Course Details

Course goals or learning objectives/outcomes

- Students are able to define race, ethnicity, and gender, and understand these both as malleable social formations (versus “natural” categories) and sites of distinct cultural expression in varied socio-historic contexts.
- Students are able to identify&discuss factors that contribute to shaping race, ethnicity, & gender as well as factors contributing to inequalities on those bases both historically&contemporaneously in varied disciplines & interdisciplinary locations.
- Students understand how the social and cultural formations of race, ethnicity, and gender matter at varied levels of society, and in cultural expression - literature, film, performance.
- Students can articulate how social formations of race, gender, ethnicity, might intersect with each other and/or with other social formations of sexuality and/or disability... (cont.)
- ..., and consider how this intersection matters in categories of disability, to produce or contribute to enduring social inequalities.
- Students explore possible solutions to the enduring inequalities of race, gender, ethnicity that are informed by their study and based on critical analysis of evidence generated by research (various methods for research acceptable).

Special Topics in Ethnic Studies: Latinx Performance and Popular Culture
Spring 2024

Instructor: Dr. Paloma Martínez-Cruz
Email: martinez-cruz.2@osu.edu
Hours of Instruction: 80 minutes / twice weekly
Location of Instruction: TBD
Office: Hagerty Hall 232
Instruction Schedule: TU & TH - Lecture

Course Description

This seminar focuses on Latinx performance and popular culture to learn about the live performances, unique traditions, and media depictions of various Latinx ethnic groups residing in the United States. The intent of this course is not only to sharpen critical thinking about the challenges and the prospects reflected by Latinx cultural production, but to hone the skills needed for students to become more accountable actors, rather than merely a spectators, in the hemispheric American condition.

This seminar contributes to the Latin American Cultural and Literary Studies and Latinx Literatures, Cultures, and Languages by promoting inquiry organized around the salient Latinx themes of national inclusion, sites of rupture, and the notion of representation as resistance. The weekly organization emphasizes the analysis of texts and cultural artifacts from a critical perspective that locates the examined work within political, economic, and social trajectories.

Objectives

- Write critical essays on performance, popular culture, and mediated Latinidad in the cultural context of the Americas
- Demonstrate awareness of the major socio-historic developments dealing with performance and popular culture in the hemispheric context
- Understand how everyday performativity alternately shapes, constrains, and transforms Latinx political prospects
- Apply consistent criteria to the analysis of cultural artifacts

Required Texts

Readings available on CarmenCanvas either in PDF format and/or through links provided on the course Carmen site and syllabus: <https://carmen.osu.edu/>.

Accessibility of course technology

This in-person course requires use of Carmen (Ohio State's learning management system) and other online communication and multimedia tools. If you need additional services to use these technologies, please request accommodations with your instructor.

Course Components and Grade Breakdown

ATTENDANCE, PARTICIPATION, PREPARATION (15%) Includes attendance, active class work, and preparation for each class. No more than three unexcused absences are permitted per semester. If you miss more than three classes without prior communication with the instructor, you will not receive a passing grade for this course. The use of cell phones and other electronic devices are strictly prohibited in class. Cell phone use of any kind in class constitutes an unexcused absence for that class session.

5 ANALYSIS ASSIGNMENTS (20%) Focus questions will be handed in on the day designated by an asterisk*. These questions will be typed, double- or 1.5-line spaced, and written and revised in Spanish. Typically, 3-5 sentence answers in short paragraph form will be sufficient to thoughtfully respond to the assigned focus questions. On days that there is NO asterisk* by your readings, you are still required to respond to assigned questions in your personal notes in order to be prepared for class. A significant part of your preparation grade is based on your contributions to class discussions based on the assigned texts.

DISCUSSION FACILITATOR (15%) Each student will lead one 15 minute discussion of the assigned text, which should include independent research on background information on the day's readings and/or screenings and the preparation of questions to promote class discussion.

GROUP PRESENTATION

Each group will create one live art installation on the theme of Latinx performance and popular culture as defined in class. The installations will be mounted either in a public or non-public space, and documented by the group members. Groups will create an audio-visual presentation on the installations (rather than installing live art in the classroom) of ten minutes in length.

Not everyone group member needs to perform IN the live art installation. Different members of the group must take on diverse responsibilities, such as designing the installation spaces and live art, documenting the process, and organizing the classroom presentation. Students will write an in-class self-evaluation detailing how they contributed to the installations, how they contributed to the group's efforts, and the critical connections they were able to make between this project and the goals of the course.

CRITICAL ESSAY (20%) A final research paper (2400 words) will deal with a cultural artifact engaging performance and/or popular culture in Latinx cultural production.

Grading Scale

This course will use the following grading scale.

A = 93 or above	C+ = 77 – 79
A- = 90 –92	C = 73 – 76

B+ = 87 – 89

B = 83 – 86

B- = 80 – 82

C- = 70 – 72

D = 60 – 69

E = 59 or less

Academic Misconduct

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct <http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>. Plagiarism, or using another person's words without proper citation, is absolutely not permitted in this class. For more information on plagiarism, consequences, and how to avoid it, consult the links under “Pages” on our course Canvas.

