Course Description

Slavery existed from the earliest history of civilization. However, the transatlantic slave trade—the oceanic trade that forced removal of Africans mainly to the Americas—was unprecedented in nature, scope, and arguably consequences. At every moment, Africans and their descendants provided stiff resistance to the conditions that "new world" slavery produced. This class will examine the history of slave uprisings in the Americas to explore how slavery was experienced, imagined, and contested by the enslaved. We will use primary and secondary written sources to delve deeper into the ideologies, tactics, and meanings of slave resistance. To this end, we will explore how race, gender, and class shaped the contours of slavery in the Americas and contests over its rise and perpetuation. In considering racial slavery from a hemispheric viewpoint, we will assess the extent to which geography influenced responses to slavery. Students will learn how to think productively about black resistance in the past and will apply their knowledge to contemporary fights for racial justice.

GE Theme: Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity

Course Learning Outcomes (CLOs):

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:

- 1. Think productively about slavery and slave resistance by interrogating the conditions that produced them.
- 2. Identify and describe the significance of important events, individuals, and ideas associated with resistance to transatlantic slavery.
- 3. Describe and assess different modes of resistance to transatlantic slavery.

- 4. Explain how different societies and social groups in Africa, Europe, and the Americas participated in and were shaped by the slave resistance.
- 5. Apply their knowledge to contemporary fights for racial justice.

GE Course Information

Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity Expected Learning Outcomes (ELOs)

GOAL 1: Successful students will engage in a systematic assessment of how historically and socially constructed categories of race, ethnicity, and gender, and possibly others, shape perceptions, individual outcomes, and broader societal, political, economic, and cultural systems.

Expected Learning Outcome 1.1: Successful students are able to describe and evaluate the social positions and representations of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity, and possibly others.

Expected Learning Outcome 1.2: Successful students are able to explain how categories including race, gender, and ethnicity continue to function within complex systems of power to impact individual lived experiences and broader societal issues.

Expected Learning Outcome 1.3: Successful students are able to analyze how the intersection of categories including race, gender, and ethnicity combine to shape lived experiences.

Expected Learning Outcome.1.4: Successful students are able to evaluate social and ethical implications of studying race, gender, and ethnicity.

GOAL 2: Successful students will recognize and compare a range of lived experiences of race, gender, and ethnicity.

Expected Learning Outcome 2.1: Successful students are able to demonstrate critical self-reflection and critique of their social positions and identities.

Expected Learning Outcome 2.2: Successful students are able to recognize how perceptions of difference shape one's own attitudes, beliefs, or behaviors.

Expected Learning Outcome 2.3: Successful students are able to describe how the categories of race, gender, and ethnicity influence the lived experiences of others.

GE Rationale: This course explores the broad theme of "Race, Ethnicity, and Gender" as it relates to the system of Atlantic slavery. Atlantic slavery produced interlocking levels of domination and privileges that were themselves configured by race, ethnicity, and gender. Resistance against slavery was also shaped by these salient categories. With these groupings of identities at the core of our explorations, the course demonstrates how systems of power and fights to change such systems shape the experience of all.

How This Course Works

Mode of Delivery: This course is 100% in person at a scheduled time and location. It requires use of Canvas for submitting assignments, quizzes, and discussion board.

Credit Hours and Work Expectations: This is a 3 credit-hour course. Students should expect around 3 hours per week of time spent on direct instruction in addition to 6 hours of homework to receive a grade of C average.

Course Materials

Required Book Purchases:

- 1. Frederick Douglas, Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass
- 2. Harriet Jacobs, Incidents in The Life of a Slave Girl

All other course materials such as syllabus, readings, handouts, notes, etc. can be found on the Canvas Learning Management System website: https://carmen.osu.edu/. You are responsible for accessing the course materials there.

Evaluation

Attendance and class participation: 20%

Weekly Reading Reflections: 10%

In Class Quizzes: 10%

Film Reflection Essay: 10% Group Presentation: 5% Argumentative Essay: 20%

Primary Document Assignments: (25%)

Proposal: 5% Analysis: 20%

Attendance: Students are expected to attend and actively participate in class. If you are sick or have a personal emergency that requires your absence from class, please provide the appropriate documentation.

Weekly Reading Reflections: Each week, students will post reading reflections (250-300 words) to a group discussion page or online discussion tool on CANVAS [e.g., by Sunday at 11:59p]. Reflections should include responses to 2 out of 3 questions:

- 1. What is the main point of the reading?
- 2. What information did you find surprising? Why?
- 3. What did you find confusing? Why?

