Course description

In English 2367.06, you will develop and refine your skills in analysis, research, and writing. This 3-credit hour course emphasizes persuasive and researched writing, revision, and writing in various forms and media. In addition, you will build upon and improve your mastery of academic writing with and from sources; refine your ability to synthesize information; create arguments about a variety of discursive, visual, and/or cultural artifacts; and become more proficient with and sophisticated in your research strategies and employment of the conventions of standard academic discourses.

Throughout this course, we will analyze representations of disability in pop culture, moving through genres such as music videos, film and television, comics, documentaries, short stories, and essays. We will ask questions about authorship, audience, intent, composition, and meaning. We will consider issues of body autonomy, accessibility, assistive technologies; how scientific, political, and activist discourses offer conflicting framings of disability; and how the ways we communicate about disability rhetorically shape the lives of disabled people. Finally, this course will require us to think beyond the binary of “good” representations and “bad” representations to rhetorically analyze each text; that is, to ask “what is this text trying to persuade me to believe, and how?” and “what is the effect of thinking about disability, ourselves, and the larger world in this way?”

Course expected learning outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

- Analyze representations of disability in pop culture through genres such as music videos, film and television, comics, documentaries, short stories, and essays.
- Write academically at an advanced level about disability in relation to its historical and cultural contexts.
- Locate and identify relevant secondary source material, interrogate its credibility, and utilize it effectively in their own writing.

General education goals and expected learning outcomes

As part of the Theme: Health and Wellbeing category of the General Education curriculum, this course is designed to prepare students to be able to do the following:

- Successful students will analyze health and well-being at a more advanced and deeper level than in the Foundations component.
- Engage in critical and logical thinking about the topic or idea of health and well-being.
- Engage in an advanced, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the topic or idea of health and well-being.
- Successful students will integrate approaches to health and well-being by making connections to out-of-classroom experiences with academic knowledge or across disciplines and/or to work they have done in previous classes and that they anticipate doing in future.
- Identify, describe and synthesize approaches or experiences as they apply to health and well-being.
- Demonstrate a developing sense of self as a learner through reflection, self-assessment and creative work, building on prior experiences to respond to new and challenging contexts.
- Students will explore and analyze health and well-being through attention to at least two dimensions of well-being. (e.g., physical, mental, emotional, career, environmental, spiritual, intellectual, creative, financial, etc.)
- Explore and analyze health and well-being from theoretical, socio-economic, scientific, historical, cultural, technological, policy and/or personal perspectives.
- Identify, reflect on, or apply strategies for promoting health and well-being.

As a Health and Wellbeing course, English 2367.06 helps students attain a deeper understanding of how their reading/research/writing practices can better position them to engage in nuanced conversations about disability within their personal, professional, and scholarly lives. To do so, this course asks students to critically examine writing about disability from a variety of genres, and to use their findings to produce creative, scholarly, and professional documents appealing to multiple audiences and rhetorical situations. Among the genres students may engage with are academic book chapters, personal essays, documentaries, music, film, and comic books, etc. Furthermore, students will produce writing in genres such as reflective journals, academic essays, accessibility audits, captions, audio and image descriptions, and more.

How this online course works

Mode of delivery

This course is considered an online, asynchronous class, meaning it is 100% online. There are no required sessions when you must be logged in to Carmen or Zoom at a scheduled time.

Pace of online activities

The online nature of this course means that you will complete a variety of activities each week: Posting to discussion forums, taking online quizzes, viewing lectures online, and/or reading and responding to the textbook. Carmen serves as our course content site, providing you access to our syllabus, all course assignments, instructional videos, links to readings, and weekly checklists. Our Carmen site and course structure will be organized in weekly modules, outlined on the schedule at the end of this syllabus. For more detailed information on and specific requirements for each week's materials and assignments, see the "Weekly Summary" pages at the top of each module.

Credit hours and work expectations

This is a 3-credit-hour course. According to Ohio State policy (go.osu.edu/credithours), students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction (instructor content and Carmen activities, for example) in addition to 6 hours of homework (reading and assignment preparation, for example) to receive a grade of (C) average.

Participation requirements

Because this is an online course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of students' expected participation:

Participating in online activities

Log in at least three times per week. To engage adequately with the course material, be sure you are logging in to the course in Carmen several times each week to work your way through the weekly modules at a steady pace, including weeks with holidays or weeks with minimal online course activity. If you have a situation that might cause you to miss an entire week of class, discuss it with your instructor as soon as possible.

Post to discussion forums at least three times per week. As your participation grade, each week you can expect to post at least three times (preferably more) to our Carmen discussion boards as part of our substantive class discussion on the week's topics. The topics will change weekly, but your posts should average 150-200 words each and will be evaluated by: demonstrating familiarity with the course material; showing engagement, effort, and critical analysis in response to the topic; and using appropriate academic writing conventions (citing sources, topic sentences for paragraphs, complete sentences, etc.). See deadlines in assignment descriptions below.

