Course description

The United States of America and ancient Egypt can be considered two of the most powerful civilizations of the modern and ancient worlds. Despite being separated by thousands of years and ideological differences, each country has had a profound impact on the world. In this course, students will engage with how understanding civic literacy from different historical periods (modern United States and ancient Egypt) contributes to the flourishing of a society that promotes civic engagement with governments at local, regional, national, and international levels through lectures, online class discussions, and written assignments. This investigation will allow students to understand how concepts found in American historical documents compare with ancient Egyptian government and society and how understanding civic society is key to informed citizenship. Through the investigation of primary and secondary sources, students will reflect on how a modern democratic republic and an ancient theocratic monarchy share similar values and systems of administration. By the end of this class, students will be able to describe the framework of each governmental system, how the different types of governments can be identified in modern society, how each government influenced their country, and how governments respond to and manage societal issues.

Course expected learning outcomes

By the end of this course, students should successfully be able to:

1. Analyze ways in which ideals in the United States and ancient Egypt shaped each civilization through engagement with primary (in translation for ancient texts) and secondary (modern) sources.
2. Examine how different types of governments – e.g., democratic republic (United States) and theocratic monarchy (ancient Egypt) – approach ruling a country. Students will then interpret how these systems are still being used by contemporary administrations throughout the world and the impact they have on the people being governed.
3. Utilize critical and logical thinking through the examination of primary (in translation for ancient texts) and secondary sources to reflect on how the governments of the United States and ancient Egypt influenced their country throughout their histories.
4. Develop an understanding about how the governments of the United States and ancient Egypt respond(ed) to and manage(d) societal issues.

General education goals and expected learning outcomes

As part of the Foundation: Historical Studies category of the General Education curriculum, this course is designed to prepare students to be able to do the following:

Goals - Historical Studies:

1. Successful students will critically investigate and analyze historical ideas, events, persons, material culture, and artifacts to understand how they shape society and people.

Expected Learning Outcomes - Historical Studies:

1. Successful students are able to:
 - 1.1. Identify, differentiate, and analyze primary and secondary sources related to historical events, periods, or ideas.
 - 1.2. Use methods and theories of historical inquiry to describe and analyze the origin of at least one selected contemporary issue.
 - 1.3. Use historical sources and methods to construct an integrated perspective on at least one historical period, event, or idea that influences human perceptions, beliefs, and behaviors.
 - 1.4. Evaluate social and ethical implications in historical studies.

This course engages with historical texts from the United States that are pivotal to understanding the core ideals of the nation while comparing and contrasting them with comparable concepts from ancient Egypt. Through the close reading of primary (in translation for the ancient texts) and secondary sources students will analyze their subject matter, function, and meaning as well as the historical factors—political, social, and cultural alike—that contributed to their creation. The interdisciplinary nature of this course is foundational as it presents the social-historical context as integral to an understanding of cultural ideas and developments between two undeniably distinct civilizations. Additionally, this course will provide opportunities for students to reflect on cross-cultural comparisons between the civilizations covered as well as with their present-day contexts. The lectures, readings, and other assignments are designed to enhance students' overall critical thinking skills when examining historical documents and eras. By the end of this course, students will have developed an analytical and interpretive vocabulary that can be applied to a wide range of historical sources found in other courses and disciplines.

How this online course works

Mode of delivery

This course is 100% online. There are no required sessions when you must be logged in to Carmen at a scheduled time.

Pace of online activities

Each week, students will be expected to watch posted recorded lectures and/or videos (2 hours per week) and read the assigned primary and secondary documents (2 hours per week). Each lecture will begin with a recap of the previous lecture's material and an outline of what students should expect from the new material. Beginning in Week 3, students will have either a written assignment or a quiz to assess their understanding of the material covered (3 hours per week to be allotted for preparing for and completing the assessments). These assessments must be completed by 11:59pm on the Sunday concluding that week. Each week, students are expected to participate in an online discussion with their peers (1 hour) where they will engage with the week's materials from recorded lectures, videos, and readings. Videos explaining how to complete each type of assignment will be provided.