Disability Services

The university strives to maintain a healthy and accessible environment to support student learning in and out of the classroom. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic, or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodations, I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, make arrangements with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodations so that they may be implemented in a timely fashion.

If you are isolating while waiting for a COVID-19 test result, please let me know immediately. Those testing positive for COVID-19 should refer to the Safe and Healthy Buckeyes site for resources. Beyond five days of the required COVID-19 isolation period, I may rely on Student Life Disability Services to establish further reasonable accommodations. You can connect with them at slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; or slds.osu.edu.

Religious Accommodations

It is Ohio State's policy to reasonably accommodate the sincerely held religious beliefs and practices of all students. The policy permits a student to be absent for up to three days each academic semester for reasons of faith or religious or spiritual belief.

Students planning to use religious beliefs or practices accommodations for course requirements must inform the instructor in writing no later than 14 days after the course begins. The instructor is then responsible for scheduling an alternative time and date for the course requirement, which may be before or after the original time and date of the course requirement. These alternative accommodations will remain confidential. It is the student's responsibility to ensure that all course assignments are completed.

Mental Health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614--292--5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614--292--5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Sexual Misconduct/Relationship Violence

Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at <http://titleix.osu.edu> or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu.

I. Course description

More than five hundred years of image creation of the indigenous peoples of the Americas, a process initiated by European colonizers and spread throughout the world, has led to widespread distortions in the stories told about Native realities. In this course, we will explore representations of Native peoples in the cinema and popular cultures. Using social science texts and works of film criticism, we will examine feature films, documentaries, and other visual media and will explore the process of image creation. We will evaluate Hollywood images of Native peoples, other non-Native sources of Native representation, and decolonizing efforts from Native producers, artists, and communities. Critical attention will be given to the intersection of systems of nationhood, race/ethnicity, gender, and class within the context of image production.

II. Course objectives

A major goal of this course will be to understand the impact of the imposition of images upon Native peoples. How do these images affect public perception of Native peoples, and how has this shift affected Native communities?

By the end of the course, students will be able to:

- Identify the elements of film that create meaning.
- Understand the process of deliberate decision-making that results in the formation of a film or novel.
- Analyze film scenes in writing using visual, auditory, narrative, and other components.
- Analyze films for their historical, social, and ideological content.
- Generate analytical writing synthesizing scene-based evaluation, assessment of contextual issues surrounding the work, and scholarly arguments.
- Perform outside research to assist with film analysis.

III. Text and Supplementary Materials

Some of your assigned readings will be available in PDF form on Canvas. Films will be made available to you for viewing outside of class (method TBA).

You will also be required to obtain a copy of Native Features: Indigenous Films from Around the World by Houston Wood.

You will be expected to bring the day's readings with you to class, either in digital or hard copy, in a format that you can easily access.

IV. Reciprocal Expectations

As the course instructor, I have several expectations of you as a student in this class. I expect that you will attend all class sessions unless unusual circumstances prevent you from doing so, and I expect that you will arrive on time and stay for the duration of the class. I expect that you will give the class your full attention, and you will not use electronic devices in the classroom except for class-related activities such as note-taking or referring to course texts and/or Canvas. I expect that you will come to class prepared to discuss the assigned readings or viewing and will participate fully in class discussions. I expect that you will observe the "ground rules" we establish on the first day of class.

You may expect that I will be prepared to enthusiastically lead the class in discussions of the films and readings and will be prepared for each session. I will arrive at class on time each day and will stay for the duration of class. I will be available by appointment to meet with you. I will give the class my full attention while I am in the classroom. I will observe the "ground rules" we establish on the first day of class. I will use the classroom time for lectures using visual aids, class discussions, student presentations, and group activities. This syllabus may change, based on our progress throughout the course of the term. I welcome and appreciate your input and feedback at any point during the quarter.

V. Policies and Procedures

Attendance: Regular attendance is required. Your presence in class is necessary because it allows you to receive presented material, contribute to discussions, complete in-class activities, and engage in conversations with your classmates' presented work. If you must miss class because of a documented illness (doctor's note required) or athletic excuse (travel letter required), email me immediately. Not attending class, or coming late to class, always affects a student's ability to excel in a discussion-based class. If you anticipate that you must miss class during the quarter, please contact me. Because of the discussion- and presentation-based nature of this class, your presence will be an important part of your learning experience and grade.

We will be starting the class on time every session. Please do not be late. I expect you to stay for the entire class session.

Academic Misconduct: It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. VI. Assignments and Grading

1. Reading Response and Critical Analysis Journal (40%)

You are required to keep a journal with ten entries. Your journal entries must be 1½-2 pages in length, typed, double-spaced, and properly cited. All journals must be submitted via Canvas.

