COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course focuses on the rich variety, aesthetic beauty, and political significance of popular music in modern African cities. By closely attending to the genres, forms, styles, and social life of African popular music, students will encounter the dynamic soundscapes of popular culture in Africa today. Every week, students will explore the intersectionality of race, gender, sexuality, class, and ethnicity by examining how these complex dynamics manifest within the vibrant and diverse landscape of modern African cities through the lens of popular music.

By calling this culture “popular,” this class takes seriously the youth-driven social and aesthetic trends cultivated in cities within particular contexts of labor, politics, leisure, ritual, and consumer capitalism. The “urbanity” of this culture will take us to a variety of urban contexts—from mining towns to cosmopolitan city centers, from nightclub performances to state-sponsored cultural festivals, and from street-side ceremonies to cyber cafés—in cities across the continent—from Algiers to Johannesburg, and from Dakar to Dar es Salaam. Listening closely to the extraordinary sounds of this popular culture will allow students to better understand and appreciate one of the world’s most prodigious cultural resources: the modern music of urban Africa.

Musical genres this class may consider include Ghanaian highlife, North African raï, South African township music, East African taarab, Congolese rumba, Nigerian jùjú, West African praise music, protest songs in Zimbabwe and Egypt, and diasporic fusions in Belgium, Sweden, and New York, among many others. Over the course of the semester, as we listen to these sounds and study their social contexts, students will discover the cultural commonalities and stylistic differences that make African popular music a coherent and dynamic topic of study.

GENERAL EDUCATION (GE) CATEGORIES

Historical and Cultural Studies

Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity

GE: HISTORICAL AND CULTURAL STUDIES (FOUNDATION)

GOAL 1: Successful students will critically investigate and analyze historical ideas, events, persons, material culture, and artifacts to understand how they shape society and people.

- Expected Learning Outcome 1.1: Successful students are able to identify, differentiate, and analyze primary and secondary sources related to historical events, periods, or ideas.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.2: Successful students are able to use methods and theories of historical inquiry to describe and analyze the origin of at least one selected contemporary issue.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.3: Successful students are able to use historical sources and methods to construct an integrated perspective on at least one historical period, event, or idea that influences human perceptions, beliefs, and behaviors.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.4: Successful students are able to evaluate social and ethical implications in historical studies.

GOAL 2: Successful students will evaluate significant cultural phenomena and ideas to develop capacities for aesthetic and cultural response, judgment, interpretation, and evaluation.

- Expected Learning Outcome 2.1: Successful students are able to analyze and interpret selected major forms of human thought, culture, ideas, or expression.
- Expected Learning Outcome 2.2: Successful students are able to describe and analyze selected cultural phenomena and ideas across time using a diverse range of primary and secondary sources and an explicit focus on different theories and methodologies.
- Expected Learning Outcome 2.3: Successful students are able to use appropriate sources and methods to construct an integrated and comparative perspective of cultural periods, events, or ideas that influence human perceptions, beliefs, and behaviors.
- Expected Learning Outcome 2.4: Successful students are able to evaluate social and ethical implications in cultural studies.

This course fulfills these goals and objectives by immersing students in the history and culture of African popular music, encouraging critical analysis, and fostering an appreciation for the diverse and dynamic cultural phenomena within modern African cities. Students analyze primary and secondary sources related to African popular music's historical and social contexts, as well as various musical genres and cultural phenomena, to evaluate the social and ethical implications of historical and cultural studies in the context of African popular music and urban culture.

GE: RACE, ETHNICITY, AND GENDER DIVERSITY (FOUNDATION)

GOAL 1: Successful students will engage in a systematic assessment of how historically and socially constructed categories of race, ethnicity, and gender, and possibly others, shape perceptions, individual outcomes, and broader societal, political, economic, and cultural systems.

- Expected Learning Outcome 1.1: Successful students are able to describe and evaluate the social positions and representations of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity, and possibly others.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.2: Successful students are able to explain how categories including race, gender, and ethnicity continue to function within complex systems of power to impact individual lived experiences and broader societal issues.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.3: Successful students are able to analyze how the intersection of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity combine to shape lived experiences.
- Expected Learning Outcome 1.4: Successful students are able to evaluate social and ethical implications of studying race, gender, and ethnicity.