Credit hours and work expectations

This is a 3-credit-hour course. According to Ohio State policy (go.osu.edu/credithours), students should expect around 9 hours of engagement with the class each week to receive a grade of (C) average. Actual hours spent will vary by student learning habits and the assignments each week.

Participation requirements

Because this is an online course, your attendance is based on your online activity and participation. The following is a summary of students' expected participation:

Participating in online activities

Each week, students are expected to participate in an online discussion with their peers where they will engage with the week's materials from recorded lectures, videos, and readings. Each student is required to make one substantive (200-300 words) post responding to the week's prompt, and to actively engage with the other students' posts including the following for all of the assigned readings:

1. At least one thoughtful comment about what you learned from the readings and discussions.
2. At least one engaging question you still have about the topics discussed.
3. At least one substantial response to one of your fellow students' comments/questions.

To receive credit, you must post each week no later than Sunday by 11:59pm to the discussion board on Carmen. The rubric for how your discussions will be graded is included with the assignments in Carmen.

Office hours and live sessions (optional)

There will not be any live scheduled events for the course. If you need to schedule a live office hours session with me, please email me and we will schedule a meeting.

Course communication guidelines

Students can expect to be able to communicate with the Professor through a live discussion board that will also serve as primary office hours. This discussion board will be visible to the entire class. If a student needs to speak with me about an issue that they do not want to share with the entire class, the student should email me directly (schellinger.1@osu.edu) and we will arrange a time to meet via Zoom.

Writing style

Students are expected to use proper grammar and spelling in all written works including but not limited to emails to the Professor, the online discussion board, written assignments, etc. Students should also remember that when addressing the Professor, they should maintain a formal writing style as they are not contacting a peer.

Tone and civility

It is imperative that there be an atmosphere of trust and safety in any classroom, whether in-person or online. It is my goal to foster an environment in which each student is able to be heard and respected. It is critical that each student shows respect to others even in an online classroom. Please let me know if something is said or done that is particularly troubling or causes discomfort or offense. While the intention may not be to cause discomfort or offense, the impact of what happens throughout the course is not to be ignored and is something that I consider to be very important and deserving of attention.

If I notice that students are not being civil to each other, particularly in the online discussions, the offending students will be required to meet with me via Zoom to discuss their behavior. If the behavior does not improve following the meeting, the instructor will block the student from participating in online discussions which will impact the student's course grade.

Citing your sources

Students are expected to cite all sources in course assessments using the Chicago Manual of Style. Information about this citation style can be found here.

Protecting and saving your work

It is highly encouraged that students compose their assignments in documents or word processing tools outside of Carmen where they can ensure their work will be saved. This will ensure your work gets backed up in case you encounter any issues with browser time-outs, failed submission attempts, or lack of internet connectivity.

Description of major course assignments

Quizzes

- Description

There will be six (6) quizzes throughout the semester, approximately every other week on Fridays. These quizzes are designed to encourage continuous review of the material and will test your grasp of the readings, concepts, terms, and historical contexts (United States and Ancient Egypt) that we have covered. They will feature a variety of question types, including multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, matching, and short answer. Your lowest quiz grade will be dropped.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

Quizzes will be taken on Carmen, and you are only allowed one (1) attempt. Once a quiz has been started, students cannot pause and restart it at a later time. It is your responsibility to ensure your internet connection is stable and your device is fully charged to prevent disruptions during the quizzes. Each student is expected to complete the quizzes on their own. No collaboration with other students is permitted. Quizzes are also closed book and closed notes. Use of outside resources to complete the quizzes is strictly prohibited. If a student is suspected of consulting other students or outside resources, they may be charged with academic misconduct. To ensure academic integrity, this course uses Honorlock, students are expected to accept the terms and conditions prior to beginning the quizzes.