Your entries must include analysis of the films and/or readings for that week with proper references to these texts. You should feel free to include references to class discussions and your own research. Do not summarize the readings or films; your audience is your instructor, and you may assume that I have read the assigned readings and watched the films. Most important will be your in-depth analysis of what you read, view, and hear. Your response may be specific to the texts of that week, or you may synthesize information in response to a previous week's readings as well.

You will be required to submit these journal entries every two weeks so I can grade them and provide comments and suggestions for improvement. I will allow re-writes of two entries. You must contact me within a week of receiving your grade to request a re-write.

2. Presentation (15%): You will be responsible for a presentation of 20-25 minutes on a date and topic of your choosing; topics must relate to the unit of the course within which your presentation date falls. Sign-ups will take place on Canvas. Your presentation should not be just a summary of your findings but should critically analyze key points, themes, or issues. You may certainly show film clips during your presentation, but you must plan to speak for 20 minutes, and please keep your clips short and well-chosen. Please include two questions for class discussion.

3. Final Essay (30%): For your final writing assignment, you will craft a clearly articulated and properly cited essay, 6-7 pages in length, submitted via Canvas. Your essay will be graded on content, clarity, grammar, organization, and your engagement your source material. More details will follow.

4. Participation (15%):

This class relies on collaborative discourse in order to create an environment in which all participants have a stake in the creation of knowledge. For this reason, being prepared to participate in discussions is a course requirement. Staying current with the Reading Response and Critical Analysis Journals will help prepare you for class discussions. It will also be important to bring your copy of the readings to class every day. Since we will be engaged in discussions of the texts we read, if you don't have them with you, you will be limited in your ability to discuss them.

Prepare for discussions by bringing questions, approaching the work with a sense of curiosity. You are encouraged to bring your own analysis to the texts, even if it means that your interpretation differs from those of the instructor or classmates, as long as all claims are grounded in evidence. While your classmates are presenting, take notes, offer comments, and ask questions. If you feel that speaking up in class will be a challenge for you, please talk to me so that we can figure out a way for you to participate in class.

You will receive a daily score for your participation in that class.

Full 5 points: You arrive on time, remain for the entire class period, give the class your full attention (no use of electronic devices for purposes other than note-taking and related activities), actively listen to peers and instructor, and make meaningful contributions to the class discussion.

Actions that can lead to point deductions:

- Limited or no contributions to class discussions
- Inattentiveness to discussions, lectures, and films
- Talking during films and while others are speaking
- Use of phone or other electronic device for unapproved purposes unrelated to the class
- Arriving late or leaving early without prior approval

Grading Scale: This course will use the standard College of Arts and Sciences grading scale.

A = 93 or above	C+ = 77 – 79
A- = 90 – 92	C = 73 – 76
B+ = 87 – 89	C- = 70 – 72
B = 83 – 86	D = 60 – 69
B- = 80 – 82	E = 59 or less

Subject: Concurrence Request for SPPO-Themed Sample Syllabus - ETHNSTD 5890: Special Topics in Ethnic Studies

Greetings Eugenia and Rachel!

I hope the new year is going well for both of you so far!

I write today as I received a bounce-back from ASC of a special topics request I had submitted some weeks back on behalf of Ethnic Studies. I hadn't realized that ASC would be looking for concurrences on the sample syllabi we had submitted for the course, since they may or may not ultimately be courses offered under the number, but apparently they are!

I attach the relevant syllabus in this case, which Paloma had relayed to us for submission. Would you please review and let us know of any follow-up questions or concerns you may have, or if concurrence is granted? In line with ASC practice, we will assume concurrence if there are no follow-ups by Wednesday, February 7.

Many thanks!

Nick

Subject: Ethnic Studies TFMA concurrence (ETHNSTD 5890)
Date: Friday, January 26, 2024 3:06:54 PM

Hello Nick,

Please see below for the department of Theatre, Film, and Media Arts' concurrence for ETHNSTD 5890. Two formal responses are below: one from TFMA chair E.J. Westlake; the other is a detailed response from Prof. Erica Levin, TFMA's area head for Film Studies.

We simply ask that language outlined in Prof. Levin's response is added to the syllabus for any version of this course that may include film or cinema as part of the course content or title. Please see Prof. Levin's response below, and feel free to reach out with any questions or concerns!

Thanks,
Paige

Subject: Re: Ethnic Studies concurrence request ETHNSTD 5890

The Department of Theatre, Film, and Media Arts, on behalf of the Film Studies Area, is happy to offer concurrence for ETHNSTD 5890, as well as the sample syllabus for "Ethnic Studies 5890 - Images of Natives in the Cinema and Popular Cultures."

We would like to request that for any version of this course that includes title, topic, or theme of "cinema," "film," or film and media studies related content, the instructor of record include a notation on their syllabus that states something to the effect of: "This course does not contribute to the Film Studies major or minor requirements." This will avoid any confusion by students in the film studies major or minor and clarify that despite film-related title and/or content of the course, it does not contribute to FILMSTD-BA or FILMSTD-MIN degree requirements.

Many thanks,
Erica
