2.1 Examine, critique, and evaluate various expressions and implications of diversity, equity, inclusion, and explore a variety of lived experiences. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)

2.2 Analyze and critique the intersection of concepts of justice, difference, citizenship, and how these interact with cultural traditions, structures of power and/or advocacy for social change. Please link this ELO to the course goals and topics and indicate specific activities/assignments through which it will be met. (50-700 words)