Writing Assignments

- Description

You will complete six (6) written assignments (500-600 words each) approximately every other week. These assignments will follow a variety of formats designed to improve your observational, descriptive, and analytical skills. Several will take the form of short essays on the United States primary sources we have examined while others will have you analyze primary sources (in translation) from ancient Egypt. The rubric for how your assignments will be graded is included with the assignment instructions in Carmen. Your lowest assignment grade will be dropped.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

All student assignments will be submitted through Turnitin, an online plagiarism checker which compares each student writing with others submitted for the course, and for other courses at Ohio State and other universities and educational institutions nationwide. Student written work, including papers, short writings, projects, and exams are to be researched and written by each individual student and should not be completed as group work unless otherwise indicated. Use of AI, unless authorized by the Professor, is strictly prohibited and constitutes plagiarism. If a student is suspected of using AI or other students to complete the written assignments, they may be charged with academic misconduct.

To receive credit, you must submit each writing assignment no later than Sunday by 11:59pm on Carmen.

Online Discussions and Reflection Video

○ Description

This course assumes an interactive approach in its structure and in its presentation, which requires engaged participation from all members of the class. You are required to participate in weekly discussions of the assigned readings by posting weekly to the discussion board. This includes soliciting questions and comments from peers and professors, engaging in meaningful conversation, and actively engaging with your classmates' posts. Each student is required to make one substantive (200-300 words) post responding to the week's prompt, and to actively engage with the other students' posts including the following for all of the assigned readings:

1. At least one thoughtful comment about what you learned from the readings and discussions.
2. At least one engaging question you still have about the topics discussed.
3. At least one substantial response to one of your fellow students' comments/questions.

To receive credit, you must post each week no later than Sunday by 11:59pm to the discussion board on Carmen. The rubric for how your discussions will be graded is included with the assignments in Carmen.

Instead of online discussion posts during the last week of class, students will create and upload a video (for the Professor's viewing only). These videos (5-6 minutes in length) should focus on how a government's response to events and ideas, as presented in the primary and secondary documents covered in the course, have influenced people's perceptions, beliefs, and behaviors in both ancient and modern times, with particular emphasis on their own lives and lived experiences. Students are expected to cite specific topics, readings, and discussion points from the entire semester to support their statements. An instructional video about how to record and upload your video will be posted to Carmen.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

Students are expected to prepare the content of their videos on their own. Students are expected to be visible in their videos. The use of AI, or AI-generated images, including modifications to them as a person, is not permitted on this assignment. If a student is suspected of using AI, or AI-generated images, to complete their video, they may be charged with academic misconduct.

Final Exam (cumulative)

- Description

- There will be a final exam held during the university-appointed finals week. This exam will be cumulative to assesses your proficiency with the required United States documents covered throughout the semester. The format is closed book and closed notes and will consist of several types of questions including multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, matching, short answer, and essay questions. As with the quizzes, you are only allowed one (1) attempt. It is your responsibility to ensure your internet connection is stable and your device is fully charged to prevent disruptions during the final exam.

- Academic integrity and collaboration guidelines

The Final Exam will be taken on Carmen, and you are only allowed one (1) attempt. The exam will be available for a 24-hour window and must be completed within 75 minutes. Once the exam has been started, students cannot pause and restart it at a later time. It is your responsibility to ensure your internet connection is stable and your device is fully charged to prevent disruptions during the exam. Each student is expected to complete the exam on their own. No collaboration with other students is permitted. The Final Exam is also closed book and closed notes. Use of outside resources to complete the exam is strictly prohibited. If a student is suspected of consulting other students or outside resources, they may be charged with academic misconduct. To ensure academic integrity, this course uses Honorlock, students are expected to accept the terms and conditions prior to beginning the exam.

Academic policies

Academic integrity policy

See Descriptions of major course assignments, above, for my specific guidelines about collaboration and academic integrity in the context of this online class.