Office hours and live sessions (optional)

All live, scheduled events for the course, including my office hours, are optional. Live presentations will be recorded and made available on Carmen. Office hour appointments will be schedule via Zoom on an individual, as-needed basis.

Course communication guidelines

Because this course is online and asynchronous, your communication with your instructor and peers will be fully online. Reach out to me by email any time with questions about your grades, your assignments, the course in general, or any other questions or concerns that arise. We can schedule a Zoom meeting if you'd like to discuss anything in more detail. Respond to the weekly discussion boards with questions about that specific week's material or assignments. Respond to your peers' thoughts and questions about the course material via the weekly discussion board and introduce yourself to your peers or ask questions about non-course-related topics on the Q&A board.

Tone and civility

Keep in mind that while our communication for this course is online, it is not anonymous, and all communications should adhere to our classroom's mutual respect policy. We are all tasked with building an atmosphere of learning that respects and appreciates the range of beliefs and identities that compromises our online classroom. While it is acceptable and expected that we may disagree with one another, all debate and discussion should be conducted in a civil and mutually respectful manner. This means: reading your peers' posts with consideration and care; expressing disagreements thoughtfully by anchoring your posts in the course material and avoiding aggressive language; using "I" statements rather than "you" statements; and maintaining personal and professional confidentiality. I reserve the right to temporarily or permanently hide any discussion posts that violate this policy, at which time I will reach out to discuss the situation with you further.

Writing style

As this is an advanced writing course, you should aim to adhere to the standards of academic writing in all your written assignments and communications. We will discuss what I mean by "academic writing" further in our first module, but some basic rules are: avoid "chatspeak"; write in complete sentences with appropriate punctuation; capitalize proper nouns and first words of sentences; italicize or put into quotation marks the titles of texts; and use appropriate citations for outside sources (as described below). Your writing style will factor into your grade for your discussion posts and formal written assignments.

Citing your sources

As per the plagiarism policy implemented by the University, all work that is not your own should be cited. This includes direct quotations, partial quotations, quotations with their phrasing changed, ideas borrowed from or inspired by other works, etc. For your formal written assignments you will be asked to provide an MLA- or APA-formatted Works Cited page and use appropriate in-text citations. For your discussion posts, if using one of our course texts provide the author name and page number as an in-text citation, and if using an outside text provide the author name and page number as an in-text citation AND include a link to the source (if online) or complete bibliographic information for the source (if in print). We'll discuss MLA citation styles and in-text citations more in our first module.

Protecting and saving your work

Though the majority of your writing will be posted to Carmen, consider writing out your work first in another word processing tool, like Word. That way you can save incomplete work in the event that you lose internet connection or accidentally refresh a webpage, and you have access to more complex spelling and grammar checkers than the typical webpage provides.

Technology skills needed for this course

- Basic computer and web-browsing skills
- Navigating Carmen (go.osu.edu/canvasstudent)
- CarmenZoom virtual meetings (go.osu.edu/zoom-meetings)

Required Equipment

- Computer: current Mac (MacOs) or PC (Windows 10) with high-speed internet connection
- Webcam: built-in or external webcam, fully installed and tested
- Microphone: built-in laptop or tablet mic or external microphone
- Other: a mobile device (smartphone or tablet) to use for BuckeyePass authentication

Required software

- Microsoft Office 365: All Ohio State students are now eligible for free Microsoft Office 365. Full instructions for downloading and installation can be found at go.osu.edu/office365help.

Carmen Access

You will need to use BuckeyePass (buckeyepass.osu.edu) multi-factor authentication to access your courses in Carmen. To ensure that you are able to connect to Carmen at all times, it is recommended that you take the following steps:

- Register multiple devices in case something happens to your primary device. Visit the BuckeyePass
- Request passcodes to keep as a backup authentication option. When you see the Duo login screen on your computer, click Enter a Passcode and then click the Text me new codes button that appears. This will text you ten passcodes good for 365 days that can each be used once.
- Download the Duo Mobile application to all of your registered devices for the ability to generate one-time codes in the event that you lose cell, data, or Wi-Fi service

If none of these options will meet the needs of your situation, you can contact the IT Service Desk at 614-688-4357(HELP) and IT support staff will work out a solution with you.

Description of major course assignments

See Carmen for more detailed assignment descriptions, templates, and other resources.

