Course description

Issues of race and ethnicity have shaped American political history from the colonial era to the present. This course is designed to introduce students to the continued significance of race and ethnicity in American society with a focus on identity. We will spend most of the course examining how various identities and combinations of identities (namely race, ethnicity, and gender) are associated with sociopolitical experiences and attitudes. The course materials will introduce students to the foundational concepts of group identity, as well as examining its applications across groups and in recent contexts. All activities and assignments center around better conceptualizing and understanding the diverse experiences of individuals both within and across groups. The reading materials will also provide insight into how the scholarly examination of groups and group identities have evolved over time, as well as how they vary across fields and speak to salient issues in our present political moment.

This course will introduce students to a variety of perspectives about heterogeneity in experiences, views, and outcomes across groups in society. Our time together will focus on the following activities:

1. Read the assigned selections until you understand them.
2. Listen to lectures that underscore the key points from the readings.
3. Review the weekly reading response prompt and consider how to reply based on the course materials.
4. Draft, edit, revise, and ultimately submit your reading response each week.
5. Study for the weekly reading quiz by quizzing yourself beforehand.
6. Take online reading quizzes to assess your comprehension.
7. Consider what you find especially interesting and how you would convey that course concept, idea, or pattern to others in your the final project.

Course expected learning outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

1. Understand the historical and contemporary influence of race, ethnicity, and gender in the United States
2. Explain how identities such as race and ethnicity continue to function within complex systems of power
3. Understand the nuanced history and development of connections between racial identity groups and American partisan politics

General education goals and expected learning outcomes

Goals:

1. Successful students will engage in a systematic assessment of how historically and socially constructed categories of race, ethnicity, and gender, and possibly others, shape perceptions, individual outcomes, and broader societal, political, economic, and cultural systems.

2. Successful students will recognize and compare a range of lived experiences of race, gender, and ethnicity.

Expected Learning Outcomes:

Successful students are able to:

- 1.1. Describe and evaluate the social positions and representations of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity, and possibly others.
- 1.2. Explain how categories including race, gender, and ethnicity continue to function within complex systems of power to impact individual lived experiences and broader societal issues.
- 1.3. Analyze how the intersection of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity combine to shape lived experiences.
- 1.4. Evaluate social and ethical implications of studying race, gender, and ethnicity.
- 2.1. Demonstrate critical self-reflection and critique of their social positions and identities.
- 2.2. Recognize how perceptions of difference shape one's own attitudes, beliefs, or behaviors.
- 2.3. Describe how the categories of race, gender, and ethnicity influence the lived experiences of others.

How this online course works

Mode of delivery

This course is 100% online. There are no required sessions when you must be logged in to Carmen at a scheduled time.

Pace of online activities

This course is divided into weekly modules. Students are expected to keep pace with weekly deadlines but may schedule their efforts freely within that time frame.

Credit hours and work expectations

This is a 3-credit-hour course. According to Ohio State policy (go.osu.edu/credithours), students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of (C) average.

Participation requirements

Because this is an online course, your attendance is based on your online activity and engagement with the course. The following is a summary of what is expected of students:

- Participating in Online Activities: AT LEAST ONCE PER WEEK

You are expected to log in to the course in Carmen every week. (During most weeks you will probably log in many times.) If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with me as soon as possible. Every week you are expected to review the module's instructions, read the course readings, watch the weekly lecture recording, review the feedback provided on your prior week's assignments, complete the present week's assignments. The weekly lecture recordings will be broken up into modules which connect to each week's readings and big picture goals, totaling approximately 2 hours per week. The remaining direct instruction time will come in the form of the weekly course activities detailed below, encouragement to attend office hours, and via feedback provided on assignments by the instructor.

- Completing Course Quizzes: ONCE PER WEEK

Every week a new quiz will be posted to Carmen related to that week's course material. You will need to complete the quiz each week to receive full credit. The quizzes will be due by Friday at 11:59pm on Carmen every week. The quiz will consist of 10 multiple choice questions randomly drawn from a question bank. There is no time limit once you begin the quiz and you are allowed to refer back to your course materials. You are also allowed to re-take the quiz up to 3 times (recognizing that you will be asked different questions in each quiz attempt) and the highest score will be recorded. It is estimated that this active learning activity will take 30-60 minutes per week.