GOAL 2: Successful students will recognize and compare a range of lived experiences of race, gender, and ethnicity.

- Expected Learning Outcome 2.1: Successful students are able to demonstrate critical self- reflection and critique of their social positions and identities.
- Expected Learning Outcome 2.2: Successful students are able to recognize how perceptions of difference shape one's own attitudes, beliefs, or behaviors.
- Expected Learning Outcome 2.3: Successful students are able to describe how the categories of race, gender, and ethnicity influence the lived experiences of others.

This course fulfills these goals and objectives by immersing students in the exploration of popular music in modern African cities, allowing them to critically engage with the complex issues of race, ethnicity, and gender within the context of African urban culture. Through the study of various musical genres and social contexts, students learn to describe and evaluate the social positions and representations of these categories. They also understand how race, gender, and ethnicity continue to function within complex systems of power, influencing individual experiences and broader societal issues. Moreover, this course promotes critical self-reflection and the recognition of how perceptions of difference shape attitudes and behaviors, enabling students to better appreciate the lived experiences of others within this rich and diverse cultural landscape.

COURSE EXPECTATIONS AND OBJECTIVES

Taking the cities of the African continent and its modern diasporas as geographical points of reference, we work from the premise that African popular music encompasses a wide variety of complex musical forms and styles.

1. Students will learn to identify musical sounds and structures and differentiate between genres through in-depth listening/viewing and discussion of musical examples. To this end, we will spend a fair amount of class time devoted to developing and applying critical listening and viewing skills. (Note: While we will discuss aspects of musical structure and composition, no prior study of music is required for this course.) Questions you will hear me ask repeatedly are: “What do you hear?” “What do you see?” And, “What does it mean?”
2. Outside of class, students will complement their listening and viewing with selected readings from scholarly sources (articles and book chapters), as well as related programs from the nationally syndicated public radio program, Afropop Worldwide (<http://www.afropop.org/>). The content of these readings and programs will be taken up in class discussions (both in class and via Carmen discussion boards) as we develop an understanding of the socio-cultural and historical contexts to which the musics we study belong.
3. Engaged discussions, whether during class sessions or on discussion boards) are critical to the expected learning outcomes of this course. To support these outcomes, students will be asked to prepare comments and questions prior to the Monday class session each week, which we will use to generate dialogue (and sometimes debate). Comments/questions will be posted to the relevant Canvas discussion board each week. (Discussion board assignments will be labeled “Week 2,” “Week 3,” for clarity.) To foster dialogue, students must also respond to or engage with at least two discussion board posts from their classmates each week.
4. Students will also be asked to closely read and present the content and arguments of at least one of the academic texts we read during the semester. Reading presentations will take place during the class sessions.

5. Larger assignments (due at the midterm and end of semester) have been developed to further support the course's learning goals and outcomes, and allow for a range of skill sets (both academic and creative) to facilitate understanding—and enjoyment!—of course content.

These assignments are outlined and described in greater detail in the next section.

ASSIGNMENTS

Work in this course will include regular reading, focused listening and viewing, and robust discussion (during Zoom class sessions and on the Canvas discussion boards). In addition to the week-to-week coursework (quizzes, comments/questions, and reading presentations), students will be asked to write a midterm review essay, and prepare a final project (for which there are four options; see below) that they will present to the class at the end of the semester.

Reading & Discussion Posts/Comments: All weekly reading assignments should be completed before the Monday class session each week. On Sunday—no later than 11:59pm—students will submit a comment and/or question to the appropriate weekly Canvas discussion board, informed by the week's reading and listening assignments. One comment or question is required, though students are encouraged to submit more than one of each! Students must also respond to or engage with their peers' posts at least twice each week. Comments to discussion posts are due no later than 11:45am on Monday (or one hour before class time).

Note: Both the initial posts and responses/engagements are graded.

Weekly Quizzes: To further promote preparation and participation, students will take a short online quiz (via Canvas), available between the Monday and Wednesday sessions, surveying their knowledge of the weekly reading assignments and the assigned Afropop radio program, which will be published to the weekly Canvas class module the week prior, no later than Friday at 11:59pm. Students will take a total of ten quizzes during the semester. Each quiz will have five questions and be worth five points. (50 points = 10% of the overall grade.) Students will have 15 minutes (no longer) to take the quiz, and the quiz must be taken in one sitting—so plan accordingly.