Discussion Posts (20%)

- Description: Each week, post at least three times to our Carmen discussion boards as part of our substantive class discussion on the week's topics. The topics will change weekly, but your posts should average 150-200 words each and will be evaluated by: demonstrating familiarity with the course material; showing engagement, effort, and critical analysis in response to the topic; and using appropriate academic writing conventions (citing sources, topic sentences for paragraphs, complete sentences, etc.). Your posts for each week should include at least one original post and one reply to a peer. Your original post is due each Monday no later than 9 a.m., and your reply to a classmate's post should be posted no later than each Wednesday by 11:59 a.m. Your third weekly post can be an original post or reply to another classmate's post and should be posted on Wednesdays by 11:59 a.m.
- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: Though discussion posts are less formal than your other writing assignments for this course, you will still be expected to adhere to the citation guidelines for the course (above) and to generate your own original content. Even when responding to or agreeing with peers, do not simply copy or repeat their ideas, but continue the conversation by adding your own ideas or opinions and credit their ideas when you reference or build off them.

Composing Accessibility Project (15%)

- Description: In order to explore the relationship of writing to disability, technology and accessibility, you will complete a Captioning/Audio Description and Image Description activity as well as a Website/App Accessibility Audit. This will involve captioning a 5-10 minute video of your choosing with subtitles and writing an audio/image description for the video. You will then select an app or website and write a 1 page accessibility audit, describing the ways it is and is not appropriately accessible for a range of disabilities. After these activities you will write a 2-3 page reflection paper on what you considered and prioritized while undertaking these tasks, what choices you made and why, and what difficulties you encountered.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: This project will be individual and should not be completed in collaboration with any peers. All work should be original without consulting outside sources. If your reflection paper makes use of the theories discussed in our course materials, cite them according to MLA style guides. Your reflection paper will go through Carmen's plagiarism checker upon submission.

Final Project: Proposal (15%)

- Description: As the first step of your final project you will complete a 3 page proposal outlining the topic you plan to consider and how you would like to approach it. You will also annotate at least 4 sources you are considering using for your final project. With my feedback and approval, you will move from your proposal to drafting your final project.
- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: This project will be individual and should not be completed in collaboration with any peers. Use of outside sources should adhere to the course citation guidelines (above). Your proposal will go through Carmen's plagiarism checker upon submission.

Final Project: Draft (5%)

- Description: As part of our course's focus on revision, you will submit a draft of your final project to review on your own, with me, and with your peers. While your draft does not have to be (and should not be) the final version of your project, it should demonstrate significant effort towards researching and composing a complete project. After submitting your draft, you will attend a one-on-one conference with me at a time of your choosing to discuss your project.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: This project will be individual and should not be completed in collaboration with any peers. Use of outside sources should adhere to the course citation guidelines (above). Be prepared to have your draft shared with your peers as part of the following week's peer review assignment. Any written elements of your draft will go through Carmen's plagiarism checker upon submission.

Final Project: Peer Review of Draft (10%)

- Description: You will read and respond to two of your peers' drafts of their final project. Your response should provide substantive feedback with both positive and critical comments, giving your peer ways to improve and suggestions for further research. Your response should total at least 300 words. I will assign peer groups of three (so that each writer receives feedback from multiple readers); you will respond to the two writers in your peer group, and they will respond to your draft.
- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: While you are responding to your peers, you are tasked with confidentiality. Do not share your peers' work or ideas with others or use them in your own work without crediting your peer. Your response to your peer should be your original work, not in collaboration with anyone else or using any outside sources.

Final Project: Presentation of Research (10%)

- Description: You will post a 5-minute presentation of your research for your final project to the Presentation Discussion Board. Your presentation should concisely summarize your work so far, what your plans are for your final project, and any questions you have about how you should move forward. Your presentation should include a visual element like a PowerPoint and a voiceover of some kind. Make sure links to your projects are accessible by your peers. You will also be responsible for viewing your peers' presentations and responding to at least 4 of them with substantive comments and/or answers to their questions.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: This project will be individual and should not be completed in collaboration with any peers. Use of outside sources should adhere to the course citation guidelines (above).

Final Project: Final Draft (25%)

- Description: For your final project, you will demonstrate your understanding of two of the keywords of disability theory. You will use your skills gained in rhetoric, writing and research to show how these keywords are used as lens to construct and deconstruct disability representations. The final project should be 7-10 pages of academic writing or a multimodal project of equivalent substantive work.
- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines: This project will be individual and should not be completed in collaboration with any peers outside of your discussions with them during the peer review process. Use of outside sources should adhere to the course citation guidelines (above). Any written elements of your project will go through Carmen's plagiarism checker upon submission.

Late assignments

Assignments should be posted to Carmen by the listed due day and time. You are responsible for checking your submission and making sure it has properly uploaded and is accessible. Late work will result in a drop of one full letter grade (for example, from B to C or A- to B-) for that assignment for each full day late. If for any reason you see yourself unable to meet a deadline, contact me at least 24 hours in advance (except in the case of emergencies), and I will work with you to get your work completed once you're able.