- Submitting Reading Responses: ONCE PER WEEK

Every week a discussion prompt will be posted on Carmen related to that week's readings. After reading the assigned readings and considering connections with prior week's readings, you should then see what the discussion prompt is and write a response in the form of several paragraphs. These reading responses are expected to illustrate the student's understanding of the individual course readings and lecture material, as well as synthesizing across readings/lectures to demonstrate broader understandings of course themes. The reading response is due every week. It is estimated that this active learning activity will take 1 hour per week.

- Office hours: OPTIONAL

Attendance at my Zoom office hours is encouraged but optional. Please sign up for a meeting time if you would like to discuss course content or other course-related issues.

Course communication guidelines

Tone and civility

Assignments and other correspondence with the instructor are expected to be formal and respectful in tone. Please reach out to Prof. Yadon with any questions or concerns regarding the readings or assignments. Although the course content will produce different views, reaction, and/or disagreement, all written assignments and correspondence should be civil.

Citing your sources

Students are expected to appropriately cite their sources in all written assignments. This includes listing the author's name and year of publication from the syllabus in a parenthetical citation—e.g., (Yadon 2023)—and including specific page numbers if quoting directly from the article. Drawing from other materials outside of class is also acceptable, but these sources need to be cited appropriately and a full citation (and link to web sources) provided at the end of your assignment.

All assignments will be put through plagiarism and AI detection software, TurnItIn, and any flagged issues may result in a failing grade. Failure to cite sources appropriately may result in a failing grade.

Protecting and saving your work

Students are expected to compose their reading notes and other written assignments for the course in word processing tools outside of Carmen. This will ensure that your work is appropriately and regularly saved, which protects you from issues with internet connectivity, browser time-outs, or failed submission attempts.

Course materials and technologies

Textbooks

There are no required textbooks for this course. All required readings will be made available via the course Carmen site under each week's module.

Description of major course assignments

Weekly Reading Quizzes (30% of Total Grade)

- Description

To increase engagement with course materials and evaluate your understanding of course content, there will be weekly quizzes related to that week's readings and discussion. These quizzes will be posted on our course's Carmen page.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

You are allowed to refer back to your readings, notes, and other course materials while completing the quizzes. Students are expected to complete the quizzes individually—i.e., without working or consulting with other students in the course.

Weekly Reading Responses (30% of Total Grade)

- Description

To increase engagement with course materials and evaluate your understanding of course content, there will be weekly reading responses that you must submit via Carmen. Prof. Yadon will post a discussion prompt for you to respond to which engages with the course materials. These responses should only be one or two paragraphs in length (approximately 5-10 sentences). Please be concise and remember to cite your sources appropriately.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

You are allowed to refer back to your readings, notes, and other course materials while completing the reading responses. Students are expected to write their responses individually—i.e., although it is encouraged to talk with other students about course content and themes, it is not permissible to jointly write a reading response for submission. Students are not allowed to use AI-generated responses to the assignment(s). All assignment submissions will be automatically run through TurnItIn for plagiarism and AI detection; any flagged issues will result in a failing assignment grade.

Final Project (40% of Total Grade)

○ Description

For your final project, you are tasked with teaching “outsiders” (i.e., people who are not taking this class) about a concept or idea we’ve learned this semester. You can use whatever medium you want, except for a standard essay or Twitter-like thread. Feel free to be creative. You can record a podcast, create a photo exhibit, write a magazine piece or long-form blog post, write a set of poems, etc. There are numerous possibilities. Regardless of your chosen medium, all projects will be evaluated via the following criteria:

1. Demonstrates a clear understanding of the concept
2. Makes clear why the concept is important for some aspect of politics (in the US or abroad)
3. Uses language that is accessible to a broad public
4. Demonstrates effort commensurate with a final class project
5. Showcases creativity and imaginative thinking

You will be required to submit 2 brief memos outlining your final project ideas as they evolve throughout the semester. These memos are expected to state which course topic or concept you’ll examine for your final project, what project format you’re proposing (blog post, art display, poem, etc.), and your vision for how the topic/concept will be conveyed through your chosen format.

Your memo will be shared with other students in the course for peer review and feedback, and you will be assigned to review the memos of other students. You will need to incorporate the peer and instructor feedback into your plans before submitting Memo #2 and ultimately your final project.