Note: There are no make-ups if you miss a quiz during the allotted two-day period.

Article Worksheet and Presentation: We will discuss two academic texts each week, which will provide important context, detail, and perspective on the various African music cultures under consideration. Every student will be asked to present the structure, content, and ideas of one of these articles to the class. Presentations will be given in groups of two and should not exceed 20 minutes. The day prior to their presentation (Sunday or Tuesday), students will be asked to complete and submit a "reading academic articles" worksheet (available on the Carmen Canvas course page), which walks you through how academic texts structure, present, and situate their research. Students are encouraged to use this worksheet to structure and guide their article presentation in class.

Note: Worksheets are only due on the weeks when you present an article to the class. Everyone must complete a worksheet, even if they are presenting with a partner.

Listening/Viewing: Each week, we will carefully study several (5-6) pieces of music. These are listed on the Carmen Canvas module for each week. Please [come to class on] Monday having listened to (and, in the case of music videos, viewed) these selections at least once. We will also listen to an episode from the Afropop Worldwide “Hip Deep” archive before Monday’s class. Treat these episodes as essential “readings,” as they provide important contextual and sonic information for the music cultures we will encounter. Afropop episodes will also reinforce our weekly listening practices, as they include many musical examples and references for further listening.

Note: Content from the Afropop programs will appear on the weekly quizzes.

Midterm Essay: At the midterm, students will submit a 1000-word (approximately 4 double-spaced pages, Times New Roman, 12 pt. font) album review essay. Examples of such writing can be found on the Afropop website (<http://afropop.org/articles/reviews>). Students may choose an album that reflects one of the music cultures or artists we have studied in class, or an African artist not included on the syllabus. A few weeks prior to the due date (Week 5), I will ask students to briefly explain 1) which album they will review and 2) why they have chosen this album.

Note: Midterm review essays are due at the end of Week 8, on Friday 16 October

Final Project: There are three options for the final project:

1. Artist Biography: Students will research and prepare an in-depth report on a significant African popular musician (past or present). The essay should be approximately 6 pages in length (or roughly 1500 words). Essays should include the following details: 1) the social, cultural, and/or familial background of the artist. (Where do they come from? What did their path to musicianship look like? How do their socio-cultural roots pertain to their artistic practice?); 2) significant milestones in their professional career (including, for example, major concert events, recordings, controversies, achievements, etc.); 3) a discussion of the musical genres, forms, and styles they practice (What characterizes and distinguishes their particular sound as an artist?); and 4) a reflection on their impact as an artist (musically, socially, politically, etc.) in their country/society of origin, Africa, and the world. A good biographical report is one that incorporates these four elements in a composition that is cogent and concise.

2. Musical recording, with liner notes: Students will arrange/compose and record an “Afropop” track, inspired by one of the genres we have encountered in class. Recordings should be no less than 2 minutes in length, but no more than 5 minutes. The recordings can be audio-only, or audio-visual. (If you want to make a music video, all the better!) Accompanying the recording, students will submit a 500-word liner note to accompany the track. The liner note will include information about 1) the musical genre, 2) the socio-cultural context to which the music belongs (in Africa and/or its Diaspora), and 3) the distinctive musical features of the piece (form, style, instrumentation, etc.).
3. Podcast: Students will produce and record their own Afropop radio program! Programs should present an African music culture or genre not addressed in this class. They should include at least three musical examples (recordings), accompanied by spoken framing narratives that address and elucidate 1) the kind(s) of music presented in the program, 2) the socio-cultural, geographic, and historical context(s) of this music, 3) commentary on particular artists and their status and identity in contemporary Africa, and 4) recommendations for further listening. Podcasts should be submitted as edited audio-recordings. These will be between 30-40 minutes in length—no more, no less.

Students will present their final project to the class at the end of the semester, during Weeks 14 and 15. Presentations should not exceed 4 minutes, to allow for a few (2-3) minutes of questions and discussion afterwards; as such, students will only have time to present one or two aspects of their final projects—not the whole thing! For the presentation, students are allowed to show one slide (an image, short audio or video link, or text, which I will share via the screen sharing function on Zoom), which they may use as a “talking point.” Students who write an artist biography might include a portrait of the artist alongside a notable quote or list biographical facts. Students who make a musical recording might have an image from the recording session, or an audio sample from one of the tracks. Students who produce a podcast might share an excerpt from their program, or an image or audio-visual excerpt from the music culture you discuss. Final project slides are due Week 13.