Grading Scale

- 93-100: A
- 90-92: A-
- 87-89: B+
- 83-86: B
- 80-82: B-
- 77-79: C+
- 73-76: C
- 70-72: C-
- 67-69: D+
- 60-66: D
- Under 60: E

Instructor feedback and response time

Every written assignment you submit (with the exception of your discussion posts) will receive extensive feedback via Carmen. The goal of my feedback is to help you improve, not criticize you or make you feel you've done poorly. I will never take points off for things that are not included in the resources on Carmen, the course books, or my feedback on your previous work. With that said, if I have to leave the same comment on more than one of your assignments, I will take more points off each time. Look for both annotated feedback within your document and general comments in the comment box. You will receive a percentage grade out of 100% for each assignment.

Grading and feedback

For every assignment in this course, you can expect your grade and feedback within 7 business days. Shorter assignments like your proposal and presentation will get feedback within 3 business days, while longer assignments like your final draft of your final project will take the full 7.

Preferred contact method

If you have any questions or concerns about your grades or any comments left on your work, please reach out to me via email. You can expect to hear back within 1 business day.

Academic policies

Academic integrity policy

See Descriptions of major course assignments, above, for my specific guidelines about collaboration and academic integrity in the context of this online class.

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct: <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>.

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university’s Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university.

If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Other sources of information on academic misconduct (integrity) to which you can refer include:

- Committee on Academic Misconduct web page (go.osu.edu/coam)
- Ten Suggestions for Preserving Academic Integrity (go.osu.edu/ten-suggestions)

Copyright for instructional materials

The materials used in connection with this course may be subject to copyright protection and are only for the use of students officially enrolled in the course for the educational purposes associated with the course. Copyright law must be considered before copying, retaining, or disseminating materials outside of the course.

Religious observance statement

It is Ohio State's policy to reasonably accommodate the sincerely held religious beliefs and practices of all students. The policy permits a student to be absent for up to three days each academic semester for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief. Students planning to use religious beliefs or practices accommodations for course requirements must inform the instructor in writing no later than 14 days after the course begins. The instructor is then responsible for scheduling an alternative time and date for the course requirement, which may be before or after the original time and date of the course requirement. These alternative accommodations will remain confidential. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all course assignments are completed.

Statement on title IX

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu

Commitment to a diverse and inclusive learning environment

The Ohio State University affirms the importance and value of diversity in the student body. Our programs and curricula reflect our multicultural society and global economy and seek to provide opportunities for students to learn more about persons who are different from them. We are committed to maintaining a community that recognizes and values the inherent worth and dignity of every person; fosters sensitivity, understanding, and mutual respect among each member of our community; and encourages each individual to strive to reach his or her own potential. Discrimination against any individual based upon protected status, which is defined as age, color, disability, gender identity or expression, national origin, race, religion, sex, sexual orientation, or veteran status, is prohibited.

Land acknowledgement

We would like to acknowledge the land that The Ohio State University occupies is the ancestral and contemporary territory of the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe and Cherokee peoples. Specifically, the university resides on land ceded in the 1795 Treaty of Greenville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. I/We want to honor the resiliency of these tribal nations and recognize the historical contexts that has and continues to affect the Indigenous peoples of this land.

More information on OSU's land acknowledgement can be found here: <https://mcc.osu.edu/about-us/land-acknowledgement>

Your mental health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Accessibility accommodations for students with disabilities

Requesting accommodations

The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. In light of the current pandemic, students seeking to request COVID-related accommodations may do so through the university's request process, managed by Student Life Disability Services. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; slds.osu.edu; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue.

Religious accommodations

Our inclusive environment allows for religious expression. Students requesting accommodations based on faith, religious or a spiritual belief system in regard to examinations, other academic requirements or absences, are required to provide the instructor with written notice of specific dates for which the student requests alternative accommodations at the earliest possible date. For more information about religious accommodations at Ohio State, visit odi.osu.edu/religious-accommodations.

COURSE SCHEDULE	11

Course Description

In English 2367.06, you will develop and refine your skills in analysis, research, and writing. This 3-credit hour course emphasizes persuasive and researched writing, revision, and writing in various forms and media. In addition, you will build upon and improve your mastery of academic writing with and from sources; refine your ability to synthesize information; create arguments about a variety of discursive, visual, and/or cultural artifacts; and become more proficient with and sophisticated in your research strategies and employment of the conventions of standard academic discourses.

Throughout this course, we will analyze representations of disability in pop culture, moving through genres such as music videos, film and television, comics, documentaries, short stories, and essays. We will ask questions about authorship, audience, intent, composition, and meaning. We will consider issues of body autonomy, accessibility, assistive technologies; how scientific, political, and activist discourses offer conflicting framings of disability; and how the ways we communicate about disability rhetorically shape the lives of disabled people. Finally, this course will require us to think beyond the binary of “good” representations and “bad” representations to rhetorically analyze each text; that is, to ask “what is this text trying to persuade me to believe, and how?” and “what is the effect of thinking about disability, ourselves, and the larger world in this way?”