Grading for this final project breaks down as follows:

- 15% submitting Memo #1 describing final project plans

- 10% completing peer feedback for other students' Memo #1 submission (auto-assigned in Carmen)
- 15% submitting Memo #2 describing updated final project plans & responding to peer feedback from Memo #1
- 10% completing peer feedback for other students' Memo #2 submission (auto-assigned in Carmen)
- 50% Final project submission

○ Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

You are allowed to refer back to all course materials, as well as considering materials from reputable, external sources. Please cite all of your sources appropriately and fully. Students are expected to complete the final project individually; although you may discuss your project with other students, you may not formally collaborate or submit a group project. Students are not allowed to use AI-generated text for the final project. All assignment submissions will be run through TurnItIn for plagiarism and AI detection; any flagged issues will automatically result in a failing assignment grade.

Late assignments

Late assignments will not be accepted and will result in a failing assignment grade.

Instructor feedback and response time

Grading and feedback

Quizzes will be automatically graded in Carmen. Reading responses will be graded within 2 weeks of the assignment deadline. If you have concerns regarding your grades, please reach out to Prof. Yadon as soon as possible.

Email and Response Times

Students with short questions should send an email to Prof. Yadon. I will respond to your message within 2 business days. This means that enough time should be allotted before assignment deadlines or exams to reach out with questions; emailing an hour before the deadline will not likely be a successful strategy. Before emailing, please review the syllabus and our Carmen site to check if your question is already answered.

For questions that require more effort than a short email, please sign up for a meeting during my virtual office hours. These office hours are an opportunity to discuss course requirements, course content, related research, or other related issues. They also serve as an opportunity for us to get to know each other outside of the classroom and I strongly encourage all students to attend office hours at least once during the semester.

Preferred contact method

Please send an email to Prof. Yadon for brief questions, or sign up for virtual office hours for more detailed questions.

Academic policies

Academic integrity policy

See Descriptions of major course assignments, above, for my specific guidelines about collaboration and academic integrity in the context of this online class.

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487).

For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct: <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university's Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university.

If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Other sources of information on academic misconduct (integrity) to which you can refer include:

We are committed to maintaining a community that recognizes and values the inherent worth and dignity of every person; fosters sensitivity, understanding, and mutual respect among each member of our community; and encourages each individual to strive to reach his or her own potential. Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

Land acknowledgement

We would like to acknowledge the land that The Ohio State University occupies is the ancestral and contemporary territory of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe and Cherokee peoples. Specifically, the university resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greeneville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. I/We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical contexts that has and continues to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land.

More information on OSU's land acknowledgement can be found here: <https://mcc.osu.edu/about-us/land-acknowledgement>

Your mental health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Accessibility accommodations for students with disabilities

Requesting accommodations

The university strives to maintain a healthy and accessible environment to support student learning in and out of the classroom. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic, or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion.

If you are isolating while waiting for a COVID-19 test result, please let me know immediately. Those testing positive for COVID-19 should refer to the Safe and Healthy Buckeyes site for resources. Beyond five days of the required COVID-19 isolation period, I may rely on Student Life Disability Services to establish further reasonable accommodations. You can connect with them at slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; or slds.osu.edu.

Religious accommodations

Our inclusive environment allows for religious expression. Students requesting accommodations based on faith, religious or a spiritual belief system in regard to examinations, other academic requirements or absences, are required to provide the instructor with written notice of specific dates for which the student requests alternative accommodations at the earliest possible date. For more information about religious accommodations at Ohio State, visit odi.osu.edu/religious-accommodations.

GE Foundation Courses

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Foundations provide introductory or foundational coverage of the subject of that category. Additionally, each course must meet a set of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO). Courses may be accepted into more than one Foundation, but ELOs for each Foundation must be met. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

This form contains sections outlining the ELOs of each Foundation category. You can navigate between them using the Bookmarks function in Acrobat. Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class meets the ELOs of the Foundation(s) to which it applies. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. Please be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc. Your answers will be evaluated in conjunction with the syllabus submitted for the course.

Accessibility

If you have a disability and have trouble accessing this document or need to receive the document in another format, please reach out to Meg Daly at daly.66@osu.edu or call 614-247-8412.

Course Number and Title:

Carmen Use

When building your course, we recommend using the ASC Distance Learning Course Template for CarmenCanvas. For more on use of Carmen: Common Sense Best Practices.