Quizzes: In class assessments of themes and facts covered in class.

Film Reflections: Students will write two brief reflection pieces of 2 double-spaced pages (500 words) that demonstrate critical analysis of the films we screen in class. The goal is to think critically about how the films/documentary challenge or perpetuate stereotypes of the enslaved and/or critique social and political issues, especially those around issues of race, ethnicity, and gender.

*No weekly reading reflections during weeks Film Reflections are due.

Group Presentation: Each group of four students will give a 5-minute presentation on an organization working to address issues in Columbus, OH. Students will give an overview of the issue the organization seeks to address and the organization's ideas and efforts to effect change. Students will argue for the importance of the work being done by said organization.

Argumentative Essay: Write a paper of approximately 1500 words (six double-spaced pages) on the following: Historians sometimes make distinctions between individual acts of resistance that negated a slave owner's authority and collected acts of resistance that theoretically worked to abolish the slave system? Write an essay in which you agree or disagree with this dichotomy. In your analysis, be sure to consider how attention to race, gender, and/or ethnicity supports your position.

Primary Document Analysis Proposal and Essay: Students must write a 3000 words (twelve double-spaced pages) primary document analysis. Students may choose a primary source from a list provided by the professor or select a source on their own. Students must submit a proposal for their primary source analysis with an annotated bibliography, which may include up to 5 course readings and at least 1 book and 2 academic articles that are not on the syllabus.

Grading Rubric for Participation

- A You are consistently well prepared for class, actively listen to your peers and offer constructive critiques of their arguments; you actively participate in collaborative discussion and contribute thought-provoking insights to the class.
- B You are prepared for class and demonstrate thoughtful engagement with the material, peers, and me. This is commendable, but you could do more.
- You are inconsistent in your preparation for class and infrequently engaged with your peers and the instructor. Your intellectual contributions are minimal.
- D You attended class without participating
- E You were absent in mind, body, and spirit.

Grading Rubric for Papers

- A Signifies an excellent paper. It is exemplary, with little to no oversights in grammar, critical analysis, and clarity in writing.
- A- Signifies top-rate work, but certain areas within the paper need to be refined.
- B+ Signifies that the paper represents solid work. The paper stands out in terms of its thoughtfulness and level of engagement with the matter, but a few notable "problem areas."

- B/B- Signifies a competent work that is good. The paper meets the basic stipulations of the assignment and the argument presented is fairly clear with occasional oversight. Use of evidence is sufficient.
- C+/C Signifies a competent piece of work that is not yet good. Basic expectations and requirements are met, but significant sections should be revised to develop a more coherent paper. Use of evidence may be inadequate.
- C-/D/D- Signifies a piece of work that demonstrates some efforts on your part is too marred by technical problems or flaws in thinking or development of ideas to be considered competent work.
- E You did not meet any of the stipulations of the assignment or did not turn it in.

Grading Scale

Course Policies & Resources

Academic Integrity and Collaboration: Your written assignments, including discussion posts, should be your own original work. In formal assignments, you should follow Chicago style to cite the ideas and words of your research sources. You are encouraged to ask a trusted person to proofread your assignments before you turn them in but no one else should revise or rewrite your work.

Late Assignments: Please refer to Carmen and syllabus for due dates. Due dates are set to help you stay on pace and to allow timely feedback that will help you complete subsequent assignments.

Classroom Inclusivity: The classroom space represents an environment where individuals with different backgrounds, perspectives, and experiences come together to engage in the teaching and learning process. I am committing to fostering an atmosphere for learning that respects and honors diversity. I encourage you to share your unique experiences, values, and beliefs, while being respectful and open to the views of others that may differ from your own. I expect that you will communicate in a manner that is thoughtful, honors the uniqueness of your peers, and appreciates the opportunity to learn, engage, and be challenged by your colleagues and me. Our collective goal is to exemplify civil discourse with the hopes of engaging in the creative exchange of ideas.

Statement on Academic Misconduct: It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term "academic misconduct" includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct https://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/.

Statement about Disability Services: The university strives to maintain a healthy and accessible environment to support student learning in and out of the classroom. If you anticipate or experience academic barriers based on your disability (including mental health, chronic, or temporary medical conditions), please let me know immediately so that we can privately discuss options. To establish reasonable accommodation(s), I may request that you register with Student Life Disability Services. After registration, arrange with me as soon as possible to discuss your accommodation(s) so that they may be implemented promptly.