Course Learning Outcomes

As a General Education course, this class meets the expected learning outcomes for the Health and Wellbeing (Theme) category.

Theme: Health and Wellbeing
Goals	Expected Learning Outcomes	Related Course Content
Goal 1: Successful students will analyze health and well-being at a more advanced and deeper level than in the Foundations component.	Successful students are able to... 1.1 Engage in critical and logical thinking about the topic or idea of health and well-being.	In this course, students will... 1.1 Engage in critical and logical thinking about disability within policy, medical texts, and pop culture representations. Examples texts: “Citizen” and “Eugenics” from Keyword for Disability Studies, “Code of the Freaks.”

	1.2 Engage in an advanced, in-depth, scholarly exploration of the topic or idea of health and well-being.	1.2 Undertake research projects, using primary and secondary sources, to attain an advanced understanding of specific aspects of disability. Example assignments: composing accessibility and final research project.
Goal 2: Successful students will integrate approaches to health and well-being by making connections to out-of-classroom experiences with academic knowledge or across disciplines and/or to work they have done in previous classes and that they anticipate doing in future.	2.1 Identify, describe and synthesize approaches or experiences as they apply to health and well-being.	2.1 Build upon previous knowledge and experiences with disability gained prior to the course by engaging with texts from various genres such as documentaries (“Fixed”), essays (“The Isolation of Being Deaf in Prison”), and music videos (“Catch Me”) that focus on nuanced experiences of disability. Example assignments: reflective journals and discussion board posts (prompt: what representations of disability have you noted in previous experiences in class and in various communities).
	2.2 Demonstrate a developing sense of self as a learner through reflection, self-assessment and creative work, building on prior experiences to respond to new and challenging contexts.	2.2 Use creative and scholarly writing as a tool for learning and reflecting on learning as they adapt research to a variety of rhetorical situations. Example assignments: study group work (weekly discussions and charter document), discussion board posts, and final project.

Goal 3: Students will explore and analyze health and well-being through attention to at least two dimensions of well-being. (e.g., physical, mental, emotional, career, environmental, spiritual, intellectual, creative, financial, etc.)	3.1 Explore and analyze health and well-being from theoretical, socio-economic, scientific, historical, cultural, technological, policy and/or personal perspectives.	3.1 Explore and analyze disability from theoretical, socio-economic, scientific, historical, cultural, technological, policy and/or personal perspectives using readings from Keywords for Disability Studies and Disability Visibility as well as projects such as the composing accessibility assignments and the final project. Take care to consider disability as both a physical and/or mental experience with material and emotional effects.
	3.2 Identify, reflect on, or apply strategies for promoting health and well-being.	3.2 Identify, reflect on, or apply strategies for promoting disability rights and disability justice. Example assignments: reflective journals, composing accessibility, and final project.

GE Theme: Health and Wellbeing

As a Health and Wellbeing course, English 2367.06 helps students attain a deeper understanding of how their reading/research/writing practices can better position them to engage in nuanced conversations about disability within their personal, professional, and scholarly lives. To do so, this course asks students to critically examine writing about disability from a variety of genres, and to use their findings to produce creative, scholarly, and professional documents appealing to multiple audiences and rhetorical situations. Among the genres students may engage with are academic book chapters, personal essays, documentaries, music, film, and comic books, etc. Furthermore, students will produce writing in genres such as reflective journals, academic essays, accessibility audits, captions, audio and image descriptions, and more.

Assignments and Grading

The following assignment descriptions are purposefully short; more details will be shared and discussed in class. You can also find more information on the Carmen Assignment pages. For final grade calculation purposes, the following scale will be used. Each letter will be calculated as the highest whole-number percentage in its given range, and the according number of points awarded. This course is out of a total of 100 points.

A 100% - 93%	A- < 93% - 90%	B+ < 90% - 87%
B < 87% - 83%	B- < 83% - 80%	C+ < 80% - 77%

C < 77% - 73%	C- < 73% - 70%	D+ < 70% - 67%
D < 67% - 60%	E < 60%

Discussion Posts (20 points): You are required to participate in 8/12 discussion boards as well as the initial introductions discussion board. Each discussion will contain different prompts based on the texts/media and assignments for the week. Make sure to post before class. Posts should be at least 300 words; you are free to write more than 300 words, but don't go under.

Study Group (12 points): At the beginning of the semester, you will be placed in a study group of 3-4 students. As a group, you should decide the best way to touch base each week, whether that be through group text, Google doc, emails or Zoom meetings. With these peers, you will complete short group assignments such as mind-mapping activities and flash presentations as well as weekly discussions focused on writing practices and revision. Additionally, there will be four brief check-in assignments due throughout the semester. Like with discussion boards, each check-in will have different prompts. For your first check-in, you will produce a charter document that will serve as your group's "road map" for the semester; in this document your group will outline personal as well as group goals and what you will do both individually and collectively to achieve these goals. Throughout the semester you will return to this document to perform accountability checks and to mark off accomplishments. This document will also help you to compose your remaining group check-ins.

