Re: Studio Art Minor Program Sheet - Updates

March 22, 2024

Dear Assistant Dean for Curriculum Bernadette Vankeerbergen, Program Manager Rachel Steele, Information Specialist Deborah Hanlin, Curricular Deans of the College, and ASC Curriculum and Assessment Services–

The Department of Art is submitting a request for approval of an updated the Studio Art Minor program sheet. As requested, accompanying this letter I have included the Word Document showing the tracked changes and the final clean Word Document.

Rationale:

The Studio Art Minor had not been thoroughly assessed in several years, therefore many of the changes we are requesting fall under basic housekeeping: course numbers and titles have been checked, updated, and if needed, removed.

The Undergraduate Curriculum Committee also reviewed the Studio Art course offerings and found several needs:

- Art has a new Area, Film/Video.
- There are no Glass art courses in the current minor.
- Faculty requested including several courses not on the current sheet: Art 2200, 4101, 4400, 5202, 5502, 3104, 4014, 3009, 4009, 5009, 5019, 3003, 4503, 5903, 5007.
- Some areas had many course offerings, others very few.

The proposed changes address these needs: there are now courses offered in all eight areas in the department, in addition to our Art Foundations area, and we have worked with the Department of Art faculty to create a more even offering of four or five courses from each.

We have also reorganized the information on the Studio Art Minor sheet to help clarify our course offerings. The proposed sheet has alphabetized the areas of concentration, for example. These changes will assist in recruitment and retention of students for the Studio Art Minor and will provide students across the university with a clear pathway for course options.

We currently have 152 students in the Studio Art Minor, and in Autumn 2023 we had 146 students in the Studio Art Minor, an increase of 4%. The Studio Art Minor serves an incredibly diverse range of students across the University from a wide range of departments and fields of study, emblematic of the intersections within the College of Arts & Sciences. Through the revised Studio Art Minor program sheet, we hope to further increase our enrollment in the minor and better serve those that are already enrolled.

The UGC Committee in the Department of Art recognizes the ASC characteristics governing ASC minors. In addition, the included courses require few or no prerequisites. We do not foresee and need for concurrences from other units.

The Department recognizes that we are offering a lot of courses in our minor. This is to allow for maximum flexibility for our students, who come with a wide range of interests. Some of our students wish to take a more generalist approach, selecting courses from many areas, while others select to focus on a single area to achieve creative and technical depth. This proposed Studio Art Minor sheet allows students to take the courses according to their individual needs.

We would ideally like these changes implemented before our upcoming accreditation review with National Association of Schools of Art and Design (NASAD). We have been informed that the NASAD review will begin this Autumn 2024; however, we realize program changes take time and understand the approval process may be longer. If the changes have not been improved by then, we ask that we may present the proposal to the NASAD committee as being under review.

Thank you for your time and considering our proposal to updates to the Studio Art Minor program sheet.

Best,

Professor Gina Osterloh

It is the mission of the Department of Art to inspire and enable people to lead creative and intellectually flexible lives. The Minor in Art provides students with the opportunity to integrate creative and artistic studio practice with other academic or research pursuits. We recognize that students selecting the Minor in Art are not necessarily pursuing careers as professional practicing artists; rather they may be seeking a program of study where the visual arts and creativity bring desirable skills.

The minor in Art requires the completion of 15 semester credit hours, which consists of Art 2000 – Encountering Contemporary Art (3 credit hours) and 12 elective hours from the courses listed below, with no more than 9 credit hours below 3000.

Prerequisites:

Some courses require specific prerequisites that may require specific skills, training, or advanced instruction. Students should seek instructor permission for entry into these.