A Carmen site will be created for the course, including a syllabus and gradebook at minimum.

If no, why not?

Syllabus

Proposed syllabus uses the ASC distance learning syllabus template, includes boilerplate language where required, as well as a clear description of the technical and academic support services offered, and how learners can obtain them.

Syllabus is consistent and is easy to understand from the student perspective.

Syllabus includes a schedule with dates and/or a description of what constitutes the beginning and end of a week or module.

If there are required synchronous sessions, the syllabus clearly states when they will happen and how to access them.

Additional comments (optional):

Instructor Presence

For more on instructor presence: About Online Instructor Presence.

Students should have opportunities for regular and substantive academic interactions with the course instructor. Some ways to achieve this objective:

Regular instructor communications with the class via announcements or weekly check-ins.

Instructional content, such as video, audio, or interactive lessons, that is visibly created or mediated by the instructor.

- Regular participation in class discussion, such as in Carmen discussions or synchronous sessions.
- Regular opportunities for students to receive personal instructor feedback on assignments.

Please comment on this dimension of the proposed course (or select/explain methods above):

Delivery Well-Suited to DL/DH Environment

Technology questions adapted from the Quality Matters rubric. For information about Ohio State learning technologies: Toolsets.

- The tools used in the course support the learning outcomes and competencies.
- Course tools promote learner engagement and active learning.
- Technologies required in the course are current and readily obtainable.
- Links are provided to privacy policies for all external tools required in the course.

Additional technology comments (optional):

Which components of this course are planned for synchronous delivery and which for asynchronous delivery? (For DH, address what is planned for in-person meetings as well.)

If you believe further explanation would be helpful, please comment on how course activities have been adjusted for distance learning (optional):

Workload Estimation

For more information about calculating online instruction time: ODEE Credit Hour Estimation.

- Course credit hours align with estimated average weekly time to complete the course successfully.
- Course includes direct (equivalent of “in-class”) and indirect (equivalent of “out-of-class”) instruction at a ratio of about 1:2.

Provide a brief outline of a typical course week, categorizing course activities and estimating the approximate time to complete them or participate:

- In the case of course delivery change requests, the course demonstrates comparable rigor in meeting course learning outcomes.

Accessibility

For more information or a further conversation, contact the accessibility coordinator for the College of Arts and Sciences. For tools and training on accessibility: Digital Accessibility Services.

- Instructor(s) teaching the course will have taken Digital Accessibility training (starting in 2022) and will ensure all course materials and activities meet requirements for diverse learners, including alternate means of accessing course materials when appropriate.
- Information is provided about the accessibility of all technologies required in the course. All third-party tools (tools without campus-wide license agreements) have their accessibility statements included.

Description of any anticipated accommodation requests and how they have been/will be addressed.

Additional comments (optional):

Academic Integrity

For more information: Academic Integrity.

- The course syllabus includes online-specific policies about academic integrity, including specific parameters for each major assignment:
- Assignments are designed to deter cheating and plagiarism and/or course technologies such as online proctoring or plagiarism check or other strategies are in place to deter cheating.

Additional comments (optional):

Frequent, Varied Assignments/Assessments

For more information: Designing Assessments for Students.

- Opportunities for students to interact academically with classmates through regular class discussion or group assignments.
- Opportunities for students to interact socially with classmates, such as through video conference sessions or a course Q&A forum.
- Attention is paid to other ways to minimize transactional distance (psychological and communicative gaps between students and their peers, instructor, course content, and institution).

Please comment on this dimension of the proposed course (or select methods above):

Transparency and Metacognitive Explanations

For more information: Supporting Student Learning.

Students have successful, meaningful experiences when they understand how the components of a course connect together, when they have guidance on how to study, and when they are encouraged to take ownership of their learning. Possible approaches:

- Instructor explanations about the learning goals and overall design or organization of the course.
- Context or rationale to explain the purpose and relevance of major tasks and assignments.

- Guidance or resources for ancillary skills necessary to complete assignments, such as conducting library research or using technology tools.

Charles,

This course does overlap with Sociology 1102, which emphasizes the construction and consequences of racial, ethnic, and gender identities. Nevertheless, we concur with the understanding that POLITSC 1910 will focus heavily on political identities.