Reflective Journals (20 points): At 5 points throughout the semester, you will write short informal journal entries (2-3 pages) in which you reflect on the readings from the class, your own learning, and any question you have. These reflections will be guided by prompts as well as your own topics of choice.

Composing Accessibility (18 points): In order to explore the relationship of writing to disability, technology and accessibility, you will complete a Captioning/Audio Description and Image Description activity as well as a Website/App Accessibility Audit.

Final Project (30 points): For your final project, you will demonstrate your understanding of two of the keywords of disability theory. You will use your skills gained in rhetoric, writing and research to show how these keywords are used as lens to construct and deconstruct disability representations. This scaffolded research project will consist of 5 parts:

- A one-page proposal outlining the goals, medium, and major thesis of the project with at least 3 secondary sources you will use to build your argument. I must approve your proposal before you can move forward with your project.
- A first draft of the project that follows the plan outlined in your approved proposal.
- A one-on-one conference with me in which we discuss your draft and continued plans for the project.
- A 5–7-minute multimodal presentation that presents a condensed version of your project to your peers. You will also use the presentation as an opportunity to get feedback from your peers.

- A final project that represents the culmination of your research and revision as well as the development of your understanding of the topic/thesis.

Statements and Resources

Course Statements and Resources

Academic Misconduct: Plagiarism is the unauthorized use of the words or ideas of another person. It is a serious academic offense that can result in referral to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. Please remember that at no point during the writing process should the work of others be presented as your own. It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct.

Attendance: I am always willing to make exceptions for circumstances comprising an excused absence. Excused absences will be granted to students who need to miss class or who are not able to participate or submit an assignment due to their physical or mental health, exposure to the coronavirus, care for people exposed to the coronavirus, personal emergencies, situations covered by Title IX, participation in athletic events, or any other reason who contact me to arrange for accommodation. More than three unexcused absences will result in the loss of 1/3 of a letter grade for each subsequent unexcused absence. It is your responsibility to contact me if you miss class or deadlines. Students requiring specific or long-term accommodation should seek support from appropriate university offices including but not limited to: Student Advocacy, Student Life Disability Services, and the Office of Institutional Equity.

Content Warning: At times throughout the semester, I may share some materials that might have some content that has the potential to upset you. I will make every effort to alert you to this by posting a content warning. My philosophy with content warnings is that we don't know each other's experiences and it's a good idea to give people a sense of what they're getting themselves into. When I post something with potentially upsetting content, I am not trying to exclude anyone. My hope in attaching a content warning is that you will still choose to engage with the material after mentally and emotionally preparing yourself. However, if you choose not to engage with that particular text, then I completely understand, and I won't hold it against you in any way. You and I can work together to find a substitute text that still fills the basic requirements of the reading/film/assignment.

COVID Policy: Ohio State continues to respond to changes in public health guidance. Ohio State's guidance on face masks was last updated April 19, 2022. Masks are optional in most settings on all Ohio State campuses, including general-purpose buildings, residence halls, dining facilities, classrooms, offices, the Ohio Union, and on public transportation. Masks are also optional outdoors. (Read guidance for individuals for specific circumstances) Masks are required in clinical health care settings (including at the Wexner Medical Center), COVID-19 testing locations and childcare centers. Public events, such as those that take place at the Schottenstein Center and the Covelli Center, are mask optional, effective March 8, 2022. Read more on the Safe and Healthy Buckeyes website.

Course Readings: For this course, you will need a copy of Lisa Ede's The Academic Writer: A Brief Rhetoric (5th ed.). You can find copies of this book at:

- Barnes + Noble: The Ohio State University Book Store
- Macmillan Learning
- Vital Source (eTextbook)
- Half-Priced Books (used copies)

Additionally, you will need a copy of Keywords for Disability Studies, edited by Rachel Adams, Benjamin Reiss, and David Serlin. You can find copies of this book at:

- Barnes + Noble: The Ohio State University Book Store
- NYU Press (here, selected essays are open-access)
- NYU Press (to purchase the full book)
- Half-Priced Books (used copies)

All other readings will be made available via Carmen. To view and read comics, you will need to download a free comic book reader. I recommend Simple Comic, though you may choose another program you're more comfortable with.

University Resources and Statements

Buckeye Food Alliance: While the university does its part to ensure students who live on campus have a meal plan, some of those students still lack reliable access to affordable, nutritious food. Anyone with a BuckID can use the pantry, which is located at Lincoln Tower, Suite 150, 1800 Cannon Drive, Columbus, OH, 43210. You can contact the pantry at (614) 688-2508 and learn more at their website: <https://www.buckeyefoodalliance.org/>.

