Hello all,

We've just approved Speech & Hearing Science 3380 for the S designation. I wanted to follow up by providing the feedback our reviewers provided:

- “This is an excellently design course with a specific need in mind and addressed. I encourage you to reflect further on the “responsibilities” of the community partner(s). this process is not only necessary to ensure efficient and organized processes during the allotted time, but also reflects the reciprocal relationship we look to offer and encourage through these courses. Do they have any responsibility beyond providing the clients? Will they need to produce any documentation or communication for you? Just some things to consider. Great work! “
- “I think this course is well designed to meet a departmental and student need. It also addresses a community partner need; however, the identified community partner is a hub that connects to various community entities of very different makeup. This makes it a bit difficult for students to learn about and connect with any single community group with much depth. Since this is what they will likely experience in the profession, that may be fine, but it will mean the instructor may need to devote more time to combatting stereotypes that might come out in the reflections after the hearing screening events.”

As always, we're happy to provide continued support as you begin to offer and assess the course!

Thanks,
Claire