*If you are isolating while waiting for a COVID-19 test result, please let me know immediately. Those testing positive for COVID-19 should refer to the Safe and Healthy Buckeyes site for resources. Beyond five days of the required COVID-19 isolation period, I may rely on Student Life Disability Services to establish further reasonable accommodations. You can connect with them at slds@osu.edu; 614-292-3307; or slds.osu.edu.

Statement on Religious Accommodations: Ohio State has had a longstanding practice of making reasonable academic accommodations for students' religious beliefs and practices in accordance with applicable law. In 2023, Ohio State updated its practice to align with new state legislation. Under this new provision, students must be in early communication with their instructors regarding any known accommodation requests for religious beliefs and practices, providing notice of specific dates for which they request alternative accommodations within 14 days after the first instructional day of the course. Instructors in turn shall not question the sincerity of a student's religious or spiritual belief system in reviewing such requests and shall keep requests for accommodations confidential.

With sufficient notice, instructors will provide students with reasonable alternative accommodations with regard to examinations and other academic requirements with respect to students' sincerely held religious beliefs and practices by allowing up to three absences each semester for the student to attend or participate in religious activities. Examples of religious accommodations can include, but are not limited to, rescheduling an exam, altering the time of a student's presentation, allowing make-up assignments to substitute for missed class work, or flexibility in due dates or research responsibilities. If concerns arise about a requested accommodation, instructors are to consult their tenure initiating unit head for assistance.

A student's request for time off shall be provided if the student's sincerely held religious belief or practice severely affects the student's ability to take an exam or meet an academic requirement and the student has notified their instructor, in writing during the first 14 days after the course begins, of the date of each absence. Although students are required to provide notice within the first 14 days after a course begins, instructors are strongly encouraged to work with the student to provide a reasonable accommodation if a request is made outside the notice period. A student may not be penalized for an absence approved under this policy.

If students have questions or disputes related to academic accommodations, they should contact their course instructor, and then their department or college office. For questions or to report discrimination or harassment based on religion, individuals should contact the Office of Institutional Equity.

Statement on Harassment and Sexual Misconduct: Title IX makes it clear that violence and harassment based on sex and gender are Civil Rights offenses subject to the same kinds of accountability and the same kinds of support applied to offenses against other protected categories (e.g., race). If you or someone you know has been sexually harassed or assaulted, you may find the appropriate resources at http://titleix.osu.edu or by contacting the Ohio State Title IX Coordinator at titleix@osu.edu.

GE Foundation Courses

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Foundations provide introductory or foundational coverage of the subject of that category. Additionally, each course must meet a set of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO). Courses may be accepted into more than one Foundation, but ELOs for each Foundation must be met. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

This form contains sections outlining the ELOs of each Foundation category. You can navigate between them using the Bookmarks function in Acrobat. Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class meets the ELOs of the Foundation(s) to which it applies. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. Please be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc. Your answers will be evaluated in conjunction with the syllabus submitted for the course.

Accessibility

If you have a disability and have trouble accessing this document or need to receive the document in another format, please reach out to Meg Daly at daly.66@osu.edu or call 614-247-8412.

Hi Ryan,

I am on a study abroad trip, thus my delay in getting back to you more. My apologies.

However, History is eager to have this course offered, so we happily grant concurrence.

Best, Birgitte

Subject: Concurrence Request: "Resisting Slavery"

Dear Birgitte and Jen,

I hope this message finds you both well!

Shavagne Scott, who is a Provost's Postdoctoral Fellow (set to start a tenure track position in AU25), developed a new course for AAAS, titled "Resisting Slavery in the Americas" (provisionally AFAMAST 2090).

This is one of Dr. Scott's areas of expertise, so we are anxious to add the class to our undergraduate curriculum.

The course proposal has been developed for the Race, Ethnicity, and Gender Diversity GE Foundation, which is why we chose a 2000-level course number. (We chose "2090" so that the course would be proximate to the African American History courses, 2080 and 2081.)

I am writing to request concurrence from History for this course proposal. Please let us know if you have any questions or concerns about this course.

Many thanks,

Ryan

	Program Learning Goals
	Goal A: Demonstrate an understanding of the cultural, socio-political, and historical formations, connections, conditions, and transformations evident throughout the African and Black Diaspora.	Goal B: Identify, critique, and appreciate the intersections between race, class, gender, ethnicity, and sexuality from the historical and existential perspectives of African and African- descended peoples.	Goal C: Implement interdisciplinary research methods and methodological perspectives applicable to advanced study, community development, and public service.