Disability Statement: The University strives to make all learning experiences as accessible as possible. In light of the current pandemic, students seeking to request COVID-related accommodations may do so through the university's request process, managed by Student Life Disability Services. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion. SLDS contact information: slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; 098 Baker Hall, 113 W. 12th Avenue. In addition, if you have an undocumented disability, there is an open invitation to talk to me about how we can better accommodate your needs in the classroom. Sometimes there are barriers to acquiring official disability accommodations; I will do my best to accommodate you, regardless of official disability status.

Land Acknowledgement: The land that OSU was built on used to belong to the Shawnee, Potawatomi, Delaware, Miami, Peoria, Seneca, Wyandotte, Ojibwe and Cherokee peoples. OSU is on land ceded from the 1795 Treaty of Greeneville and the forced removal of tribes through the Indian Removal Act of 1830. If we are ever to fix the mistakes of the past, and if we are ever to help restore the power of self-determination to these harmed populations, we need to acknowledge that some wrong has been done here. Knowing history gives us much needed context, and it can be the beginning of greater compassion and advocacy. I honor and respect the diverse Indigenous peoples connected to this territory on which we gather. To learn more, you can read the English Department's webpage on Land Acknowledgements and Selena Mill's "What are Land Acknowledgements and Why Do They Matter?" You can also use this Native Land Map to learn who occupied the land you now live on.

Mental Health Services: As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614--292--5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614--292--5766 and 24-hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Research Tutors: If you need additional help with your research for this class, including finding articles, organizing your research, or citing your sources, you can visit the reference desk on the first floor of Thompson Library. You can also visit libanswers.osu.edu and use the contact information there to call, email, or chat with a reference team member (please let them know you are taking English 3030).

Student Advocacy Center is committed to helping students navigate Ohio State's structure and to resolving issues that they encounter at the university. Its purpose is to empower students to overcome obstacles to their growth both inside and outside the classroom, and to help them maximize their educational experience. The SAC is open Monday-Friday from 8:00 AM – 5:00 pm. You can visit them in person at 001 Drackett Tower, call at (614) 292-1111, email advocacy@osu.edu, or visit their website: <https://advocacy.osu.edu/>.

Student Legal Services: Student Legal Services provides confidential, legal advice and representation for a wide range of legal issues that Ohio State students typically encounter. Their services are free and cover the following areas of law: civil matters, criminal and traffic, and immigration. They are located at 20 E. 11th Ave and can be reached by phone at 614-247-5853. Visit their website <https://studentlegal.osu.edu/> to schedule an appointment.

Title IX: Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu.

Writing Center offers free help with writing at any stage of the writing process for any member of the university community. During our sessions, consultants can work with you on anything from research papers to lab reports, from dissertations to résumés, from proposals to application materials. Appointments are available in-person at 4120 Smith Lab, as well as for online sessions. You may schedule an in-person or online appointment by visiting WOnline or by calling 614-688-4291. You do not have to bring in a piece of writing in order to schedule a writing center appointment. Many students report that some of their most productive sessions entail simply talking through ideas.

Writing Program Student Concerns: If possible, students should first consult their instructor with course-related concerns. However, students who would like to discuss their concerns with someone other than their instructor have 3 options:

1. Consult your academic advisor and/or the student advocacy center.
2. Consult Writing Program Team/Course Directors. For ENG 3030, your contact is Dr. Beverly J. Moss (moss.1@osu.edu).
3. Consult the Director of Undergraduate Studies, Dr. Elizabeth Hewitt (hewitt.33@osu.edu).

Writing Program Student Concerns

[Image Description: "Writing Program Student Concerns" diagram. On the left is the question "Who can I talk to about a class concern that can't be resolved by meeting with my instructor?", and on the right there are 3 options: (1) academic advisor or student advocacy, (2) the writing program directors, or (3) the director of undergraduate studies.]

Younkin Success Center: The Younkin Success Center is a hub for all kinds of services, such as the Dennis Learning Center (DLC), Career Counseling and Support Services, University Center for the Advancement of Teaching (UCAT), Buckeye Careers, Student-Athlete Support Services Office (SASSO), and Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS). They also have free Tutoring Services, Veteran Tutoring Services, space reservations, commuter lockers, and student study spaces.

Course Schedule

The following calendar includes required readings and viewings. I recommend you take notes while you read/watch so that you are prepared for class and study group discussions. Make sure that you are always consulting this course calendar in addition to your Carmen calendar. As instructor, I reserve the right to make minor adjustments to this schedule; if I do, I will notify you of any changes made.

Distance Approval Cover Sheet

For Permanent DL/DH Approval | College of Arts and Sciences

Course Number and Title:

Carmen Use

When building your course, we recommend using the ASC Distance Learning Course Template for CarmenCanvas. For more on use of Carmen: Common Sense Best Practices.

A Carmen site will be created for the course, including a syllabus and gradebook at minimum.

If no, why not?