It is the responsibility of the Committee on Academic Misconduct to investigate or establish procedures for the investigation of all reported cases of student academic misconduct. The term “academic misconduct” includes all forms of student academic misconduct wherever committed; illustrated by, but not limited to, cases of plagiarism and dishonest practices in connection with examinations. Instructors shall report all instances of alleged academic misconduct to the committee (Faculty Rule 3335-5-487). For additional information, see the Code of Student Conduct:

<http://studentlife.osu.edu/csc/>

If I suspect that a student has committed academic misconduct in this course, I am obligated by university rules to report my suspicions to the Committee on Academic Misconduct. If COAM determines that you have violated the university's Code of Student Conduct (i.e., committed academic misconduct), the sanctions for the misconduct could include a failing grade in this course and suspension or dismissal from the university.

If you have any questions about the above policy or what constitutes academic misconduct in this course, please contact me.

Intellectual diversity

Ohio State is committed to fostering a culture of open inquiry and intellectual diversity within the classroom. This course will cover a range of information and may include discussions or debates about controversial issues, beliefs, or policies. Any such discussions and debates are intended to support understanding of the approved curriculum and relevant course objectives rather than promote any specific point of view. Students will be assessed on principles applicable to the field of study and the content covered in the course. Preparing students for citizenship includes helping them develop critical thinking skills that will allow them to reach their own conclusions regarding complex or controversial matters.

Your mental health

As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance or reduce a student's ability to participate in daily activities. The Ohio State University offers services to assist you with addressing these and other concerns you may be experiencing. If you or someone you know are suffering from any of the aforementioned conditions, you can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Office of Student Life's Counseling and Consultation Service (CCS) by visiting ccs.osu.edu or calling 614-292-5766. CCS is located on the 4th Floor of the Younkin Success Center and 10th Floor of Lincoln Tower. You can reach an on-call counselor when CCS is closed at 614-292-5766 and 24 hour emergency help is also available 24/7 by dialing 988 to reach the Suicide and Crisis Lifeline.

Religious accommodations

Ohio State has had a longstanding practice of making reasonable academic accommodations for students' religious beliefs and practices in accordance with applicable law. In 2023, Ohio State updated its practice to align with new state legislation. Under this new provision, students must be in early communication with their instructors regarding any known accommodation requests for religious beliefs and practices, providing notice of specific dates for which they request alternative accommodations within 14 days after the first instructional day of the course. Instructors in turn shall not question the sincerity of a student's religious or spiritual belief system in reviewing such requests and shall keep requests for accommodations confidential.

With sufficient notice, instructors will provide students with reasonable alternative accommodations with regard to examinations and other academic requirements with respect to students' sincerely held religious beliefs and practices by allowing up to three absences each semester for the student to attend or participate in religious activities. Examples of religious accommodations can include, but are not limited to, rescheduling an exam, altering the time of a student's presentation, allowing make-up assignments to substitute for missed class work, or flexibility in due dates or research responsibilities. If concerns arise about a requested accommodation, instructors are to consult their tenure initiating unit head for assistance.

A student's request for time off shall be provided if the student's sincerely held religious belief or practice severely affects the student's ability to take an exam or meet an academic requirement and the student has notified their instructor, in writing during the first 14 days after the course begins, of the date of each absence. Although students are required to provide notice within the first 14 days after a course begins, instructors are strongly encouraged to work with the student to provide a reasonable accommodation if a request is made outside the notice period. A student may not be penalized for an absence approved under this policy.

If students have questions or disputes related to academic accommodations, they should contact their course instructor, and then their department or college office. For questions or to report discrimination or harassment based on religion, individuals should contact the Office of Civil Rights Compliance: <https://civilrights.osu.edu/>

GE Foundation Courses

Overview

Courses that are accepted into the General Education (GE) Foundations provide introductory or foundational coverage of the subject of that category. Additionally, each course must meet a set of Expected Learning Outcomes (ELO). Courses may be accepted into more than one Foundation, but ELOs for each Foundation must be met. It may be helpful to consult your Director of Undergraduate Studies or appropriate support staff person as you develop and submit your course.

This form contains sections outlining the ELOs of each Foundation category. You can navigate between them using the Bookmarks function in Acrobat. Please enter text in the boxes to describe how your class meets the ELOs of the Foundation(s) to which it applies. Because this document will be used in the course review and approval process, you should use language that is clear and concise and that colleagues outside of your discipline will be able to follow. Please be as specific as possible, listing concrete activities, specific theories, names of scholars, titles of textbooks etc. Your answers will be evaluated in conjunction with the syllabus submitted for the course.