Note: Final project abstracts are due on Friday, 6 November; final projects are due on Monday, 7 December.

ATTENDANCE POLICY

Attendance is required and expected. I will register attendance on Carmen Canvas at the beginning of class and note late arrivals. All absences or late arrivals must be cleared with the instructor in advance or, in the case of a medical emergency, be accounted for in writing after the fact. Absences and lateness will be assessed on a percentage basis. Thus, three unexcused absences will amount to a 10% reduction in your attendance grade. An unexcused late arrival will count as 80% of attendance on a given day.

ACCESSING READING, LISTENING, AND VIEWING ASSIGNMENTS

All readings for this class are accessible via online databases available through the OSU library system. To facilitate access, links to digital copies of book chapters, encyclopedia entries, and articles will be posted to the Carmen/Canvas course page as downloadable PDF documents. All listening examples are freely and publicly available online. Links to listening examples are provided in the syllabus and will be posted to the Carmen Canvas course page. Films and documentaries are also available via the OSU library and public social media site (like YouTube). Links to these will also be posted on Carmen Canvas.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES:

LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

The Ohio State University would not exist without the land that we have used to meet for over 150 years. Though we are meeting virtually for this course, the University acknowledges that its campuses have long served as sites of meeting and exchange for Indigenous peoples, including those in historical times known as the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe and Cherokee peoples. Specifically, the University resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greenville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830.

We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical contexts that have and continue to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land.

DIVERSITY

The Ohio State University affirms the importance and value of diversity in the student body. Our programs and curricula reflect our multicultural society and global economy and seek to provide opportunities for students to learn more about persons who are different from them. We are committed to maintaining a community that recognizes and values the inherent worth and dignity of every person; fosters sensitivity, understanding, and mutual respect among each member of our community; and encourages each individual to strive to reach his or her own potential. Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

CLASS GRIEVANCES

According to University Policies, if you have a problem with this class, you should seek to resolve the grievance concerning a grade or academic practice by speaking first with the instructor or professor. Then, if necessary, take your case to the department chairperson, college dean or associate dean, and to the provost, in that order. Specific procedures are outlined in Faculty Rule 3335-7-23.

DISABILITY SERVICES

The university strives to maintain a healthy and accessible environment to support student learning in and out of the classroom. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic, or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion.

If you are isolating while waiting for a COVID-19 test result, please let me know immediately. Those testing positive for COVID-19 should refer to the Safe and Healthy Buckeyes site for resources. Beyond five days of the required COVID-19 isolation period, I may rely on Student Life Disability Services to establish further reasonable accommodations. You can connect with them at slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; or slds.osu.edu.

RELIGIOUS ACCOMMODATIONS

It is Ohio State's policy to reasonably accommodate the sincerely held religious beliefs and practices of all students. The policy permits a student to be absent for up to three days each academic semester for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief.

Students planning to use religious beliefs or practices accommodations for course requirements must inform the instructor in writing no later than 14 days after the course begins. The instructor is then responsible for scheduling an alternative time and date for the course requirement, which may be before or after the original time and date of the course requirement. These alternative accommodations will remain confidential. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all course assignments are completed.

MENTAL HEALTH

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkun Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Sexual Misconduct/Relationship Violence (TITLE IX)

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator, Kellie Brennan, at titleix@osu.edu.

GE Foundation Courses

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Foundations provide introductory or foundational coverage of the subject of that category. Additionally, each course must meet a set of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO). Courses may be accepted into more than one Foundation, but ELOs for each Foundation must be met. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

This form contains sections outlining the ELOs of each Foundation category. You can navigate between them using the Bookmarks function in Acrobat. Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class meets the ELOs of the Foundation(s) to which it applies. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. Please be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc. Your answers will be evaluated in conjunction with the syllabus submitted for the course.

Accessibility

If you have a disability and have trouble accessing this document or need to receive the document in another format, please reach out to Meg Daly at daly.66@osu.edu or call 614-247-8412.
