Letter of Concurrence, Political Sciences courses 470 and 670

Dear Ms. Lee:

The Department has looked into the two courses offered. After some deliberations, we feel that the two courses, as they appear through their syllabi, basically replicate our own CL505 "Political Thought and Institutions in the Greco-Roman World." Our course focuses usually on Plato and Aristotle, as the two new courses do; their medieval component is so small that it does not constitute a significant difference. We thus do not think that we can grant concurrence. But we are perfectly willing to talk to the Department of Political Science whether an interested member of their faculty would be willing to teach this course from time.

Yours sincerely