Accessibility

If you have a disability and have trouble accessing this document or need to receive the document in another format, please reach out to Meg Daly at daly.66@osu.edu or call 614-247-8412.

- Course credit hours align with estimated average weekly time to complete the course successfully.
- Course includes regular substantive interaction well-suited to the learning environment at a frequency and engagement level appropriate to the course.

Provide a brief outline of a typical course week, categorizing course activities and estimating the approximate time to complete them or participate (required):

- In the case of course delivery change requests, the course demonstrates comparable rigor in meeting course learning outcomes.

Accessibility

See Creating an Accessible Course for more information. For tools and training on accessibility: Digital Accessibility Services.

- Instructor(s) teaching the course will have taken Digital Accessibility training (starting in 2022) and will ensure all course materials and activities meet requirements for diverse learners, including alternate means of accessing course materials when appropriate.
- Information is provided about the accessibility of all technologies required in the course. All third-party tools (tools without campus-wide license agreements) have their accessibility statements included.

Description of any anticipated accommodation requests and how they have been/will be addressed.

Additional comments (optional):

Frequent, Varied Assignments/Assessments

For more information: Designing Assessments for Students.

Student success in online courses is maximized when there are frequent, varied learning activities. Possible approaches:

- Opportunities for students to receive course information through a variety of different sources, including indirect sources, such as textbooks and lectures, and direct sources, such as scholarly resources and field observation.
- Variety of assignment formats to provide students with multiple means of demonstrating learning.
- Opportunities for students to apply course knowledge and skills to authentic, real-world tasks in assignments.

Community Building

For more information: Student Interaction Online and Creating Community on Your Online Course

Students engage more fully in courses when they have an opportunity to interact with their peers and feel they are part of a community of learners. Possible approaches:

- Opportunities for students to interact academically with classmates through regular class discussion or group assignments.
- Opportunities for students to interact socially with classmates, such as through video conference sessions or a course Q&A forum.
- Attention is paid to other ways to minimize transactional distance (psychological and communicative gaps between students and their peers, instructor, course content, and institution).

Transparency and Metacognitive Explanations

For more information: Increasing Transparency and Metacognition

Students have successful, meaningful experiences when they understand how the components of a course connect together, when they have guidance on how to study, and when they are encouraged to take ownership of their learning. Possible approaches:

- Instructor explanations about the learning goals and overall design or organization of the course.
- Context or rationale to explain the purpose and relevance of major tasks and assignments.

- Guidance or resources for ancillary skills necessary to complete assignments, such as conducting library research or using technology tools.
- Opportunities for students to take ownership or leadership in their learning, such as by choosing topics of interest for an assignment or leading a group discussion or meeting.
- Opportunities for students to reflect on their learning process, including their goals, study strategies, and progress.
- Opportunities for students to provide feedback on the course.

I am returning the signed Distance Approval Cover Sheet after completing the review of the distance learning syllabus and cover sheet. Below are my comments regarding the syllabus.

1. Instructor Presence and Regular Substantiative Interaction (RSI):

Regular and substantiative interaction will exist on a regular weekly basis in the course between the instructor and students that includes:

- Direct instruction (2 hr. recorded lecture videos each week)
- Instructor assessing and providing weekly feedback on student's course work and assignments
- Facilitating group discussion (required weekly discussion board posts monitored and graded by the instructor and required responses to other student posts)
- Instructor providing opportunities to ask questions on content of course through email, discussion board posts and live office hours

2. How this Online Course Works

This section provides direction for the students so they are aware of what they will be expected to complete each week and how they will interact with the instructor in this online course.

4. Credit hours and work expectations

The information in the syllabus and cover sheet states the total amount of time to be spent on this course with direct and indirect instruction is an average of 9 hours minimum per week. This is correct for a 3 cr hr, 14-week course.

5. Description of Major Assignments

All major assignments are clearly explained.