Syllabus

Proposed syllabus uses the ASC distance learning syllabus template, includes boilerplate language where required, as well as a clear description of the technical and academic support services offered, and how learners can obtain them.

Syllabus is consistent and is easy to understand from the student perspective.

Syllabus includes a schedule with dates and/or a description of what constitutes the beginning and end of a week or module.

If there are required synchronous sessions, the syllabus clearly states when they will happen and how to access them.

Additional comments (optional):

Instructor Presence

For more on instructor presence: About Online Instructor Presence.

Students should have opportunities for regular and substantive academic interactions with the course instructor. Some ways to achieve this objective:

Regular instructor communications with the class via announcements or weekly check-ins.

Instructional content, such as video, audio, or interactive lessons, that is visibly created or mediated by the instructor.

- Regular participation in class discussion, such as in Carmen discussions or synchronous sessions.
- Regular opportunities for students to receive personal instructor feedback on assignments.

Please comment on this dimension of the proposed course (or select/explain methods above):

Delivery Well-Suited to DL/DH Environment

Technology questions adapted from the Quality Matters rubric. For information about Ohio State learning technologies: Toolsets.

- The tools used in the course support the learning outcomes and competencies.
- Course tools promote learner engagement and active learning.
- Technologies required in the course are current and readily obtainable.
- Links are provided to privacy policies for all external tools required in the course.

Additional technology comments (optional):

Which components of this course are planned for synchronous delivery and which for asynchronous delivery? (For DH, address what is planned for in-person meetings as well.)

If you believe further explanation would be helpful, please comment on how course activities have been adjusted for distance learning (optional):

Workload Estimation

For more information about calculating online instruction time: ODEE Credit Hour Estimation.

- Course credit hours align with estimated average weekly time to complete the course successfully.
- Course includes direct (equivalent of “in-class”) and indirect (equivalent of “out-of-class”) instruction at a ratio of about 1:2.

Provide a brief outline of a typical course week, categorizing course activities and estimating the approximate time to complete them or participate:

- In the case of course delivery change requests, the course demonstrates comparable rigor in meeting course learning outcomes.

Accessibility

For more information or a further conversation, contact the accessibility coordinator for the College of Arts and Sciences. For tools and training on accessibility: Digital Accessibility Services.

- Instructor(s) teaching the course will have taken Digital Accessibility training (starting in 2022) and will ensure all course materials and activities meet requirements for diverse learners, including alternate means of accessing course materials when appropriate.
- Information is provided about the accessibility of all technologies required in the course. All third-party tools (tools without campus-wide license agreements) have their accessibility statements included.

Description of any anticipated accommodation requests and how they have been/will be addressed.

Additional comments (optional):

Academic Integrity

For more information: Academic Integrity.

- The course syllabus includes online-specific policies about academic integrity, including specific parameters for each major assignment:
- Assignments are designed to deter cheating and plagiarism and/or course technologies such as online proctoring or plagiarism check or other strategies are in place to deter cheating.

Additional comments (optional):

Frequent, Varied Assignments/Assessments

For more information: Designing Assessments for Students.

Student success in online courses is maximized when there are frequent, varied learning activities. Possible approaches:

- Opportunities for students to receive course information through a variety of different sources, including indirect sources, such as textbooks and lectures, and direct sources, such as scholarly resources and field observation.
- Variety of assignment formats to provide students with multiple means of demonstrating learning.
- Opportunities for students to apply course knowledge and skills to authentic, real-world tasks in assignments.

Comment briefly on the frequency and variety of assignment types and assessment approaches used in this course (or select methods above):

Community Building

For more information: Student Interaction Online.

Students engage more fully in courses when they have an opportunity to interact with their peers and feel they are part of a community of learners. Possible approaches:

- Opportunities for students to interact academically with classmates through regular class discussion or group assignments.
- Opportunities for students to interact socially with classmates, such as through video conference sessions or a course Q&A forum.
- Attention is paid to other ways to minimize transactional distance (psychological and communicative gaps between students and their peers, instructor, course content, and institution).

Please comment on this dimension of the proposed course (or select methods above):

Transparency and Metacognitive Explanations

For more information: Supporting Student Learning.

Students have successful, meaningful experiences when they understand how the components of a course connect together, when they have guidance on how to study, and when they are encouraged to take ownership of their learning. Possible approaches:

- Instructor explanations about the learning goals and overall design or organization of the course.
- Context or rationale to explain the purpose and relevance of major tasks and assignments.

- Guidance or resources for ancillary skills necessary to complete assignments, such as conducting library research or using technology tools.
- Opportunities for students to take ownership or leadership in their learning, such as by choosing topics of interest for an assignment or leading a group discussion or meeting.
- Opportunities for students to reflect on their learning process, including their goals, study strategies, and progress.
- Opportunities for students to provide feedback on the course.

Please comment on this dimension of the proposed course (or select methods above):

Additional Considerations
